TOMB FIND MAY REVEAL NEW TALE OF ANCIENTS

Symbol on Ring From Sarcophagus Believed to be That of King Preceding Tut-Ankh-Amen

BY COUNT BYRON DE PROROK
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EXCAVATION CAMP, UTICA (Tunisia) March 26.—Gleaming with the rich color which thirty centuries of aging can produce, a gold seal ring appeared in the powdery dust of a large Punic sarcophagus we opened here today. That little bauble which was so curiously gained easily is the most interesting find we have made so far this season. It may shake the traditional date for the founding of Utica, making it even earlier than the twentieth century, B. C.

The find may throw valuable light on the extension of Egyptian influence, for this ring is not Phoenician, it is Egyptian, and the symbol its seal bears is believed to be that of Tehutimes III, who reigned before Tut-Ankh-Amen and was famed for his explorations.

One ring, even though backed up as this one is by amulets carved with the same exquisite workmanship, does not, of course, in itself disclose any fact, but it does start many trains of thought which may bring us to other evidence and unexpected conclusions.

For the present I must leave the story of how this ring came from Egypt to this faraway anonymous tomb to the romanticists whose imaginations the subject may well fascinate. The only definite statement we can now make is that it is certainly the oldest object yet found here, and that, though small, the ring is archaelogically a most important object.

THREE FINDS

The thing which has made the countryside around once populous Utica throng again to the now-buried city is the fact that we discovered yesterday three big Punic sarcophagi. They have all been found twelve to fifteen feet under the surface where a few days ago droves of pigs were rooting for food—disturbing the mighty men of Utica no more than Omar's wild ass awakened Bahram, that great hunter.

It is small wonder, for all three tombs are carved out of single blocks of sandstone, more than a yard square and eight feet and a half long, with walls a foot thick and a lid twenty inches through.

The sarcophagus containing the ring was found cracked in two. Above it at the foot was an empty pottery amphora, forty inches high, capable of holding more than ten gallons of liquid food, which, it is believed, was originally placed there for the dead. Such an amphora is not usually found with sarcophagi of this kind.

Lying on the lid of the tomb was another valuable relic, a miniature Punic column of ivory six inches long, which is unique in our collection.

TRIAL ENDS IN CLASHES

Teapot Lawyers in Word Battles

Oral Arguments in Oil Lease Case Concluded After Warm Exchanges

Judge to Await Briefs from Opposing Counsel Before Giving Decision

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) March 26. The die of unknown shape which will mold the Teapot Dome controversy into its final form is cast. The case ended shortly before noon here today in United States District Court, and Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy will await the filing of briefs both by the government and the defense before he decides whether Harry F. Sinclair shall relinquish his lease on the Wyoming naval oil reserve.

The case came to an end in a fiery spurt of argument between Owen J. Roberts, government attorney, and counsel for the defense—the Mammoth Oil Company. After thirteen days of tranquility, in which about 1,500,000 words were put into the record of the case, the high tension verbal exchange marked the fourteenth day as the only exciting one in the trial.

The argument between counsel started when Mr. Roberts in his final argument accused Martin W. Littleton of defense counsel of going outside the record in the case when he addressed the court yesterday and declared that government counsel "had put the mustard plaster of silence across the mouths of Sinclair and Albert B. Fall," former Secretary of the Interior, who executed the lease to the oil company, in speaking of the indictments against them in Washington.

CITES TESTIMONY

Mr. Littleton objected and called attention of the court to the testimony of M. T. Everhart, son-in-law and partner of Fall, who was called to the stand by the government and partially sustained by Judge Kennedy in refusing to answer questions on the ground that he might incriminate himself.

Mr. Roberts apologized to Mr. Littleton then and went on with his argument, flaying the defense for its failure to call to the stand Edwin Denby, former Secretary of the Navy.

Mr. Littleton then protested that Mr. Roberts himself had gone outside the record in the case in referring to a remark in which Mr. Roberts made reference to Denby's testimony before a Senate investigating committee.

Mr. Roberts disputed the contention of the defense, saying that Mr. Denby had been subpoenaed for the case. Mr. Littleton denied this and said he had merely notified Mr. Roberts that he had intended to subpoena the former Navy Department head.

"You had better take that back," said Littleton, referring to a remark of Mr. Roberts about Denby's Senate testimony.

"I don't think I will," retorted Mr. Roberts.

APPEALS TO JUDGE

Mr. Littleton then appealed to Judge Kennedy, who pacified both attorneys by saying that since the case had gone all but to its end without trouble, there was no reason for starting it at that time.

Mr. Roberts then turned and finished his argument. He declared that the Act of Congress of June 4, 1920, under which the leasing of the naval oil reserves was made possible was merely an enabling act and permitted the Secretary of the Navy to act only within a degree of discretion. The defense, he said, regarded the 1920 act as a law unto itself that permitted the Navy Secretary to "legislate as he pleased."

The government was given fifteen days in which to submit its brief of the case and the defense allowed another fifteen.

Harry F. Sinclair and his party of attorneys, including Mr. Littleton, George P. Hoover, Washington, R. W. Ragland of New York, and E. H. Chandler of Tulsa, were to leave Cheyenne late tonight in a private car.

Government counsel, Mr. Roberts, who lives in Philadelphia, and Atlee Pomerene, former Ohio Senator, also will depart late tonight for their homes.

AIR'S CONQUEST BREEDS NEW FOE OF WARSHIP

Navy Must Reckon With Bomber as Well as Submarine in Plans for Future Warfare

(This is the fifth of a series of articles on the aircraft controversy, obtained especially for The Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

BY WILL IRWIN

[Copyright, 1925, in United States, Canada and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

"The battleship is still lord of the waters," says the general board of our Navy. "The battleship is passing," says Rear-Admiral Sims, retired. "The battleship is already a back number," says Gen. Mitchell of the Air Service. And there you are—the experts disagreeing on a question which none can decide except experts—or the issue of battle. Even before the great war, naval men were debating this issue; a faction questioned whether the submarine, imperfect as it was in those days, could not master any surface vessel.

The war seemed to prove that the battleship remained monarch of the seas; comparatively speaking, the submarine was powerless against her. Still, the radicals submit, undersea craft did not have a fair showing in the Battle of Jutland, the one square stand-up naval fight of the war. Germany was using her submarines as commerce destroyers. Had she massed them against the British fleet in this action no one knows what might have happened.

And the lessons of Jutland were no sooner digested than the navies paid tribute to the assassin of the sea depths by reinforcing the hulls of their capital ships with special water-tight compartment and "blisters." Toward the end of the war, too, the Germans carried undersea construction one stride forward with their "submarine cruisers." British constructors, since the war, have gone farther still. Their latest submarines have a seagoing range of 6000 miles, passable surface speed and eight-inch guns.

In one feature, perhaps more important than fleet action, the submarine proved its usefulness to the new warfare. It was altogether the most vicious commerce destroyer known to history. The Germans never kept in action at any time more than thirty commerce-destroying submarines, and those of a type now considered archaic. Yet in the spring of 1917 they all but starved out the British Isles.

So far as concerned war on merchantmen they had the British and French navies, somewhat reinforced by Italian and Japanese units, thoroughly beaten. Only the arrival of the Americans and the adoption of the convoy system tipped the scale. Even at that the sinking went on, a handicap and a deadly menace.

Admiral Von Tirpitz came out of the war a Cassandra with a double twist. His government listened to him when he advocated a policy which would bring the United

JARDINE OUTLINES POLICY

Has no Panacea for Farm Ills, But Advances "Simple Principles We All Can Talk About"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Warning that confusion results from discussion of too many ways of helping the farmer, Secretary Jardine today outlined "a few simple principles that we all can talk about."

"I have no panacea for agricultural relief," he emphasized, "and I don't believe that anybody has.

"The most painful period of readjustment is now over and prospects look much brighter for the farmer," he declared, "there is real encouragement in the progress that has been made during the past two or three years. We can look to the future with confidence, but we must recognize that there are many phases of the agricultural situation that still challenge the best thought of the nation."

Co-operative marketing and standardization of agricultural production, he held, are necessary to eliminate waste, which he regards as partly responsible for the spread of prices between producers and consumers.

Balanced production also is essential, he said, and he advised farmers in the Northwestern States to devote some acreage now used for growing wheat to producing flax. This country will need about 10,000,000 bushels more of flaxseed this year than it produced last year, he explained.

Regarding reorganization of the Agricultural Department which began soon after the Secretary took office with the resignation of two bureau officials, Mr. Jardine said he hoped "to be making changes as long as I am here." He is casting about, he added, for "the best live-stock man I can get" to succeed Chester Morrill, who resigned as head of the packers' and stockyards' adminstration.

For some weeks a report that Mrs. Coolidge is expecting again to become a mother has been in circulation here. Nothing has come from the White House to confirm or deny the rumor but the fact that Mrs. Goodhue has remained here since the inauguration is accepted in some quarters as evidence that the report is well founded.

President and Mrs. Coolidge are planning to pass a quiet summer at the seashore and it has been reported Mrs. Goodhue will accompany them.

WORK GIVES YUMA AID

Reclamation Debt Written Off

Millions for Construction Will be Charged to Profit and Loss

Party in Imperial Valley Today; Due to Arrive Here on Monday

BY BURTON L. SMITH
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA (Ariz.) March 26.—Ranchers whose lands lie within the Yuma Reclamation District are $3,280,000 richer because of the visit of Secretary of the Interior Hubert C. Work, who has just completed a two days' inspection of the project and who, with Dr. Elwood Mead, United States Commissioner of Reclamation, will leave early tomorrow to inspect the irrigation system of Imperial Valley.

The Secretary did not present the Yuma ranchers with so large an amount of money as a present from the government, but this afternoon let it be known that his department would charge off as an item in the profit-and-loss column two large sums which have stood charged to the district and in reality represented incumbrances on the land. This sum is in addition to $2,900,000 direct appropriations made by the last Congress.

When the construction of the Yuma project was fixed there was an additional expenditure for levees and other improvements amounting to $2,7000,000 that was not charged, but was afterward added to the liabilities of the district. Another item of $580,000 represents the cost of the Gila Valley levees and construction done in the North and South Gila valleys before these units were eliminated from the project.

SECRETARY'S STATEMENT

After finishing his inspection today and as a sequence to many remarks showing the department heads approve of all that has been done in Yuma Valley and the adjoining mesa, Secretary Work said:

"This construction account and the one referring to the Gila Valley levees will be charged off to profit and loss and in no event will the Yuma county water users ever be asked to repay to the government any part of these two items." The Secretary added later in the afternoon the fact that it will not be necessary for the board of review to come to Yuma to investigate these two matters as the Reclamation Service was thoroughly familiar with all of the facts, and without further action of any kind by the Yuma County Water Users' Association, these two items may be forgotten with the assurance that "the books at Washington will be cleaned to the last dollar."

At a banquet tonight given in the dining-rooms of the Southern Pacific Hotel, officers of the Water Users' Association, Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations thanked the Secretary and the government for the unusual interest displayed in the Yuma district, giving assurance of the deep appreciation of all the varied interests which are directly benefited.

VISITS YUMA VALLEY

Secretary Work and Dr. Mead, escorted by a large committee of local citizens, were taken for an automobile tour through the richest and best developed part of the Yuma Valley this morning. Their trip was through Somerton to Gadsden, where the large pumping plant on the border was inspected. The party returned to Yuma on

DEAL ON GAS TAX FAILS

Advocates' Plan Collapses

Highway Log-Rolling to Gain Support for Increase is Nipped by Governor

Senator Breed Abandons His Compromise Idea; Senate Passes Budget Bill

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—Developments at today's session of the Legislature seemed to indicate that negotiations which were under way to compromise the issues surrounding the Breed road-financing program have broken down and that the contest over the gas-tax increase bill has been revived.

Gov. Richardson in a formal statement voiced his opposition to the plan of itemizing in road bills all contemplated expenditures, which was said to have been the concession that opponents to the Breed bills had exacted as the consideration for permitting the gasoline increase to pass.

The Governor declared that direction of the expenditure of the funds should be left to the discretion of the Highway Commission. He stated that the attempt by the Legislature to allot to special routes specific amounts would put State highway construction on a pork-barrel basis, making it a matter of political trades.

ADMITS HIS ERROR

Senator A. H. Breed, President pro tem of the Senate and chairman of the Committee of Nine, also made a statement in which he candidly confessed error in having agreed to a proposal to have the highway expenditures budgeted and stated that he had changed his views so that his opinions now are similar to those expressed by the Chief Executive.

Under the terms of the compromise which was under way, the Bay Shore Highway was to have been given $1,500,000 for financing of construction the ensuing biennium. The San Francisco delegation, however, had failed to approve this tender, withholding definite answer as to their attitude on the Breed bills.

At the time the Governor's statement was being given out for publication the Senate was engaged in passing the amended budget bill which contained aggregate totals of approximately $28,000,000 for highway construction bringing the grand total of the budget to between $144,000,000 and $159,000,000, the former figures being those of the administration and the latter those of Senator Jones, Santa Clara, who is opposed to the administration.

The Senate Revenues and Taxation Committee, which had been scheduled to meet late in the day to consider the Breed bill to make the State tax on gasoline 3 cents a gallon instead of 2 as at present abandoned its meeting, no agreement having been reached by the members which would furnish a common ground for agreement.

GOVERNOR'S STATEMENT

The Governor's statement follows:

"I have full confidence in the integrity, business ability and judgment of the Highway Commission. The State is fortunate in having such men as Harveg M. Toy, Louis Everding and Nelson T. Edwards upon the commission. It is fortunate in having an able, skilled and honest State Highway Engineer like Robert M. Morton. During the past two years, these men have handled State highway problems in a manner generally satisfactory to the people. Great progress has been made in road building and the type of construction has been much improved. The road prob-

State Senate Committee Refuses to Approve Finney Resolution; Submitted Without Recommendation

BY KYLE D. PALMER
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—The Finney reservation to the six-State Colorado River compact, adopted by the Assembly last week, was refused approval by the Senate Federal Relations Committee today, the provisional ratification bill being reported out of committee without recommendation.

The committee agreed to submit the matter without recommendation only after Senator Swing, chief supporter of the Finney resolution, promised to delay further action until Thursday, April 2. This promise was exacted in order that representatives of the other signatory States may be heard from.

The hearing of the Senate committee today was in marked contrast to consideration given the compact by the Assembly, where politics and an admitted lack of understanding of the issues involved featured several hours of debate.

ADMITS PURPOSE

Under a fire of dispassionate but insistent questioning from members of the Senate committee, Assemblyman Finney admitted that his resolution is designed to force Congress to construct a dam in the Colorado River with an all-American canal as an adjunct.

Attorney Childers of Imperial, law partner of Congressman Swing and one of the chief proponents of the Swing-Johnson All-American canal bill, likewise admitted that the Finney reservation may destroy the compact and that this view of the matter probably will be taken by the Governors of the other interested States.

Mr. Childers said that supporters of the Finney resolution prefer destruction of the compact to unconditional ratification, asserting that ratification by California without reservation will impair Imperial Valley water rights.

His contention was energetically denied by State Engineer McClure, Atty.-Gen. Webb, Asst. Atty.-Gen. McKisick, Mark L. Requa, former Federal fuel administrator, and in a telegram from Secretary of Commerce Hoover. All of those having technical or legal information

WARSHIP'S FOE BREEDS IN AIR

Future Defense Plans Must Reckon With Bomber

Menace from Skies Adds to Naval Controversy

States into the struggle—and thereby lost the war. Had they listened when he cried, "Submarines, submarines, and yet more submarines!" they might have won the war.

Now comes a new peril to the battleship. Attacked from the surface of the seas and from under the seas, it is attacked from the air. Bombing planes have increased in range, bombing devices in power, bombing fire in accuracy. Tests in Great Britain and the United States have proved that the airplane, even if it has not rendered the battleship obsolete, can complicate the task of a commander in action. Regarding the extent of the menace, there is a virulent difference of opinion. I will reserve consideration of that complicated question for another installment.

One thing stands proved—the necessity for putting on capital ships airplanes of the observation and scouting type. The one will direct the fire in action; the other will spy out the enemy. When this proposal was first made, certain conservative sea-dogs swore they would never have those contraptions on their ships. They have yielded since not only to superior authority, but to the logic of the situation. An airplane hovering over the objective, informing the gunner by wireless where each shot is falling, will be just as useful and necessary to sea artillery as to land artillery.

And the scouting plane has become indispensable to naval plans of strategy. In old times, as in our Spanish War, the admiral looking for an enemy could see only as far from his own ship as the curve of the horizon permitted; a range of twenty or thirty miles.

Now, with the airplane scouring the air above the seas, he can in practical effect see hundreds of miles. Every battleship of our fleet now carries three airplanes. By way of launching them with economy of space, we have of late perfected—after one sad failure—a type of catapult superior to anything else of its kind. Reasonably conservative naval authorities say that in naval airplane equipment we are at least equal and perhaps superior to the British—the century-old criterion for navies.

Except in one point. The British, expressing their advanced knowledge of naval technique, rapidly are building airplane carriers as auxiliaries to the fleet. When existing programs are completed, we shall have two, they will have seven. And they have made one startling departure from established naval ideas. Two of the seven are new fighting ships, building under the replacement clause of the Washington naval agreement.

They are curious compromises between the past and future. Battleships before, they will be airplane carriers behind. Their foredecks will show the familiar turrets with the gaping big guns. Their after decks will be platforms for launching and landing some fifty or sixty airplanes. They could fight a bow action in the line of battle; they would be handicapped in a beam action; they could not, with their guns at least, do anything in a runaway action. Mention these ships nowadays in naval circles and you start an argument!

One thing seems certain. Even counting out naval bombing as a factor, a fleet without airplane carrier ships as auxiliaries would stand little chance against one so equipped. The more imaginative naval critics believe that any major action would be preceded by a general battle in the air; perhaps hundreds of miles in advance of the fleets.

The winner in this engagement would then hold an overwhelming advantage. He could "spot" for his own guns; the enemy could not. He could maneuver at will below the horizon line, and the enemy could no more tell what he was doing than Napoleon could tell that Blucher was coming up at Waterloo.

Fleet-airplanes are indispenable to battleship tactics; none so conservative now as to deny that. Most naval men would add that airplane carriers are therefore a prime necessity. Bombing, as I have said, is another matter, to be considered separately.

A motion by Senator Dennett of Modesto to refer the resolution out with favorable recommendation, seconded by Senator Swing, was defeated and a second motion for action without recommendation, made by Senator Swing, accompanied by a plea for the usual Senatorial courtesy in such matters, was adopted.

Opposing groups likewise were asked to submit briefs on the subject and these written arguments will be read to the Senate next Thursday.

During debate on the question, Mr. McKisick charged that the municipal ownership faction in Los Angeles is opposing unconditional ratification of the compact because of a desire to perfect power filing rights on the river—rights which the compact as designed by Secretary Hoover seeks to make secondary to agricultural and domestic use.

The Upper Basin States, according to Mr. McKisick, are worried by the tremendous power filings in the lower basin and their opposition to development in the lower basin can only be removed by adoption of the compact.

The assistant Attorney-General also told the Senate committee that States in the Upper Colorado River Basin are disposed to oppose construction of a high dam in the Colorado River because of a fear that such construction may impair their right to the use of water for agriculture.

"What this committee wants to know fundamentally," commented Senator Harris of Fresno, "is whether the compact is ratified or killed by the Finney reservation."

"Undoubtedly," replied Mr. McKisick, "if adopted with the Finney reservation, the compact is killed. From such information as I have from the other States, I believe the others will not ratify if California ratifies conditionally."

Mr. McKisick added that he believed the Finney reservation will antagonize other States and result in failure of the attempt to solve the Colorado River problem.

With no disposition to ascribe ulterior motives to those backing the Finney resolution, every development in this contest indicates plainly that the whole project is principally designed to furnish political ammunition to Senator Johnson and Congressman Swing in their efforts to obtain favorable consideration at Washington for the Swing-Johnson bill.

TOMB FIND MAY TELL NEW TALE

found. The thigh bones, buff-colored with age, were almost intact.

The first tomb opened yesterday, though unbroken, yielded treasure less important to science, but of certain human interest. Only two things were found within it, a bronze razor and bits of rouge, forming a peculiar combination suggesting to the facetious members of the party that the bobbed-hair fad is not so new as is thought.

There was nothing to show the sex of the person buried in the tomb. The only part of the skeleton remaining was the teeth, which still preserved the form of the jaw, though the bone which held them had turned to dust.

There is, unfortunately, no inscription on the tombs.

We hope to fully uncover and open the third one tomorrow.

Among the crowd present at the opening were my associate, Abbe Moulard, Count Jean De Chadennes-LaPalice, owner of the farm of which buried Utica forms a fraction; George R. Swain of the University of Michigan, Maj. F. C. Shorty of McGill University, Mrs. Edward Stoever of Paris and Countess Le Prorok.

DAY'S CYCLONE FUND $2099

Total Received by "Times" for Relief is $18,992; Grand Total for City is $24,086

Contributions to the relief fund for the Middle West tornado sufferers received yesterday from all reporting agencies was $2099, which brought the total to $24,086.07 donated by Los Angeles.

The Times Cyclone Relief Fund received $1894.50 in donations yesterday, raising the total received by The Times to $18,992.25. The Chamber of Commerce received $97.50 yesterday, making its total $2236.82. The American Red Cross chapter received yesterday $107.00, its total now being $857.00.

The Federation of State Societies sent $750 yesterday to the relief committee at Murphysboro, Ill., with the expectation that further contributions will be received from various societies.

BENEFIT GIVEN

The benefit dance at the Rose Room was largely attended last night by former residents of the devastated States, who contributed freely to the fund of the Illinois State Society. The Illinois society has its regular monthly meeting tonight at the Music-Arts Hall, 233 South Broadway, at which a special program in behalf of the sufferers will be conducted. Dr. Glen MacWilliams and others will address the meeting.

The Times will receive, acknowledge by publication, and forward to the proper authorities sums in any amount sent to this paper for the relief of the cyclone victims of the Middle West. Starting the fund with a contribution of $1000, The Times urges all to give to the extent of their ability, either through this paper or some other of the various relief agencies with which The Times is co-operating. Checks sent The Times should be made payable to The Times Cyclone Relief Fund. The list of yesterday's contributions follows:

ENVOY TO FINLAND QUITS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Charles L. Kagey, American Minister to Finland, has resigned and the resignation will be accepted.

PRAIRIE FLAMES OUT OF CONTROL

loss of the fires will be small unless it gains such a momentum as to destroy ranches.

Two or three minor fires were reported in the northeastern part of Nebraska, near O'Neill, but they were put out this noon. At Gregory, S. D., one report stated, the flames came to the edge of the town and was extinguished only after forty minutes of fighting by almost every resident of the town.

The fire in the O'Neill district was said to have started when a small brush-pile fire leaped from control.

HEAVY FARM LOSS IN FLAMES REPORTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WHITE RIVER (S. D.) March 26.—Three prairie fires were raging in the Rosebud Reservation tonight while ranchers and Indians were fighting desperately to check the flames. Three inland villages had been turned to ruins by blazes and one report received here told of a woman and two small children being burned to death at Tuthill, a small town in Bennett county.

The villages reported swept by the flames are Vetel, Tuthill and St. Francis. Heavy loss of farm and ranch property has been reported.

VIRTUALLY ALL OF RESERVATION BURNED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

RAPID CITY (S. D.) March 26. Virtually the entire Rosebud Reservation has been devastated and more than 100,000 acres in adjoining Nebraska have been burned by two prairie fires of huge proportions last night and today.

Small success so far has been attained in checking the flames by backfires. The latter method of fire fighting has proven ineffective because of the high winds.

A drought during the past few weeks left the grass on the plains of this section like tinder and the flames have spread with great rapidity.

Urgent calls for help have come from all the stricken sections and it is believed the fire will wreak a serious loss on the live-stock sections fo this region.

SITTING BULL'S GRAVE IS MENACED BY BLAZE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MILES CITY (Mont.) March 26 Prairie fires, raging in the Grand River territory in South Dakota, are threatening the grave of Sitting Bull, famous Indian medicine man, according to reports reaching here tonight.

The noted Indian met death at the hands of Lieut. Bull Head of Gen. Nelson Miles's command, on December 15, 1890, when he resisted arrest after refusing to give up practice of the traditional "ghost dance."

TEAPOT TRIAL ENDS IN CLASH

D. Rockefeller, Jr., tonight issued a statement explaining his attitude on the absence of three witnesses, all oil company executives, whose testimony the government is said to have wanted in the Teapot Dome trial. The statement is understood to be in answer to an editorial published in the New York World on March 23, which said in part:

"Mr. Rockefeller breakfasts at the White House and discusses law enforcement with the President. What does he intend to do in the case of his own company where officers and directors have failed in their duty toward the government?"

The missing witnesses are H. M. Blackmer, chairman of the board of Mid-West Refining Company, Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and James E. O'Neil, an official of the Prairie Oil and Gts Company.

The statement said:

"Only one of the men referred to is an officer of a company in which I am a stockholder. I have no definite knowledge of the facts in regard to his absence. I have done what I consider proper to bring the situation to his attention and have urged as strongly as my status as a minority stockholder warranted, that he take immediate steps to see that any just grounds for criticism were removed.

"It is as much the duty of the officers of a corporation, as it is of private citizens to observe both the letter and spirit of the law and in any company in which I am interested all the influence I have will be exerted to that end.

"As regards the situation in question, I give place to none in my desire that the public interests be fully conserved and that all possible steps be taken to right any wrong that may have been done."

GLORIA IS WELCOMED BY THRONG

Thousands Tender Actress Ovation as She Returns to Eastern Studio

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 26.—Gloria Swanson really "came home" this afternoon when a crowd of 5000 persons welcomed her back to the Paramount studio at Astoria, L. I.

Accompanied by a special police escort, Gloria and her husband, the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray, with Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky, arrived at the studio to find nearly all of Astoria massed around the entrance. The front of the big studio building was covered with flags and streamers and when Gloria alighted from her car there was such a rush of people that it engulfed the police and made it necessary to call out the reserves.

So overcome was Miss Swanson that she stood on the running-board of her car and wept for several minutes, while the crowd, including all of the Paramount stars and directors in the East cheered and called for a speech. Gloria was unable to talk, but later, inside the studio from the porch of her bungalow dressing-room, she made a brief address to the studio staff in which she told them how happy she was to be back among her friends and fellow-workers.

FEARS MENACE TO COAST TRADE

Los Angeles Man Sees Wool Rate Handicap

Boston Plea for Through Charges Argued

Brashear Asserts Industrial Growth Threatened

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 26.—Pacific Coast commerce will suffer, whether rail or marine, industrial expansion will be retarded and railroads will be adversely affected if the application of Boston wool interests for joint through rail and water rates is granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to testimony by witnesses today in the hearing here before Commisisoner J. B. Campbell of Washington, D. C.

H. R. Brashear, traffic manager of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and J. E. Davis, assistant general freight agent of the Union Pacific system, testified that the issues involved are of far greater scope than the one question of wool rates.

SPACE BASIS

Steamship lines serving Pacific Coast ports operate, to an extent, on a space-selling basis, Mr. Brashear said, explaining that certain space is allotted to Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles and San Francosco and that orders taken for shipment are limited to space available.

On a through joint rail and water basis, space probably could not be alotted, he continued. A reorganization of the shipping system would be necessary, he said, explaining that the amount of space might be available for shipments originating at a certain port could not be determined until after shipments of wool, sent from inland points on a through bill of lading, had reached the dock.

Brashear also declared that H. A. Davis, representing Boston interests in the rate matter, had ignored a request made by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce for exhibits which Davis had submitted in behalf of the Boston group.

The traffic manager charged that Los Angeles would be required to pay more for Northwestern wool than Boston under the proposed plan. By the through water and rail basis, it would cost but $1.76 to ship wool from Boise, Idaho, to Boston, as compared to $2.09 to ship it to Los Angeles. In that way would industrial expansion be handicapped, making it practically impossible for the estblishment of new woolen manufacturing institutions and making it difficult for present factories to compete with those of Boston.

So complete was the testimony of J. E. Davis in regard to the effect the proposed change would have on railroad prosperity, that testimony of other rail officials called was very brief. They, for the most part, took only time to submit exhibits and declare that they were in accord with Mr. Davis's opinions.

PRECEDENT FEARED

Adoption of the proposed policy would set a precedent for all traffic, Davis declared. The ultimate effect might be that all traffic originating within 700 miles of the Pacific Coast, designated to a point within 700 miles of the Atlantic coast, would move by the Panama Canal because of water rates, he added. The same situation would apply to similar traffic moving westward, he said.

Transcontinental lines, constructed for the purpose of handling traffic over long distances and giving an outlet for products of isolated communities, would then be compelled to exist on local traffic only, which would be an impossibility and the railroads would face disaster.

Davis expressed doubt as to the jurisdiction of the commission to establish joint rail and water rates because the commission now prohibits issuance of through bills of lading, except for joint use in export and import traffic.

The hearing in Portland is expected to close tomorrow, but will reopen in Chicago April 3.

Globe Attorney Chosen Veteran Service Officer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, March 26.—John A. Renoe, a Globe attorney and stepson of United States Senator Henry F. Ashurst, has been named by Gov. Hunt to be veteran service officer, a $3000 position, with an allowance of $10,000 created by the Legislature to help in handling veterans' claims on the Federal bureaus. The announcement was made in a letter addressed by the Governor to William N. Byrd, State Commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, with the statement:

"I do not feel that this appointment is in any way political. I have made my selection upon the recommendation of service men, rather than from political sources."

About 100 applications for the place are said to have been on file.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, March 26.—California is to be invaded in April by an Arizona caravan of twenty-five automobiles carrying 100 Phoenix business men, a brass band and a moving-picture outfit, according to plans of Manager H. B. Watkins of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce. The directors of the organization have approved and have placed President Fred J. Elliott in full charge of arrangements.

It is proposed to visit every city between San Diego and San Francisco and to hold meetings at which speakers will celebrate the advantages of life in Arizona and the beauties of the State.

WORK STRIKES OFF YUMA DEBT

one of the government trains on the road built on the levee and used for construction work. During this trip Secretary Work occupied a seat in the caboose attached to a tank car and the engine. The party arrived in the city in time to attend a luncheon tendered by the Kiwanis Club and which was attended by 150 leading business men and visitors.

Arthur N. Kelley, president of the Kiwanis Club and cashier of the First National Bank of Yuma, introduced Secretary Work by giving a short resume of his very busy life and voiced the sentiment that the present national administration was fortunate in choosing for the head of the Interior Department a man who does things and surrounds himself with doers.

In responding the Secretary reviewed in rapid manner the history of reclamation projects that have been undertaken by the general government.

RECLAMATION HISTORY

"There were at first twenty-eight of these projects," said Mr. Work. "Four have passed out of existence and only one has so far paid up all of its assessments. When I accepted my present position I did it with the thought in mind that I was in reality the receiver for all this apparently unprofitable business. I learned that in the twenty years which have passed since the government has undertaken reclamation work only 9 per cent of the money has been returned while it was the original intention that it would all be paid for during that period of time. In other words the government had gotten back 9 instead of 100 per cent of its original investment. The vast sum represented by the deficiency had been deferred and charged back to the various districts so that the land in many instances was now burdened to the extent which make success an impossibility.

"With these facts in mind, I constituted a committee of experts which I have called a fact finding committee who are making a survey to determine the actual selling value of all of the land so we can know just what can in fairness be returned to the government. When this standard is established we will go to Congress and get an entirely new set of laws so that we can charge off enough so that farmers can buy the lands, pay for them, and make for themselves homes, as was the original intention of the reclamation movement. The great trouble has been from two sources. First, in some places ambitious business men undertook to control large acreages and second, because as Congress had in the past deferred payments many ranchers took it for granted further extensions would be made and fell behind so far that to get even was impossible. At every session of Congress requests were made and granted to put payments then due off to a future date."

NEW BUSINESS POLICY

The Secretary feels sure that all this can be changed and a business policy adopted which will make homes for more than 20,000 families on lands reclaimed through government aid and that the total price, if all payments are promptly met, will be lower than has been the rule in the past.

Taking advantage of a visit of one of the members of the President's Cabinet as a proper time to preach table manners, the Secretary of the Kiwanis Club included in his printed notice to members to attend the luncheon these rules of etiquette: "Now, boys, think about your table manners. Don't forget your napkins. Use your forks from the plate out, the last one being intended for use in stirring your coffee. Frank will have the peas mashed so that they won't roll off our knives. Watch Arthur and eat your asparagus the way he does."

This afternoon the Secretary and party spent in Yuma Mesa, where the government is advancing money to aid in the development of 50,000 acres of citrus orchards. The Mesa is more than 100 feet above the level of the irrigation canals, so that the water will have to be pumped. This mode of reclamation entails so great an initial expense that the government has made an appropriation of $200,000 which will be advanced as loans until the lands produce a profit.

Tonight an elaborate banquet was served at the Southern Pacific Hotel, where short talks by prominent citizens and Secretary Work covered the same ground as has been the general topics of conversation for the last two days.

Tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock the Secretary and party will leave Yuma by rail, going to the Mexican border. Their private car will be sidetracked at the border and they will spend most of the day going over that part of the Imperial Valley irrigation project which lies in Mexico. During the afternoon their car will be attached to a regular train traveling below the border, to Mexicali and Calexico. The party will arrive at Calexico at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and proceed by automobile direct to El Centro, where a meeting of members of the Imperial Valley Irrigation Association is planned at the Barbara Worth Hotel that evening.

Saturday evening the party will go north through Palm Springs and Riverside, arriving in Los Angeles Monday.

Move Launched for Addition to Coast Cutters

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce today went on record in support of a Congressional appropriation for three Coast Guard cruising vessels of the "Haida" type for use along the Pacific Coast. The chamber plans to initiate legislation to this end at the next session of Congress.

While there are at present, a number of cutters of a tug type in service on this Coast, there are only three cruising cutters and these, it was said, are in service in Alaska, six months of the year. Statistics compiled by the chamber showed that during the fifteen-year period, ending December, 1924, 337 vessels, representing a net tonnage of 363,000 tons were a total loss.

Admiral Billard of the United States guard is said by the chamber also to have requested these additional ships in his last annual report.

The Artist In Person

The Los Angeles audiences who have enjoyed hearing Geoffrey O'Hara . . . celebrated composer and lecturer this week have marvelled at his "spook friend" the Duo-Art which seems to take an almost human part in Mr. O'Hara's programs. To know when the visible hands leave off and the unseen hands begin to play the Duo-Art is more than the most observant person can discern.

The Unseen Artist In the Duo-Art

With the Duo-Art you get the artist's phrasing . . . his accent . . . his pedaling . . . his real personality. Its fidelity of reproduction is marvelous and represents the supreme achievement in the musical world of today. If Paderewski, Hofmann, Ganz, Grainger, Cortot, de Pachmann . . . and the entire list of the world's most renowned artists use the Duo-Art exclusively to record their wondrous art . . . there can be no doubt of its superiority. The Duo-Art in the Steinway . . . "The Instrument of the Immortals" is a perfect union of the world's greatest artists with the world's greatest piano!

Another Week of Geoffrey O'Hara

So insistent have been the demands for more public appearances of this charming artist-composer that the Birkel Company have prevailed upon Mr. O'Hara to stay over another week in Los Angeles. Watch for the announcements of his appointments for the coming week and arrange to hear him with the Duo-Art.

Those Floors of Yours!

RUBBER CEMENT FLOOR PAINT

EVERY home-keeping, home-loving woman has, sometime, wondered: "How can I have soft-wood floors that are as inviting as hardwood—clean and bright—and easy to keep that way? I mean bed room floors, halls, closets, bath rooms, in fact, all the busy 'up-stairs' places."

A properly painted surface is the answer. Such a surface must be as indifferent to soap suds and water, and as willing to part with soil and stains, as a dinner plate—with almost cement-like resistance to scuffing shoes, pounding heels and sliding, scraping furniture.

Rubber Cement Floor Paint provides soft-wood interior floors with the surface that satisfies your most exacting ideas of good home-keeping. Easy to apply, it dries over night, forming a bright, porcelain-like surface in any one of several attractive colors. Made by FULLER—the result of 76 years' experience.

SKIES CLEARING IN LEWIS CASE

Trust Company Would Aid in Plan to Pay Creditors

Receiver Gets Bids for Oil Interest of Promoter

Election of Rutherford as Trustee Confirmed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, March 26. The Anglo-California Trust Company of San Francisco is willing to co-operate in any plan to pay the creditors of E. G. Lewis, bankrupt promoter of the Atascadero land settlement project and formerly of the Palos Verdes project, it was testified today by A. R. Rutherford, trustee in bankruptcy, in the bankruptcy proceedings.

Rutherford said he had consulted with the bank's officials and that willingness was expressed to pay the creditors of the Palos Verdes and Atascadero projects. The bank holds mortgages on both estates.

It developed at today's hearing that the receiver of the Lewis estates had been tendered two offers for a 31 per cent interest of Lewis in the Transport Oil Company, one offer being for $75,000 and another for $100,000.

Other assets listed to Lewis were several graphite and copper mines which, it was said, might be involved in the settlement of claims against Lewis's estate in conformity with his announced intention to realize as much as possible for the benefit of the creditors.

The hearings are to be resumed April 7, next.

TRUSTEE CONFIRMED

SAN LUIS OBISPO, March 26.—The election of A. R. Rutherford as trustee of the estate of E. G. Lewis, promoter of the Atascadero Colony and the Palos Verdes project, was today confirmed by J. Preston Butcher, Jr., commissioner in bankruptcy from Santa Barbara.

Matters looked a bit more hopeful for the creditors today than yesterday. It was learned at the hearing today that there have been two tentative offers for the Atascadero Printery, where the various Lewis publications were formerly published. One of these offers was from Lord and Thomas, the advertising agency, which made overtures to either buy or lease the plant, and the other was from a publishing firm whose name was withheld, but which is said to publish twenty-two periodicals. Tentative offers have also been made for the Atascadero dehydrating plant, and one of the copper mines included in the assets.

LAND PURCHASE

The announcement this morning of a $300,000 land purchase by Los Angeles capital of land almost adjoining the Atascadero beach holdings has overnight greatly increased the value of the beach lands.

Trustee Rutherford stated today that his policy would be to avoid the forced sale of the properties, but that certain of the corporations in debt to Lewis will have to be forced into insolvency in order to pay their indebtedness. Rutherford stated that probably $6,000,000 could be realized on all of the estates. Of that amount $3,000,000 would be required to take care of the mortgages and secured claims, leaving the remainder for the other creditors. Rutherford's bond was fixed at $100,000. The hearing was continued until April 7, when it will probably be resumed in Santa Barbara.

CLEW GIVEN TO DUNCAN AND BRIDE

Couple Reported to Have Been in Fullerton Auto Camp Last Sunday

HAROLD STERNBERG

Harold Duncan, 22-year-old actor and brother of the celebrated Duncan Sisters, and his young bride were seen at an auto camp in Fullerton last Sunday and stated they were on their way to his father's ranch near Palmdale, W. L. Dodge, 425 West Thirty-third street, reported, last night to Deputy Sheriff Stensland.

This is the first definite clew to the whereabouts of Duncan and his bride since the Sheriff's office was enlisted in the search following their disappearance the 12th inst. at Yuma. They were traveling in a new automobile to California from Chicago on their wedding trip.

Deputy Stensland will leave for Fullerton today to trace the young couple.

Dodge told Stensland that he noticed a police dog in Duncan's car and met them and talked with them after he had inquired about the dog.

GIBBONS NOT YET SIGNED

Tommy's Manager Fails to Sign for Big Battle With Gene Tunney

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 26.—After an all-day conference Jimmy De Forrest, matchmaker of the Polo A.C., New York, left tonight for St. Paul without the signature of Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, for a fifteen-round contest with Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, at the Polo Grounds, New York, on June 12.

Kane gave no indication that he would reject the offer but pleaded for more time to consider it. He promised to meet De Forrest on his return here Saturday when the negotiations will be resumed.

De Forrest went to St. Paul in an attempt to obtain the signature of Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, to a set of articles. Tunney boxes Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, in St. Paul tomorrow night.

De Forrest said he had offered Kane 30 per cent of the receipts which would amount to more than $100,000 as Gibbons's share, provided the gate reached above $400,000. De Forest figures the match will draw between $400,000 and $500,000. Tunney will be offered 20 per cent of the receipts and, according to advices from St. Paul, Manager Gibson will accept.

Battle Fleet to Stage Big Sport Event

With thousands of sailors, Olympic champions and Jack Dempsey on the program, the battle fleet will celebrate its departure for Australia with a giant field day at the Coliseum next Wednesday, according to an announcement made yesterday by E. D. Washburn, battle fleet athletic director. Washburn stated that more than 35,000 sailors will be on hand to compete in and watch the event.

The big feature of the day will be the dual track meet between teams from the U.S.S. Pennsylvania and the U.S.S. Tennessee. These two ships have struggled for the cinder title for several years in a row and every time they meet the battle is worth seeing.

Five boxing bouts are carded and Washburn stated that arrangements have been made with Champion Jack Dempsey to appear in an exhibition with some unfortunate "gob." Fleet champions and near-champions will feature the rest of the bouts.

Lee Barnes, Norman Anderson, Bud Houser, Morton Kaer, Leighton Dye and Bob Maxwell will run some exhibition races and demonstrate the tactics that won points for the United States in the recent Olympic Games. Maxwell and Dye will resume their feud in the low and high-hurdle races.

CHINO, PORTERVILLE FIVES MEET TONIGHT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTERVILLE, March 26.—With Chino's defeat of Alhambra for the basketball championship of Southern California, that team is now in line for a battle with Porterville Union High School, Central California champions, tomorrow night to determine the Southern-Central title winner.

The local team has worked hard this week in anticipation of the approaching contest. Coach "Binks" Rawlings was an interested spectator at the Chino-Alhambra game Saturday, getting a line on the sort of stuff his squad could expect from the southern players.

POSTOFFICE NINE TO FACE HOME GARDENS

Under the efficient supervision of its new manager, J. C. Cooper, the L. A. Postoffice nine will face the Home Gardens outfit next Sunday on the Home Gardens diamond. A fast, snappy gave is expected, for both squads have been playing high-class ball in their last few starts. The game is to be called at 2:30 o'clock.

BEARS ARRIVE TODAY

Coach Walter Christie and California Athletes Due This Morning for Tomorrow's Pomona Meet

BY BRAVEN DYER

The Golden Bears from Berkeley blow into the city today. Headed by Walter Christie, who has been coaching track teams since Moses carved out the first of the Ten Commandments with his meat ax, the California contingent arrives via the early morning milk train and will be loaded into some other type of conveyance and carried to the town of Pomona. During their stay in the south the Bruin athletes will sleep and take on their heavy ammunition at the Hotel Avis in the Citrus Belt metropolis.

Tomorrow afternoon the Pomona College tracksters will furnish the Bears will a little light entertainment in the way of a meet at Claremont. The Redlands University runners are included in the affair also, but are not expected to cut much of a figure in the battle. Unless some of the Berkeley men fall off the train en route here or sprain their wrists playing poker it is hard to see how the Sagehens can get fifty points out of the meet. There will be plenty of good races on the program, however, and inasmuch as this will be the only 1925 appearance of the California team in the south a large crowd is anticipated.

Christie has a well-balanced squad, plenty of good second and third-place men rounding out the

"KID" KAPLAN GOES SOUTH TO FIGHT ERNIE GOOZEMAN

Louis ("Kid") Kaplan, world's featherweight champion, and his manager, "Scotty" Montieth, left yesterday for San Diego, where Kaplan will fight Ernie Goozeman tomorrow night. This will be the feather king's last fight in California this trip, for he leaves for home Monday morning.

Though he tried his best to land the match Tom Gallery, the new Hollywood matchmaker, was unable to induce the "Kid" to remain over another week and meet Tod Morgan in the main event at Hollywood next Friday. Kaplan was homesick, and not even the lure of coin of the realm could offset the longing to see the old home folks. Kaplan fights Mascart in New York May 1, and then will probably meet Johnny Dundee, who relinquished the feather crown because he grew out of the class.

Favor Greb to Win Over Gene Tunney

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. PAUL, March 26.—Harry Greb, boss of the middleweights, and Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, are fit and ready for their ten-round no-decision bout here tomorrow night.

Both champions finished training today with light workouts, but neither engaged in any boxing.

Greb, with his rubber-ball tactics, is a slight favorite over the stiff right-hand puncher, who will depend largely upon this wallop to slow up the 160-pound champion to land some telling punches. Tunney, however, has a clever left hand and is given credit for being the harder puncher. Tunney will have a weight advantage of about fifteen pounds, but Greb is expected to offset this with his speed.

CHAVEZ AND SHERIDAN TO TANGLE AT LYCEUM

A big contingent of local Mexican boxing fans will be on hand at the Lyceum tomorrow night to see their idol Phil Chavez in action against Phil Sheridan. The pair will furnish the semi-wind-up of six rounds. In the feature event Young Papke takes on Charley Lester for ten rounds in what promises to be a fight for blood.

Ebony Broadway sends up her favorite fistic star, Bobby Pierce, the "Colored Flash," to do battle with Bobby Barrett at 128 pounds for four rounds. The rest of the card is is follows: Mel Manning vs. Young Joe Rivers, four rounds at 116 pounds and Nifty Gonzales vs. Henry Larsen, four rounds at 128 pounds.

WILSON PICKED TO LEAD POMONA FIVE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA COLLEGE, CLAREMONT, March 26.—Lowell Wilson, sensational diminutive forward, who played regularly on the Sagehen varsity basketball team this season, was announced as next year's backetball captain at a varsity banquet and picnic held Wednesday evening at the Nu Alpha Phi fraternity cabin. Jack Jessen, present year's captain, was toastmaster for the affair, which was attended by some twelve players and managers, their friends and Coach and Mrs. Calvin Heath.

POMONA NET STARS MEET DENTAL TEAM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLAREMONT, March 26.—The Pomona varsity tennis team meets the U.S.C. dental college quartet on the Pomona courts next Saturday. The Pomona line-up for the matches will be changed from the one used in past tourneys. Don Holsinger is taking the place of George Peterson. First doubles will feature Darwin and Gabbert representing Pomona, with Holsinger and Dave Hand playing for the Blue and White in the second doubles.

TILDEN TO HEAD CARD AT MIDWICK

Champion and Johnston, Casey, and Griffin Will Play Next Month

At the resquest of Helen Wills, women's national tennis champion, the women's matches scheduled for the Midwick Tennis Club April 4 and 5 have been postponed until May 3 and 4.

Bill Tilden

In their place there will be an invitational meet featuring Bill Tilden, Bill Johnston, Ray Griffin, Walter Wesbrook, Mary Browne and May Sutton Bundy.

Miss Wills wrote Myron Beasley of the Midwick Club that the midterm examinations at the University of California would prevent her from making the trip south next week, but the May date would fit in splendidly with her plans.

With Bill Tilden browsing around in Los Angeles, Beasley immediately got busy and arranged matches in which the national champ will compete against Johnston, Casey, Griffin and Wesbrook.

Though the matter will be left entirely up to Tilden, it is Beasley's plan to have the champ handicapped in his singles matches. If he plays Walter Wesbrook, for example, he would give odds to the local player.

It is Beasley's intention to program four matches on both Saturday and Sunday afternoons April 3 and 4, including two men's singles matches, one mixed doubles and one woman's singles match each day. Tickets for the tourney have already gone on sale at the local sporting goods houses.

QUATRAIN TRAINS FOR PIMLICO RACE EVENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BALTIMORE, March 26.—Quatrain, 3-year-old son of Omar Khayam-Bonnie Mary, which won close to $50,000 at New Orleans this season, will start in the Preakness at Pimlico in May, barring accidents. Quatrain, a six-to-one favorite for the Kentucky Derby in the winter books, is now at Lexington, Ky.

Latonia Derby Winner Will Carry 128 Pounds

Sunspero Gets 121-Pound Weight for Race

Phusla of France Looms as Strong Contender

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN DIEGO, March 26.—Weights were assigned today for the Coffroth Handicap of a mile and a quarter to be run Sunday at the Tia Juana race track and, as expected, top weight was given to Chilhowee, Latonia derby winner, recently bought by S. M. Newman. Chilhowee will carry 128 pounds. Chilhowee's prowess was well known before his arrival here, and his stock soared yesterday when, with apparent ease, he went past Little Chief in a race of a mile and an eighth in the good time of 1:52 2-5 and was sent along for a full mile and a quarter in 2:06. It was reported after the race that one of his legs had been cut when Little Chief went in front of him at the start, but it was believed today that the injury was not severe.

Other weights assigned were:

Osprey, 126.
Sunspero, 121.
Cherry Pie, 120.
Phusla, 119.
Cherry Tree, 118.
Little Chief, 118.
Swingalong, 115.
General Thatcher, 111.
Atherstone, 104.

Weights were assigned to sixty-four candidates in all. From these it is believed that a field of about fifteen or twenty horses, including the best in winter traning, will go to the post.

Several sparkling performances in recent workouts have made it evident that, if the track is fast, as expected, sizzling time will be made. Phusla, the French horse owned by the Miramonte Stable, today worked out a mile and a quarter in 2:06 with 130 pounds up, while Cherry Pie, from the Green Tree Stable, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney of New York, carrying about 120 pounds, went the distance in 2:07. Cherry Pie holds the American mile record of 1:35 2-5; Osprey of the Leslie Stable, owned by John T. Mills of Long Beach, will have plenty of backers in the contest, as he has carried heavy imposts and beaten some of the best horses now running at Tia Juana. Another runner who must be reckoned with is Atherstone, who today ran a mile and seventy yards in 1:42 1-5 and kept on for the full mile and a quarter, making the distance in 2:04 3-5, which beats the track record held by Little Chief by a fifth of a second. Atherstone's

Unbeaten Prep Squads Meet on Coliseum Oval

L. A. High Tackles Franklin; Poly to Face Jeff

With the memory of previous defeats and setbacks still strong before each school, Hollywood and Manual Arts take up their track battle today where they left off last year. The meet is scheduled for the Coliseum. Poly meets Jefferson at Jefferson and Franklin goes over to L. A. High. Besides the fact that the affair will have a lot to do with the city meet, a long-standing grudge between the schools should make it one of the hottest battles staged this year. Last season, Hollywood trimmed the Toilers in a dual meet, but Sid Foster's aggregation had its revenge when it copped the city meet from under the nose of Hollywood, doped to win. Then, the latter squad upset the dope and won the Southern California meet and Manual made a counter-upset by winning the State meet. So today's battle should be worth seeing if for no other reason than the rivalry between the squads.

Either Sid Foster's Toilers, or the red-shirted Hollywood men may win the meet. Not counting the relay, the firsts should be evenly divided. Hollywood stands to win the relay, and the seconds and thirds look to be even, so the meet depends on the breaks. If any stars on either team break a leg or get boxed, the other side will have a big edge.

Plenty of hair-raising races will develop when the two schools, old rivals, meet. Capt. June Hanford of Manual will be the center of a lot of argument when he takes on Brinker of Hollywood in the dashes and hooks up with Zambro and Childs in the quarter. Ennisman, who broke the Manual Arts shotput record last week, will have his hands full shoving the weights out beyond the marks of Drummond of Hollywood. De Miceli and Zambro are rated even in the broad jump. Incidentally, the relay should be won by inches.

The other two meets have little to offer in the way of excitement. Both Poly and L. A. are favored to win by big scores. Coaches Eddie Leahy and Eddie Rick will probably shift all the boys around and give out the "take-it-easy" orders. Boles of Franklin may press Lyons of L. A. High in the mile, but with thirteen seconds' difference in their best times, the Pioneer distance man should win. Otherwise, everything points to a big walkaway for each.

Since Bob Kiphuth began coaching the Yale swimming squad ten years ago, the Blue aquatic stars established twenty-seven world and forty-seven intercollegiate records.

NEW CLUBHOUSE FOR BRENTWOOD

The board of directors of Brentwood Country Club, on San Vicente Boulevard here, last night approved plans for a new $100,000 clubhouse. Letters are being sent to the members today, asking approval of the board's action. The directors are confident, it is said, that the plans will be sanctioned by the membership.

MISS RICHARDS IS ELIMINATED

for the first six holes of the match, and it looked as though she was going to score well under 80.

SPOILS SCORE

However, she finished 6-6-6, being overfamiliar with the traps on these three holes, while Miss Sherwood played safely and cut her opponent's lead to two holes at the turn. Miss Richards went out in 40 despite these three tragic 6's, while Miss Sherwood had a 44.

The fireworks continued on the second nine, Miss Sherwood sinking an approach for a birdie 3 on the tenth, and winning the next hole to square the match by clicking off her par while Miss Richards messed up her shots on the fairway. The next two were halved, Miss Richards missing a short putt for a win on the twelfth, while Miss Sherwood was up for the first time during the match by making a splendid pitch to the green from an uphill lie in the rough, and sinking a twenty-foot putt.

Miss Richards won back the hole on the fifteenth with a thirty-foot putt, while Miss Sherwood hooked out of bounds from the tee. Miss Richards again dubbed her second shot on the sixteenth and Miss Sherwood won the hole with an indifferent 5. On the seventeenth Miss Richards had an opportunity to square the match, but took three putts, Miss Sherwood chipping on from the rough to halve the hole in four. Miss Richards kicked her ball along the eighteenth fairway to take a 6, while Miss Sherwood won the hole and match with a nice 5.

LOWEST CARD

Miss Sherwood returned in 39—the lowest score made on the second nine during the tournament, and had a gross 83 for her round. Miss Richards scored 85.

The other match was less exciting, Miss Browne being down only when Mrs. Hill won the first hole. At the turn she was 2 up, having negotiated the first half in 40, while Mrs. Hill took 44. She gradually increased her lead, displaying marked superiority over her opponent, and ending the match with a perfect approach and an eight-foot putt for a birdie three on the fifteenth, winning 4 and 3.

Today's match will find two long hitters opposing each other. The course will undoubtedly be heavy from rain, and Miss Sherwood is apt to get greater distance from the tee, as she hits a ball with considerable carry. The result is far from certain either way, but the match is expected to bring out competition worthy of a final championship battle.

This afternoon mixed foursomes will be played, the titular match being scheduled for 9 a.m. this morning. The putting and approaching contest scheduled for yesterday, was postponed out of deference to Jupiter Pluvius. Competitors in the event may chip up and hole out three balls on the practice green any time today.

Complete results follow:

Championship flight—Miss Mary Browne defeated Mrs. Dorothy B. Hill, 4 and 3; Miss Rosamund Sherwood defeated Miss Dorothy Richards, 2 up.

Second flight—Mrs. Hunter Robbins defeated Miss M. Landreth, 3 and 1; Mrs. C. P. Thomas defeated Miss J. Michler, 1 up, 19 holes.

Third flight—Miss J. Lockwood defeated Mrs. G. G. Howland, 3 and 2; Mrs. W. G. Cupps defeated Mrs. W. O. Frederick, 1 up.

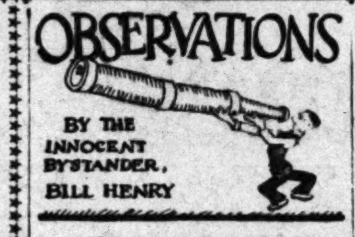
Fourth flight—Mrs. C. A. Wiltse defeated Mrs. C. A. Rife, 8 and 6; Mrs. G. R. Dexter defeated Mrs. G. E. Black, 4 and 3.

Fifth flight—Mrs. C. H. Gowan defeated Miss D. Pardo, 3 and 1; Miss O. Wermich defeated Mrs. B. C. Beach, 1 up.

BURR'S HOMER GIVES LINDSAY OUTFIT WIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LINDSAY, March 26.—In an obstinately fought game here, the Lindsay baseball club nosed out the Fresno Firemen by a score of 5 to 4. The contest was settled in the ninth inning when Burr poled one out of the county for an easy homer. Farmersville will play in Lindsay on the 29th inst., and on April 6 the locals will go to Fresno to play the Firemen in a return game. Batteries were: Asher, French, Burr and Valencia; Jones and Dunn.



BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER,
BILL HENRY

THE many individuals who are genuinely interested in track and field will have a chance to compare the finest track teams on the Coast this week-end when they can pick up their eight pages of sports in The Times and see what U.S.C., Stanford and California accomplished on the dirt ovals, Saturday. As pretty nearly everybody knows, the Trojans journey north to meet the powerful Cardinals on the Palo Alto track and the Bears will tangle in a triangular affair at Claremont with Pomona and Redlands.

Chief interest, naturally enough, is centered in the meet at Palo Alto, since it constitutes the one big intercollegiate dual meet of the year for the Trojans. There seems little reason to doubt the victory of the north, but it will not be won without considerable of a battle from the crippled local aggregation.

Out here we emphasize dual-meet competition as giving a true estimate of the relative strength of two schools because it is practically impossible for a school with only two or three good men to win a dual meet from a school which has a well-developed squad. The school with the few stars frequently can capture a big meet in which many colleges are entered and yet be swamped in a dual meet.

Undoubtedly Stanford, U. S.C. and California are three of the best dual-meet teams in the world. It is doubtful, indeed, if any college in the country could beat either of the three California schools and it is no disgrace to lose to any of them. After this Saturday we ought to be able to get a pretty fair line on the probable winner of the Stanford-California tangle which takes place next month.

Meanwhile the local conference stars are getting ready for the conference meet, which takes place at the Coliseum a week from Saturday. The conference championship is decided by the dual meets and Pomona has already cinched the title by beating Occidental, U.C. at L. A. and Caltech. But the conference meet decides the individual supremacy between the runners and also carries with it a distinction in the form of a trip.

For the last couple of years the all-conference team has met Stanford in a dual meet, trimming the Cards two years ago by winning the relay and giving them a good run last year. This year they meet California and Wisconsin in a triangular meet at Berkeley on April 11. This should be particularly interesting since Wisconsin is said to have developed one of the finest track and field aggregations in Middle West history.

California has made unexpecial strides this year. After losing to Stanford last season by a pretty healthy score, the Bears were not expected to come back with the powerful outfit they now have. A couple of old stars came back to school and a few transfers who became eligible have made a world of difference in Walter Christie's prospects so that a lot of Blue and Gold rooters think them capable of starting another winning streak at Stanford's expense.

U.S.C. HOCKEY TEAM TO PLAY GRIZZLIES

The first intercollegiate ice hockey game in the history of Southern California will be staged at the Palais de Glace tomorrow night, when the U.S.C. team tackles the local University of California outfit. Al Doyle is managing the Trojan outfit and is highly enthusiastic over the prospects for a big season.

University of Virginia students have taken up lacrosse with enthusiasm.

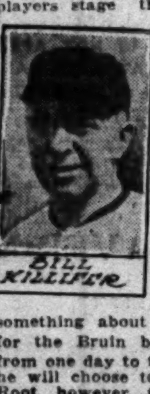
CUBS MEET TIGERS TODAY

Essick to Pitch Bryan and Barfoot Against Bill Killefer's Crew; Rain Gives Players Day Off

BY ROBERT E. RAY

Providing no more rains come along this morning and flood Washington Park, the Chicago Cubs and Vernon Tigers will get together today in another one of the usual exhibition games. The Bruins and Bengals were slated to clash yesterday, but had to give it up because of a shortage of water wings.

Groundkeeper Ed Schallmo hit upon the happy play of freezing over the ball park and letting the players stage the game on ice skates, but this was finally overruled because it would be in opposition to the Palais de Glace.



BILL KILLEFER

Essick plans to shoot up two of his best hurlers, Ed Bryan and Clyde Barfoot, at the Cubs in today's clash, so a low score is being predicted. Just who Bill Killefer will use on the mound is something about which to guess, for the Bruin boss never knows from one day to the next just who he will choose to pitch. Charley Root, however, is expected to start, with Kaufman, Brett and Jones also available.

The Tigers will use practically the same squad which won one out of three from the Cubs last week, although Ed Hemingway may replace Gordon Slade at short. Slade injured his ankle in Sunday's tilt and will not play unless his underpinning is in perfect condition.

The Angels managed to get in an hour's practice yesterday morning before rain put a damper on things. Wayne Wright, who arrived in Los Angeles Wednesday, took his first workout with the Angels.

With Wright in camp, the Angel personnel is now complete, and Manager Krug expects that his outfit will be all set to go when the season opens a week from Tuesday.

The Angels play the Cubs tomorrow and Sunday in the games that wind up the Chicago squad's stay in the Southland. After Sunday's struggle the Bruins hop on a rattler for Oakland, where they will play the Oaks the coming week.

WILLING WILLIES

GANG WAY
FEG MURRAY
WILLIE PLANT, CHAMPION WALKER WHO BUSTED THE FRIGERIO BUBBLE
WILLIE RITOLA. NURMI'S ONLY RIVAL

Here are two athletic champions who did much to increase the gaiety of the recent indoor track season. They are both Willies, and both willing, too, to take on all comers at any time and at almost any distance. Willie Plant came into his own as the recognized champion walker of the world after beating Ugo Frigerio, the Olympic champion, decisively on three occasions, and Willie Ritola proved himself almost in the same class as Nurmi as a record-breaking runner.

Plant's victories were all the more gratifying because he was unable to compete against the Italian at the last two Olympics. A leg injury kept him out in 1920, and business kept him at home in 1924—so Willie has yet to win an Olympic championship. He is no longer a prophet without honor in his own country, however. All hail to Willie Plant of Brooklyn, the repeller of foreign invaders, the breaker of records, the only botanical ankle-excursionist in the world!

The other Willie may be numbered among those individuals who would have been heroes-of-heroes if they just didn't happen to come at the same time as some one else who was a little bit better. Ritola was the iron man of the Olympic games, winning two championships and taking second to Nurmi in three other races. Though beaten by his "hated rival" in their first race of the indoor season, Ritola since then covered himself with glory, breaking many of Nurmi's new records, and showing a willingness to compete against all sorts of handicaps that has won him a host of friends. Two of Willie's best performances were his two miles in 9:03⅘, and three miles in 13:56⅘.

The two Willies hold thirteen outdoor senior national championships between them, the heel and toe artist accounting for eight in the three and seven-mile walks, while the Finn has won two cross-country titles, a steeplechase championship, and has also scored two victories in the ten-mile run.

HOW TO PLAY BASEBALL

BY STANLEY (BUCKY) HARRIS

First Baseman 3. FIELDING DUTIES

The first-baseman's fielding duties are many. He should handle any ground ball hit in his direction. In fact, the best plan is for him to take every ball he can himself. While the pitcher is expected to break for first base when balls are hit in that direction, the baseman should wave him away. The reason is that he should have the ball by this time, himself, and he will be saving his pitcher's strength. First basemen and all other players should do all they can to save a twirler extra steps and exertion.

"Bucky" Harris

The first baseman should also field every bunt that he can. Let the pitcher or second baseman cover the bag on such plays. You are better able to field slow rollers than the average pitcher, and you also have the ability to get the ball away quicker. This counts for much if there is a fast man going down the base path. If you figure you can't field the bunt, get back on the bag and be set for the toss from the pitcher or catcher.

If there are runners on the bases you will find it a good thing to break down the base line with the runner on first as the pitcher delivers the ball. In this way you will do much to plug the big hole between first and second if the batter is trying to hit behind the runner. It also puts your second baseman in a better position and tightens up the defense considerably.

I have pointed out the necessity of timing throws to second base when the man covering is in motion. You must remember that your duty doesn't end when you field the ball perfectly. You have to complete the play on the runner at the advanced base. Try always to make it as easy as possible for the man receiving the ball.

You should be able to take all infield flies between the pitcher's box and your station, and most of the foul flies hit to right. You are in a better position than the catcher to get the latter, because you are coming in and have a better line on the ball. The catcher has to take it over his shoulder.

If the batter makes a clean hit to left and rounds first base in an effort to reach second, it is up to the first baseman to get in line with the throw from the outfield. By so backing up the base he can prevent the runner taking an extra base in the event of the throw being a bad one.

When men are on first and third with none out, the first baseman should make the play at the plate on a ball hit to him. He must play to stop the run, of course. But with one out and runners in the same positions, the first sacker should try for a double play via second base. Get the ball away and get back to the bag.

If you know the batter as a very speedy man and have doubts of completing a double, the thing to do is to make the play at the plate to stop the run.

The first baseman has to use his head in cutting off throws from the outfield and throw to the bases or relay the ball home, according to the runners on the paths. He can break up many a rally by being alert in this respect. If there is no play on the man at the plate the chances are you can cut down a runner trying for an extra base.

Be cautious about colliding with the base runner. The man coming into first is entitled to the path. Try to keep inside him. You can handle the ball better and tag him as he goes by. You also make a better target for whoever is throwing the ball to get the runner.

Don't betray yourself by starting too soon if you think the batter is going to bunt. He may fool you and hit the ball through. If he does so the opposing club may get in a position to win the game through your carelessness.

And above all, be sure you are a strong hitter, or can develop into one rapidly, before you decide to try your fortunes as a first baseman.

performance was remarkable in view of the fact that when he finished the race today, he was five lengths in front of his nearest competitor on a track that had been slowed up a little by a shower and was going easily. He is owned by Mrs. Victor Vivadeau of New York.

Another who will claim attention is Sunspero of the La Brae Stable of Los Angeles, whose recent races and workouts have all been good. Several others who will carry light weight will be favored.

The largest crowd ever at the track is expected Sunday. The winner's share of the big purse will be more than $50,000.

NOTES FROM THE HOLLYWOOD A. C.

Five hundred new members will be admitted to the Hollywood Athletic Club in a big drive that will start next week. This was decided by the regular members of the club at the first get-together "pow-wow" held in the gym last night.

Frank Galloway, president of the club in 1923-24, was honored by the members when they presented him with a beautiful pair of gold candlesticks and a flower bowl.

The big feature of the night was the standing vote of confidence given the Board of Governors of the movie city club for their good work during the past year. Short talks were made by Fred J. Smith, president; George L. Eastman, James Irsfeld, Bert Hartwell, Tom Gallery and Bill Thompson.

GOLDEN BEARS ARRIVE TODAY

team with a few strong five-point stars. Chief among the latter is young Mr. Gerken. Mr. Gerken used to advertise Modesta Junior College by his prowess with the shot and discus. He has shoved the iron ball out forty-six feet, and tossed the platter some 140 feet during the present season. Supporting him are Dana Carey, the grid star, and Francis. The former made a mark of 145 feet in the discus early in the season. Pomona will be lucky to get two points in these two events tomorrow.

Another big gun is Jim Barber, sprint star. Last week he ran the century in 10 flat, beating out Marshall Hale, former Stanford ace. His best competitive time for the 220-yard dash this spring is 22 1-10s. Hugh Pinney, who is Pomona's best man in the shorter race, has yet to do 10 flat this year, but has been clocked in 10 1-10s. three times. His furlong time is 22 3-10s.

Capt. Al Becker does some of the hurling for the Bruins. He shows to best advantage in the highs, having reeled off the 120-yard stick race in 15 4-10s. against the Olympic Club. Ragan has been running him a close second. In the lows Alderette, a transfer, generally cleans up, but he will undoubtedly have to watch Bob Maxwell hit the tape first tomorrow. Alderette did 24 9-10s. last week whereas Maxwell is capable of 24 flat without being pressed. Bob wants to bust his own Pacific Coast record of 23 7-10s. in the lows tomorrow and provided the Bear athlete pushes him hard enough the Sagehen is likely to get his wish. If Maxwell feels well enough after running the high and low sticks he may take a shot at the furlong also in which race he is capable of 22 flat.

Ivan Johnson, the dusky gentleman who used to tear off a terrific quarter-mile for the Trojans, is now running for the Bears and will undoubtedly show the Sagehen quarter-milers what the back of a black Bruin looks like. He's sure to run around 50 flat.

Chase and Boyden in the half-mile are a couple of 2-flat men on an off-day. When they feel good they run 1m. 58s. as easily as William Jennings Bryan runs for President. Ross and Schwobeda are almost as good in the mile.

Verne Dodson propels the javelin close to the 190ft. mark. With Chuck Eaton, Pomona's ace, delivering at about 188ft. there ought to be a lot of interest in this event. Bondshu of the Bears has broad jumped 22ft. 11in. this season. The Sagehen athletes will need wings to catch up to him. It is probable that the Bear two-milers will be in some such fix themselves when they go up against leather-lunged Bill Snyder in the eight-lap event. The stubby Sagehen recently did 9m. 56 8-10s., this being the fastest competitive time recorded on the Pacific Coast this year.

TROJANS LEAVE TONIGHT

Coach Dean Cromwell Taking Thirty-three Men North for Track Meet With Stanford Tomorrow

The U.S.C. track team will leave tonight for Stanford University where tomorrow the annual dual meet with the Cardinals will be staged. Coach Dean Cromwell will bundle thirty-three athletes aboard the Lark this evening, the return trip being made almost immediately after the track meet.

Those making the trip north to battle the Red Shirts are Capt. Otto Anderson, Norm Anderson, Dye, Houser, Niersbach, Lovejoy, Torkelson, Taylor, Starry, Heilman, Aleksi, Brown, Ruis, White, Stever, House, Smith, Martz, Bustard, Elwood, Waterman, Worrell, McIlvain, Ross, Grumbles, Ofstad, McDaniel, Lee, Long, Boelter, Cook, Woods and Wallace.

DEAN CROMWELL

Bob Lee, who with Morton Kaer has been a storm center recently over the question of eligibility, was reinstated by the Trojan faculty yesterday. Kaer was not. That's tough on Cromwell. The addition of Kaer would have given the Trojans a battling chance against the Cards, but without him there is little prospect of a U.S.C. triumph.

BASKETBALL FINALS FOR DE MOLAY TEAMS

The DeMolay basketball schedule closes tonight with the Pasadena-Long Beach game, which is to be played at Venice on a neutral court. The game is scheduled for 8 o'clock with a big dance at the La Monica Ballroom.

Pasadena has not lost a game and the beach lads have lost but one, so the contest, which decides the De Molay championships, should be a very interesting affair.

HOPPE AND CARTER TO TANGLE UP

Lightweights Mix in Ten-Round Bout at Hollywood Stadium Tonight

Dick Hoppe is going into the ring at the Hollywood American Legon Stadium tonight a favorite to win the main event over Tommy Carter, the former Pacific Coast lightweight champion.

The reason Hoppe is picked to win this bout is based solely on the showing he made when he boxed Carter a few months ago at Hollywood. At that time the boys met over the four-round route. The bout ended in the third round when Hoppe fouled Carter and lost his chance to win the title. Hoppe had a big edge when the foul blow landed.

Dick Hoppe must win this bout to retain his prestige as a main-eventer. His last time out he dropped a four-round decision to Ace Hudkins. No one can make Hoppe believe that he can't take Ace, if they meet again in a ten-round bout.

This stuff of making Hoppe the first choice isn't bothering either Tommy Carter or Eddie Sears. Both manager and boxer will tell the fans that never has Carter boxed a return bout with an opponent that he hasn't scored a win.

Carter is in excellent shape for this bout. He knows that Hoppe is a tough boy to beat when he is right, and Dick is right if he ever was.

The semi-wind-up calls for a new face in Jimmy Hutchinson, former amateur bantamweight champion of the world. He will box Eddie Diggins tonight.

The complete Hollywood card:

Tommy Carter vs. Dick Hoppe, 136 pounds, ten rounds.
Jimmy Hutchinson vs. Eddie Diggins, 135 pounds, six rounds.
Frankie Osner vs. Sammy Sandow, 126 pounds, six rounds.
Kid Lombardo vs. K. O. Barrett, 126 pounds, four rounds.
Young Carpentier vs. Snowy Johnson, 116 pounds, four rounds.

SOUTHPAWS OPEN PLAY AT BEVERLY

Annual Left-Handed Golf Championship Starts With Medal Play Today

With a field of golfers comprising some of the best southpaws in the West, play will open today in the annual left-handed golf championship of Southern California, the qualifying round of eighteen holes being scheduled for this morning at the Los Angeles Country Club.

Neil Miller of the San Gabriel Country Club will defend the title he won last year by defeating Frank Frost of Ojai in the finals, and faces a strong field in his attempt to retain his laurels. One of the biggest obstacles in his path toward a second championship is Samuel Dalzell, another San Gabriel golfer, who plays an excellent game from the wrong side. He recently figured as finalist in San Gabriel's annual invitation tournament.

The entry list includes Arthur Letts of the Los Angeles Country Club, E. N. Wright and Dick Carlson of Annandale, Dr. E. R. Campbell of Midwick, James Wood Campbell of Midwick, James Woods, Aman Moore and J. M. Kent of the Los Angeles Country Club and Scotty Chisholm of the U.S.A., while George Von Elm, Southern California open champion, threatens to play left-handed and trim the bunch.

Aman Moore, a portsider of ability, has donated a solid silver mashie to go to the winner, while a total of sixteen trophies have been put up for the annual tournament.

YEARLING NET TEAMS MEET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA COLLEGE, CLAREMONT, March 26.—In one of their last matches of the season Pomona College frosh tennis team tangles with the Redlands University frosh at Pomona tomorrow afternoon. Both yearling teams are said to be strong. The Sagechick team will be composed of Cleminson, Badham, Arnold and Anderson.

A FISTIC IMPRESSION

If you'll look closely at Dick Hoppe's gloves you'll see likenesses of the pugilists he has been knocking over in his dreams. It's his ambition to do this to Tommy Carter in the Hollywood ring tonight. Carter is mirrored in the left glove with Ace Hudkins in the right.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

The sinister shadow of George Godfrey, the giant black of Leiperville, Pa., piercing its way through the nimbus that surrounds Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown, certainly makes it look as though the two Jacks—Dempsey and Kearns—had come to a parting of the ways.

Kearns has been using Godfrey as a buffer for two or three years to ward off the threatened onslaught of Harry Wills, not because he was afraid Dempsey would lose to the negro heavyweight, but because he didn't like the mixed match.

Jimmy Dougherty, known as the "Baron of Leiperville," is Godfrey's working manager. Jimmy is a man of wealth. He managers fighters because he likes it. He gives his fighters all they make.

Dougherty and Kearns are great personal friends. Kearns didn't discover Godfrey. Neither did Dougherty. Old Sam Langford, the "Boston Tar Baby," ran across George in an army camp during the war, saw him box, and took him in hand after the armistice. Sam taught him a lot of tricks, and turned him over to Jack Johnson, who used him on the stage until George got too tough to handle.

The story is that Johnson sold Godfrey's contract to Kearns, who had been on the lookout for some big fellow who could knock Wills off his perch. George was quick to learn, and all the experts who saw him declared he was a wonderful prospect. He was built like a Hercules and could hit like a mule. Kearns carted him around and used him as a sparring partner for Dempsey in the fights with Carpentier, Gibbons and Firpo.

Since the Gibbons fight Godfrey has fought here and there, but not frequently. Occasionally he bumps off some negro heavy who is down at the heels and needs a fight as a meal ticket, but he has been ducked very consistently by Harry Wills and the other eastern heavies.

Hence the endeavor to smoke out Wills and also Tommy Gibbons through the filing of a challenge with the New York Boxing Commission by Dougherty.

If the suspension of Dempsey stands, that means the winner of the Gibbons-Wills match will have to face Godfrey six months later if he desires to keep peace with the New York commission.

And here's where the Kearns-Dempsey split comes in. The name of Dempsey was also included in the challenge, that is, when his suspension is lifted. It's a mortal cinch Jack's name would never have been included if Kearns didn't have a sneaking suspicion that maybe the Colorado mauler has fought his last fight. It's a pretty good bet that Kearns and Dougherty talked things over very carefully before Dougherty started west after the fight-film trial in New York.

Outside of Jack Dempsey and the late Luther McCarty, the "Leiperville shadow" is the fastest big man on his feet we have ever seen in action. He is shifty, crafty, tantalizing with his speed and punches. George weighs 230 pounds.

There isn't the slightest doubt that the astute Kearns and his friend Dougherty have figured that if there is to be another dusky world's heavyweight champion they might just as well have him.

Godfrey is 25 and coming. Wills is 32 and going. Kearns and Dougherty have an awful good bet.

True to type, Godfrey is a big, good-natured, easy-going colored gent. He's a dude of the first water, but not of the offensive brand. He carries a monocle and wears a cane. When he walks into the Newsboys' Club to train an overcoat is always jauntily borne over his arm.

He writes the home folks in Leiperville, Pa., that for breakfast in the morning he walks out into his back yard and knocks a few oranges off a tree.

George is an inveterate water drinker. We saw him toss off ten full tumblers in a row in "Gig" Rooney's office one afternoon. Then he put on his gym suit and worked it off in the gym, beads of perspiration rolling down his face like a torrential rainstorm.

Godfrey has been here about a month; Dougherty almost three, with the exception of a flying trip he paid New York to attend the film trial.

Dougherty has been back about three days, a confirmed booster for California. He's so good that the Chamber of Commerce ought to put him on the pay roll. In a Philadelphia paper mailed here we read a two-column interview with him in which he extolled the State of California and Los Angeles in particular to the nth degree.

It's great to have friends like that. We welcome Jimmy back, and we hope he remains to grow up with the country.

Atherstone is Victorious at Tia Juana Oval

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 26.—Atherstone, a New York importation for the Coffroth Handicap Sunday, turned in a splendid race today in winning the sixth event at Tia Juana and incidentally indicated his superiority over several other candidates for the big stake race Sunday. He won by five lengths, leading all the way. Spic and Span was second and Nancy Langhorne was third.

Three outsiders came over in a row in the third, fourth and fifth races. Quintaro beat the favorite, Postman, in the third; Llanimp headed off Enette, a long shot, in the fourth, in which race the popular choice, Scottish Lad, was fourth, and Chilliwack copped in the fifth, paying the best price of the day, 17.40 to 1.

The summaries:

First race, four and one-half furlongs—Sunny Maid (Schaefer,) won; Jimmie Trins (Barnes,) second; Miss Oakland (Griffin,) third. Time 0:55 3-5.

Second race, mile and seventy yards—Sunbow (Griffin,) won; Jay Mack (Baker,) second; H. Warren (Martenson,) third. Time 1:46 3-5.

Third race, five and one-half furlongs—Quintaro (Hoagland,) won; Postman (Elston,) second; Guinea Girl (Martenson,) third. Time 1:08 3-5.

Fourth race, five furlongs—Llanimp (Martenson,) won; Enette (Renn,) second; Letter F. (McHugh,) third. Time 1:01.

Fifth race, five furlongs—Chilliwack (Griffin,) won; Doctor Corbett (O'Donnell,) second; Cornstalk (Baker,) third. Time 1:01 1-5.

Sixth race, mile and seventy yards—Atherstone (Wakeoff,) won; Spic and Span (Elston,) second; Nancy Langhorne (McHugh,) third. Time 1:43 1-5.

Seventh race, mile and seventy yards—Teton (Elston,) won; Melachrine (Griffin,) second; The Cheetah (Walls,) third. Time 1:44 1-5.

Eighth race, six furlongs—Picnic (Barnes,) won; Top O' The Morning (Tarlin,) second; Bill McCloy (Wadham,) third. Time 1:13 1-5.

Ninth race, four and one-half furlongs—My Friend Pat (Pendergrass,) won; Steve F. (McHugh,) second; Miss Omond (Schaefer,) third. Time 0:54 4-5.

FIRE DEPARTMENT MAY RUIN BIG TITLE BOUT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 26.—Cold water was poured upon the New York district hopes for a heavyweight championship boxing bout this summer by fire officials yesterday. Fire walls must be included in the plans for the Henderson crater, scheduled to seat 110,000, which is about to rise in Long Island City. This entails an additional cost of more than $100,000 and there were reports that the project had been abandoned. Charles S. Henderson, sponsor of the new stadium said, however, that he will continue construction.

Henderson was closeted with Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, for a short time, but if the prospect of a bout this summer was discussed, no information was forthcoming.

CAMBRIDGE, OXFORD BOAT CREWS CLASH

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, March 26.—The topic on almost every tongue this week is the boat race between Oxford and Cambridge universities, to be rowed tomorrow on the Thames. The race will be the seventy-seventh of the long series between the light and dark blue crews.

Cambridge this year is picked by most of the experts to win, but the betting odds are shrinking daily and by starting time Oxford may be conceded an even chance.

COAST LEAGUE DATA

The old-time fans of Portland declare the greatest game ever played in that city took place on Aug. 2, 1909. San Francisco defeated the home team by a 6-to-5 score in twenty innings. The contest lasted three hours and forty-five minutes.

Pitchers Suter and Graney stuck it out to the end and both pitched great ball throughout. Cooney's work at short for Portland was nothing short of phenomenal. He accepted seventeen chances without an error.

Suter struck out sixteen batsmen, while Graney fanned twelve. "Babe" Danzig accepted twenty-five chances at first base without an error. Home runs were made by Suter and Johnson. From the tenth to the sixteenth innings there was no scoring by either side.

In the sixteenth both teams scored a run. The score was tied up for four more innings, until Rollie Zeider crossed the plate with the deciding run in the twentieth inning.

Yale hopes to boast champion golf, tennis and rifle teams this season.

GOLFING DENTISTS COMPETE

E. R. Andrews is Winner in Tournament Held by Hollywood Players

E. R. Andrews, scoring a net 77, won the championship of the Hollywood Dental Association yesterday when a blind bogey competition was held at the Brentwood Country Club. Second honors were carried off by J. M. Ransom, who scored 92-14-78, while V. L. Hagar went the farthest with his allotted number of strokes in the flag tournament held in connection with the golfing celebration of the Hollywood organization.

In the semifinal matches of the Vice-President's cup tournament at Brentwood yesterday, W. B. Dickinson played splendid golf in defeating C. W. Christian, 4 and 3, scoring a 73 in the process. In the other semifinal match, W. W. Gordon won from A. H. Honey, 6 and 5.

Fair Golfers Will Play for Harry Ham Cup

Tuesday, April 7, has been set as the date for the Harry Ham Trophy tournament for women at the Brentwood Country Club, according to an announcement by Mrs. Harry J. Borde, chairman of the tournament committee for women at Brentwood. The affair is to be open to all members of the Southern California Golf Association, Mr. Ham offering four prizes in addition to the Ham trophy for low net and entertaining all competitors at luncheon.

The entrants will be divided into three classes according to handicap, those with handicaps from scratch to ten competing in Class A, those with handicaps from 11 to 19 in Class B, and those from 20 to 30 in Class C. Prizes for the best net scores in each of these divisions have been put up for competition, while a merchandise order for the best low gross card of the day has also been offered.

Gallaudet College of Washington, D. C., will play only eight games this year.

SIDNEY BARRETT WINS

Eastern Amateur Cops Decision Over Don Kennedy in Main Event at L.A.A.C. Bouts

Sidney Barrett lived up to the reputation he brought with him from the East last night at the L.A.A.C. when he won the decision from Don Kennedy in the main event. In the first round Kennedy lost a tooth in an exchange of swats and from then on Barrett had things more or less his own way taking the lead at all times and the decision at the end.

In the semi-wind-up August Gotto and Mike Watters put up a good battle, both of them willing and fighting their best for a knockdown through all three rounds. Watters won the decision, though everybody but the judges thought that it should have gone to Gotto, as he had continually met Watters with straight ones from the shoulder. Watters was the aggressor, however.

Ned Golden got the nod in his bout with Sailor Billy Toomeyin, the special event. Chet Gleason, who is but a youngster, fought John Signorelli to a standstill in their bout. Signorelli is a full-grown man, and everybody was thinking that it was a shame to put a man against such a lad. It was. But the sympathy goes to Signorelli.

It seemed to be a bad evening for the Signorellis, for Phil, John's brother, lost his bout to F. Pizitola when his seconds threw the towel in at the end of the first round. Phil was on the floor at the bell. Billy Zukie won the decision from Austin Curtice and Gordon Henrichs won from Joe Abramson. Harry Beum put Merton Rassmussen on the floor once in the first and the referee raised his hand early in the second when he had Rassmussen as good as out.

MARTINEZ IN DRAW WITH JOE HERMAN

Smiling Joe Herman and Solly Martinez drew in the ten-round main event at the Pasadena Armory last night before a packed house. Martinez was substituting for Pal Moore and held his own in good style. Eddie Shannon defeated Johnny Martin in four rounds. Young Chris got the nod in four rounds over Danny McCoy. Danny Herrera won in four rounds over Henry Larsen.

Pennsylvania rowing crews will race every college this season either in triangular, quadrangular or intercollegiate championship tests.

ELEVEN ON JURY OF JAZZ GIRL

Twelfth to be Picked from New Venire

Two Women Among Those Already Chosen

Child Slayer Faints Two Times During Day

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—While the slow-moving machinery of law gradually shaped a jury in Superior Court here today, Dorothy Billingson, the child-woman, who at the age of 16 said she shot her mother rather than stay home from the whine and clatter of jazz, sat with the face of doom, trembling as if some terrible vision haunted her, twisting the handle of her handbag constantly.

Twice she fainted, both times outside the courtroom after the crowd had cleared out and she was on her way back to jail. The first time was at the noon recess, the last time just after adjournment of the afternoon session, which Judge Harold Louderback prolonged until 6 o'clock in a vain effort to complete the jury. On each occasion attendants caught her before she fell and carried her away.

The policewoman in attendance, seated within a few feet of Dorothy's place at counsels' table, carried a bag filled with restoratives. The girl had fainted so many times since the trial began Monday that police and attaches had come to take it as a matter of course. They were prepared for her to sit through the session stolidly and then, as the tension relaxed, to crumple, chalk-white, in the arms of whoever accompanied her.

NEW VENIRE CALLED

The jury venire was exhausted shortly before 6 o'clock with eleven jurors, nine men and two women, seated permanently with the problem of selecting the twelfth juror and a possible alternate left for tomorrow when a new venire will report.

For the girl the hours of plodding examination in the close room seemed to pass like days. Her breath came rapidly, but apparently she fought to stick it out each time until adjournment should give her the luxury of smiling, as she did at a recess this afternoon, or of letting herself go in a faint, as she did more often. She had twisted the handle of her handbag incessantly since Monday, and today it came off.

She continued to play with the bit of leather, turning it around rapidly and pulling at it, as if it were her only grip on reality. Most of the time she watched the handbag, something, it seemed, she could understand, and ignored the processes of the tribunal, apparently something with which she was not concerned.

Physicians who examined her after the fainting spells pronounced her in a highly nervous state.

Once this afternoon, as darkness enveloped the courtroom and the lights were turned on, the policewoman, observing the girl's trembling demeanor, asked her if she would like to leave.

"No, I'll stay," whispered Dorothy. "I'm all right."

JUDGE'S PRECAUTIONS

In the middle of the afternoon session attorneys on both sides pronounced the tentative jury satisfactory. Apparently the jury was about to be sworn in. But Judge Louderback said he wanted, as a final precaution, to ask the jurors collectively whether they knew of anything that would prevent any of them from trying the case impartially.

Walter J. Conner, a business man, got up abruptly and said he felt that he shouldn't serve.

"At the time of my examination," he explained, "I stated frankly that I had certain impressions of the case which I felt I could discard. I have been here going on four days, listening to these questions and answers. Those impressions of mine have formed themselves into opinions. It is not always easy to tell what your state of mind is on the spur of the moment."

He was excused by the court over objections by the defense, which contended that the jury had been formally selected when passed by both counsel, and that the court had intervened improperly.

This reopened the peremptory challenges and the prosecution proceeded to use one to excuse a juror who had been a little doubtful of his hearing.

The rest of the afternoon was taken up with trying to fill the twelfth seat. Counsel on both sides had signified a willingness to accept those seated in the other eleven.

Several men in succession were excused quickly when they said they had fixed opinions.

SALESMAN EXCUSED

J. H. Gardiner, a salesman, was excused after he had said on the question of insanity: "I have known people to be in detention homes for temporary insanity when all they really had was bad tempers."

The defense opened a new line of inquiry, indicating that it might combat the charge that Dorothy actually shot her mother. Walter McGovern, of the girl's attorneys, asked talesmen questions to this effect:

"If it should develop from the evidence that this defendant did not commit the crime charged, but has knowledge of it and is shielding some one else, would that fact prevent you from finding her not guilty?"

"If a confession to the crime should be introduced here and it developed that such a confession had been obtained by fraud, duress, threat or reward, and the court instructed that a confession obtained in such a manner should not be considered, would you follow that instruction?"

But defense counsel continued to interrogate those in the jury box on their attitude toward insanity as a defense to crime and toward a verdict of manslaughter in the event a murder had been done without design or premeditation.

NAMES OF JURORS

The eleven jurors apparently seated permanently are:

Martin Heneken, retired grocer.

George W. Hastings, motor transport superintendent, married.

George H. Clark, contractor, father of boy 17 years of age, and girl, 16.

Mrs. Dora R. Roche, middle-aged, wife of a silversmith, mother of one boy and two girls.

Removal of Rail Leads to Wreck of Vienna Train

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, March 26.—The Paris-Vienna express, eastbound, jumped the track today near Provins, Department of Seine-Et-Marne, fifty miles from Paris, where two rails had been removed from the roadbed. The police declared the removal evidently had been done by experts. There was no loss of life, although the entire train, traveling at full speed, was derailed. A deep ravine was just ahead of the spot.

The wreck, following the wrecking of the Paris-Bordeaux express yesterday, from causes as yet unexplained, with the loss of five lives and the injury to fifty persons, has stirred railroad and official circles.

PAWNBROKER HELD UP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, March 26. — Two unmasked men today held up Morris Lebo, proprietor of a pawnshop here, and escaped on foot with jewelry valued at $8000, and $500 in cash.

NEW CANCER CURE IS DISCUSSED BY BRITONS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, March 26.—The discovery of a new process which is expected to have the most important results in the treatment of cancer and other diseases in which radium is used, was discussed at a meeting of Middlesex Hospital today. This discovery consists of capturing emanations from radium, purifying and condensing them and bottling them in glass tubes the thickness of a human hair. This radium is called rado. After an exhaustive trial the Middlesex Hospital now is able to supply tubes to other hospitals. It asks that others capture radium gas which would otherwise be wasted. It is now possible to multiply the curative value of any given quality of radium thousands of times.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—A crippled sea gull which fluttered to earth today at an intersection of two of San Francisco's busiest streets, halted traffic while policemen and spectators went to its aid.

Street cars, trucks and pleasure cars stopped until the bird was caught and sent to a hospital. Then traffic proceeded.

CHANGE OF ROUTE LEAVES OUT TOWNS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) March 26.—A preliminary survey is reported to have been made for a new section of the National Old Trails Highway that would eliminate Kingman and Needles. This survey runs westward from Antares, a station on the Santa Fe twenty-five miles northeast of Kingman.

The new line would pass through Chloride and, after fifty miles of travel, would strike the Colorado River at the Searchlight ferry, from which connection would be made with the Arrowhead Highway in Nevada near Searchlight. It is held that the new route would materially shorten the cross-country distance although many arguments are advanced against the change.

"It is a peculiar situation and we prefer to let the matter drop for the present and give him a chance to rest up," Mr. Pettibone declared. "While nothing definite has been decided, it is his intention to ultimately resign."

It is understood that a condition of Kennedy's leave is that he will not discuss his case for publication.

CHOICE OF CHINA ENVOY DELAYED

Scramble for Post Holds Up Appointment to Peking

Schurman Unable to Leave for Berlin as Result

Situation in Orient Requires Constant Attention

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Insistent pressure by friends of various aspirants is holding up appointment of a Minister to Peking to relieve Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman for his new duties as Ambassador to Germany. The filling of the vacant legations in Rumania and Albania also is caught in the blockade due to activities of friends of the claimants.

Dr. Schurman is needed urgently for his duties in Berlin, but there is every evidence of reluctance to leave the Peking legation. Unsettled political conditions throughout China made it desirable that the American Minister keep in day-to-day touch to assure effective influence in protecting Americans and their properties in the event of disorders.

The de facto government in Peking possesses as much nominal control of the situation as has been held by any recent Chinese central government. However, little if any reliance can be placed upon the ability of the Peking authorities to afford adequate protection to foreigners should there come a new alignment of the military factions, accompanied by fighting in parts of China remote from the seacoast and from the protection of foreign warships.

SUN DEATH EFFECT

The Chinese political situation was further unsettled through the recent death of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the South China leader. It is still an open question whether his followers will align themselves in the portending struggle for power between military chieftains.

Students of Chinese developments report that the vast and unwieldy fabric of the old monarchy is in the throes of a political awakening on the part of a large group of its hundreds of millions of inhabitants. The active centers of this spread of political thought have been traced largely to the student group and there is said to be today in China as in some other countries, a movement which is assimilating rapidly much of the doctrine preached in soviet Russia.

STUDENT STRIKES

Evidence of this movement and of the serious proportions it may assume is seen in recent scattered but extensive strikes against Christian religious instruction by the student body of many missions and foreign-maintained instructional schools in China.

It is because of all these disturbing considerations that the Washington administration is exercising unusual care in selecting a successor at Peking for Dr. Schurman, whose striking ability, demonstrated under the difficulties that beset any western diplomat in China, brought about his promotion to Berlin.

STAGG RAPS TEA HOUNDS AND SISSIES

Says Effeminacy is Peril of Nation; Thinks Parents Are Too Indulgent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 26.—"We are becoming a nation of tea hounds and sissies," according to Alonzo A. Stagg, the "old man" of the University of Chicago, who has seen three generations of youths come and go.

"Now, I'm not an alarmist," said Stagg, "but I can't help observing the changes in the past three decades. The old sturdy love of sport is being forgotten in the quest for diversion that is at once comfortable and thrilling. The whole problem resolves itself into one of spoiled children. It is not what they drink—pink tea or white mule, or how many pleats they shall wear in their trousers; it's the way they are brought up."

Prof. Stagg agrees with Rear-Admiral Fiske, who, in an address last Saturday, said effeminacy is the nation's greatest peril.

"We are a nation of over indulgent parents," says Prof. Stagg. "We are bringing up a generation of unsocialized children. There's too much money in this country. Women don't know what to do with themselves under the joint stimulation of electric household appliances and the ballot. I place all blame for the prevalent softness and flabbiness of the average offspring upon the parents. The parents are enjoying comforts their parents did not know, and they are making things too easy for their own children."

DIRECTIONS HELP THIEF OPEN SAFE

Cracksman Gets 60 Cents; Monterey Concern's Vault Undamaged

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MONTEREY, March 26.—A carefully prepared set of instructions headed, "How to Open This Safe" undoubtedly saved the Tynan Lumber Company here an expensive safe-cracking job last night, and sent the cracksman away virtually empty-handed.

A year ago the company's safe was blown and the office wrecked to the extent of several thousand dollars, and the cracksman departed with about 6 cents for all of his trouble. H. A. Prince, office manager, bought a brand new safe, prepared the instructions, smiled knowingly and then awaited results.

Last night a cracksman visited the office, saw the instructions, followed them closely, extracted 60 cents from the safe, closed the big steel door again, locked it with the combination lock and then went his way.

"Now everybody's happy," was Prince's comment today.

Maximum Pay of Constable $20 Per Month

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—Any one holding the office of constable in the eighth judicial district of Gleen county is limited to a salary of $20 per month as far as county work is concerned. Dist.-Atty. H. W. McGowan of Glenn county wanted to know whether the constable of the district was entitled to receive pay from the county at the rate of $5 per day for road work, but Atty.-Gen. Webb has ruled that under Section 4290 of the Political Code the salary provided for the constable in Section 4267, relating to Glenn county, is "in full compensation for all services of every kind and description rendered by him for the county."

The name of the present constable does not appear in the opinion.

Whipping Post to be Retained by Delaware

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DOVER (Del.) March 26.—Delaware legislators, indorsing the efficacy of the Delaware whipping post for certain classes of crime now as in former years, have voted almost unanimously in favor of retaining the post.

The vote on the abolition of the post resulted in one yea vote with 31 nays.

The bill was introduced early in the present session of the House by Speaker Downward.

A similar bill was introduced in the Senate early in the session, but later withdrawn when it was known that one had been introduced in the House.

Porto Bello Gold

by Arthur D. Howden Smith

Synopsis: Abducted by his grand-uncle, a notorious pirate known as Capt. Rip-Rap, Robert Ormerod and Peter Corlaer are forced to submit as hostages to Rip-Rap's pirate ally, Capt. John Flint, to insure proper division of a Spanish treasure ship they are to capture. An Irish engineer, O'Donnell, in the pay of Spain, but disloyally assisting the pirates, is on the treasure ship, together with his daughter. Ormerod and Corlaer escape Flint's ship and return to Rip-Rap's, which is now on the high seas seeking the treasure ship. They sight their quarry and close in, capturing the prize.

The wolves of the James's crew were not schooled to show mercy, and they killed three poor fellows before Peter and I could knock up their cutlasses.

Murray's whistle blew a second time. There was a sudden hush, punctuated by the grinding of the two vessels, the thudding of unshod feet as more of the James's pirates dropped aboard the treasure-ship, the gagging cries of the wounded, the nasal singsong of a priest pattering Latin prayers.

I seized the opportunity to look around. We were too close under the poop to see what went on beyond the rail directly overhead; but the main deck, fore and aft, was a pitiful spectacle—cluttered with wreckage and dead men and bits of men and men wounded in every conceivable fashion, its yellow-sand carpet gemmed with carmine pools and rivulets.

My great-uncle, as immaculate as when he had ascended the James's bulwarks, stood a little ahead of the mass of his followers, his serene face and rich clothing in startling contrast with their nakedness and frank brutality. A trickle of blood dripped from the point of his slender sword. His attitude was that of an honorable man who wishes to be reasonable in a difficult situation.

"I believe I heard an appeal for quarter," he said quietly.

"Sir, you did," replied O'Donnell. "I have spoken for the gentleman beside me, Senor Don Ascanio de Hurtado y Custa, who is captain of this vessel."

"I am honored, sir," returned my great-uncle. "And yourself?"

O'Donnell did not altogether relish the playing of his part. He bit his lip and hesitated an instant before he answered.

"I am Col. O'Donnell, an officer in the service of his Most Catholic Majesty."

"Ah; and what can I do for you, gentlemen?" inquired my great-uncle.

O'Donnell hesitated again and conferred with the Spanish officer.

"Sir," he said then, "Don Ascanio asks you by me: Since when have your country and Spain been at war?"

"To the best of my knowledge, they are not at this present," my great-uncle answered blandly.

"Then to what cause must we attribute this—this—ah—unwarrantable attack?" demanded O'Donnell.

"I am afraid," replied my great-uncle almost with sorrow, "that I am unable to satisfy your curiosity upon that point."

The Spaniard burst into a declaration of passionate intensity, which Murray interrupted.

"I am so fortunate as to comprehend the noble Spanish tongue," he said. "Would you be so kind, Col. O'Donnell, as to acquaint your friend with the fact, and to assure him that I regret he must accept the situation as it stands? I am desirous of sparing the lives of those of his people who survive, but at a pinch I will slay them all to compass my intention."

"And what is that?" asked O'Donnell.

"To relieve Don Ascanio of the consignment of treasure he carries," answered my great-uncle. "When it is aboard my ship he shall be at liberty to continue his voyage."

O'Donnell proceeded haltingly to translate this statement. He never finished it. The Spaniard launched a fresh torrent of curses, broke his sword across his knee and tossed the pieces overside. My great-uncle nodded sympathetically.

"'Tis an unpleasant plight, I know," he said. "Had Don Ascanio not discarded his sword I should have been delighted to yield him an opportunity for such satisfaction as one gentleman may give another.

"However—I must stipulate further, Col. O'Donnell, that the crew of the Santissima Trinidad shall be placed in confinement for so long as suits my purpose. Any resistance must cause additional bloodshed, which, I am sure, you will agree is unnecessary."

"Don Ascanio will say no more," returned O'Donnell. "He washes his hands of the whole proceeding. Abandoned by his crew—"

"Enough," interrupted my great-uncle.

He rattled off a sentence in Spanish, and there was an answering rattle of arms thrown on the deck. He spoke again, and the Santissima Trinidad's men all shifted to starboard and marched into the fo'c'sle, herded by a bristle of pirate cutlasses.

Murray walked aft to where Peter and I still stood, uncertain what to do next.

"Have you seen her?" he asked.

"I think she is in that group of priests and nuns under the stern lanthorn," I said.

He compressed his lips, a habit he had whenever he must turn to some task he did not overly care for.

"'Tis a trick I shall find as distasteful as O'Donnell did our colloquy just now," he said shortly. "But we must be about it without delay. Our cannonade will have been heard ashore in Hispaniola with this wind. We must gather our loot and away."

The silence was oppressive as we ascended the poop ladder. A last babble of Latin ended on a hysterical note. The Spanish captain glared his hatred, gnawing at his hands as he leaned against the rail, and when my great-uncle drew a laced handkerchief from his coat pocket and began to wipe clean his red blade 'twas more than Don Ascanio could stand. He stalked to the far side of the deck, rumbling curses, and fixed his gaze upon the purple hills of Hispaniola. Behind the steering-wheel the black flock of religious gathered closer under the great, gilded lanthorn which crowned the high, pulpit-like recess intended to protect the helmsman; and amongst those cowled shaven-heads and shapeless swathed forms the slim grace and sunny, blue eyes of Moira O'Donnell were as patent as the growing fear with which her father met us.

My great-uncle nodded a satisfaction I was unable to comprehend.

"A fair maid, Robert!" he exclaimed. "Well, well! This is fine. I might ask no better. I congratulate you, chevalier," he added to O'Donnell. "Your daughter is as dainty a little lady as I have seen in a long life."

O'Donnell understood his mood no better than I.

"I wish she was out of this," he growled resentfully. "Don Ascanio has placed the conduct of matters in my hands. What is next? Must you—"

He gestured expressively toward the vessel beneath us.

"It seems— I—I find myself—'Tis a nauseating prospect— Several hundred men—and priests and nuns, Murray—Aye, a cardinal sin, one I'll never have absolution for, whatever betide—"

"You concern yourself without cause," said Murray, soothingly. "We have arranged it differently, and to that end shall act a part with your daughter which you must support; aye, to the offering of violence. And now, tell me where is the treasure?"

"In the lazaret."

"Master Saunders!" called my great-uncle.

The second mate thrust his way to the front of the mob of pirates on the main deck.

"Take fifty men and break out a quantity of treasure from the lazaret of the prize."

"Aye, aye, sir," returned Saunders, and the pirates fell over themselves in their alacrity to have a hand in his business.

My great-uncle concluded the cleaning of his sword, crossed to the larboard railing and tossed the bloodied handkerchief overboard.

"Oh, Master Martin," he hailed the mate on the poop of the Royal James.

"Aye, aye, sir," answered Martin. "— — — — — my gizzards for a — —, but we ha' done a clean job this morning."

"I find myself in agreement with your sentiments, Martin," replied my great-uncle. "Be so good as to have a whip rigged from the foreyard-arm to sling aboard the treasure which Saunders is breaking out. You will also tell off a score or two of men to make any essential repairs at once. I would have the ship ready to sail as soon as we cast off, which will be the moment the prize's cargo is transhipped."

"Aye, aye, sir. I'll attend to it all myself," Martin assured him. "— my eyes for a — — — and all the Twelve Apostles, blast 'em for a — — lot of — — —."

"A pungent fellow, Martin!" commented my great-uncle, recrossing the deck. "But we must play our little comedy here. You, chevalier, are cast for the Anguished Parent. I am the Aged Libertine. Peter is the Mute with the bowstring—be gentle Peter. Robert—humph! I scarce know how to describe your role, Robert. You, shall we say, are to be Youth? Ah, yes! Youth, immortal, selfish, impulsive, acquisitive, mendacious—"

Col. O'Donnell regarded him as if he had lost his sanity.

"What folderol is this?" he broke in.

"You shall see," answered Murray. "'Tis our way of carrying you off without focusing the suspicion of Don Ascanio and his people upon the personal participation in this interesting episode. But to continue the enumeration of our cast. Your daughter, of course, is the Innocent Victim.

"And this, Robert, leads me to recast you. I shall deny you the satisfaction of virtue—which after all, the clergy tells us, is its own reward. You shall be Youthful Wantonness, and did we adopt all the exigencies of the plot 'twould be necessary for you finally to strive with me for the possession of the maid. But we will wave that anon. Play up to me, nephew! You, too, Peter!"

He left us and walked with a mincing gait, entirely different from his real cat-like prowl, up to the black-garbed cluster surrounding Mistress O'Donnell.

"Stap me, a fair piece, this!" he drawled. "Too fair to bloom unseen. Come hither, mistress!"

A fat monk spat an ejaculation at him in Spanish, and two of the nuns threw their arms around the Irish girl. Murray replied to the monk in his own tongue, and with a virulent fluency which inspired the whole group with pitiful terror. But the maid answered him so dauntlessly that it made the blood prickle in my neck.

"A black shame on you, old enough to be the father of me and these others here! I know you for what you are, Capt. Rip-Rap, and if you will be thinking I am one to fear you it is a sorry wakening you will have. Oh, you might better be down on your knees, asking pardon for the wickedness you have wrought, than plotting fresh evil, and threatening holy folk with your dreadful torments!"

The fat monk lifted a crucifix like a weapon and shook it in his face, and Mistress O'Donnell put the two nuns aside and stood forth in front of the group, with her arms spread wide to shelter them.

RAILROAD LAND UNDER DISPUTE

Northern Pacific Claims Are Heard by Committee

Value of Acreage Selected Factor in Case

Investigators to Reconvene in Capital Tomorrow

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Two claims by the Northern Pacific Railway Company affecting approximately 3,500,000 acres of government land were considered today by the Congressional commission investigating land grants to the company. One claim approximating 2,200,000 acres was declared by James B. Kerr of Portland, Or., counsel for the company, to be due the railway to compensate it for land turned back to the government. Approximately 3,800,000 acres of the company's land, he said, was classified by a governmental commission as mineral land, and therefore, had to be returned.

The company had the right under its charter to select other land in its place, he contended, but only 1,600,000 acres has been selected in lieu of that returned. The remainder claimed by the company under its charter, he said, was surrendered under protest.

The Forestry Service has disputed the company's claim to the 2,200,000 acres on the ground that the value of the 1,600,000 acres selected was greater than that of the 3,800,000 acres returned.

The other claim, involving 1,300,000 acres, is held by the company to be due as compensation for land surrendered at the time the Crow Indian reservation was created. The government disputes certain points raised by the company as to where lands in lieu of this return are to be selected. This phase of the hearing remained uncompleted when the commission adjourned until Saturday.

OREGONIAN MAY LEAVE SHIP BOARD

Controversy on Division of Authority May Result in Haney's Withdrawal

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Resignation of one or more members of the Shipping Board is expected to result from the recent controversy over separation of the board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and the suggestion even has been made that some of the functions of the board may eventually be transferred to the Commerce Department.

Strong indications were given today that Commissioner Haney, appointed from Oregon, soon would submit his resignation. Haney is said by his friends to have been dissatisfied with recent developments in connection with board affairs, growing out of efforts to put into operation a plan for separation from the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

In addition to Mr. Haney, those in close touch with the situation have predicted that at least one other member would relinquish his post in the not distant future.

The row over separation has been in progress for several months. President Coolidge recommended that the two services be separated, and on December 23, 1924, the board adopted a resolution by a vote of 5 to 1, giving the Fleet Corporation a free hand in handling the ships, but leaving the Shipping Board with the duty of determining trade routes to be served. Commissioner Haney cast the dissenting vote.

MRS. OWENS GIVEN DIVORCE

Court Grants Alimony and Custody of Child

Husband and Witnesses Scored by Judge

Motion for New Trial to be Filed by Defense

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOLEDO (O.) March 26.—Mrs. Florence Whalen Owens, Toledo society girl, was granted a divorce from her husband, John Raymond Owens, millionaire sportsman, by Judge Austin, Jr., here today. She was given the divorce on the ground of gross neglect and extreme cruelty.

She was awarded $150,000 alimony and the custody of her child, Persus Ann. A trust fund of $50,000 was also set by the court for the maintenance of the child. She is to receive the fund when she reaches the age of 25.

Owens's cross-petition was dismissed by the court. Owens's attorneys announce they will file a motion for a new trial and this being denied, will carry the case to a higher court.

Owens also will have to appear before Federal Judge Killits in the course of a few days to answer a charge of white slavery returned against him and Irene Dalton, movie actress, by a Federal grand jury here some time ago.

Several of the witnesses were bitterly scored by Judge Austin in granting the decree.

WITNESSES SCORED

Austin called W. S. Atkinson of San Francisco, chief witness for Owens, "a dirty, contemptible cur and liar," and said it would have been far better if Owens had not presented a defense, as he did not give one word of credence to Owens's witnesses testifying to having improper relations with Mrs. Owens.

"Think of it! A man claiming to be one of your best friends for the past ten years to accept your money to come all the way from the Pacific Coast to tell me he had improper relations with his best friend's wife. Such a man as Atkinson is not fit to live. I simply consider him a dirty, contemptible cur and a dirty liar," said the judge. In granting the decree Judge Austin said:

"The Owens drama surpasses all the productions of Hollywood in the comedy, drama, pathos and tragedy presented. There has been a complete stage setting. Here you have a young man 24 years of age and a girl of 20 who get acquainted and become infatuated with each other. Neither has had a great deal of experience in life. The young man is the somewhat pampered son of a rich father, brought up through the plastic years of his life in a hotel.

"The girl is convent-bred and reared in an old-fashioned home. I know the parents of both. Both fathers were respected, well known and good citizens.

"The parents in both cases were mid-Victorian. Their views were not those of their children.

"The conduct on the part of both the man and woman cannot be approved. I don't overlook this fact, but I judged from the characters as they appeared here.

"An innocent girl married this young man. She tried to be a good comrade to him, I believe.

OWED HER LOYALTY

"This husband owed the wife more than furnishing her with money and a place to sleep. He owed her companionship, loyalty and protection. So far as money is concerned she had enough—too much. Especially as the husband didn't earn it and it was furnished by fond parents.

"The evidence is overwhelming. The girl, to begin with, went to dances and drank. She associated with highbinders and high livers. He introduced her to this life. She has not a right to complain because she couldn't stand the life and pace. She was physically incapacitated to this. Owens had a spare room separate from the home of his wife and child.

"She bargained for love and affection. He gave her only dollars instead.

"I won't pass upon Owens's conduct, as it might affect some one else. Owens has been guilty of conduct indiscreet and improper for a married man. I think that as far as the plaintiff is concerned, there has been proved gross neglect of duty on the part of the husband. His conduct also has constituted extreme cruelty. He cast away without seeming regret the mother of his baby. He showed no interest in the daughter which is the image of the father."

Sailings Indicate New Rum Ring in Pacific Waters

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHANGHAI, March 26.—Further disclosures concerning the departure to Mexico of the British motorship Eric Moller, loaded with whisky, indicate that a gigantic rum ring has been organized to carry liquors to Mexico and Central American states with the supposed intention of smuggling it into the United States.

The booze ring is reported to have headquarters in Shanghai and Hongkong, to which cities it moved owing to the tightening of restrictions on the Atlantic coast and the Canadian border.

Although it is impossible to obtain definite details regarding the cargo of the Eric Moller, it is said to have on board 37,000 cases of whisky valued at $500,000. In recent months rumors have been current here of a mysterious sailing craft which has been tied up in Shanghai Harbor, but is now finding a profitable business in the new commerce between China and Mexico.

Are You Asking This Question—

"Shall I buy a radio now? Or shall I wait six months or a year and benefit by possible improvements?"

Here Is Your Answer—

The day of radical changes in radio is past. And whatever changes come will not be worth waiting for.

Buy your radio NOW.

That answer is in accord with the opinion of the country's foremost radio authorities.

Radio, like the motor car, is beyond the stage of sudden and revolutionary changes. Refinements of course, will come. The radio of ten years hence will undoubtedly be materially different from the radio of today.

But the radio of next year will not. Take the Freed-Eisemann, for example. The Freed-Eisemann organization includes some of the most eminent of radio engineers and commands the most advanced ideas and the finest materials. And the Freed-Eisemann Company aims to maintain its leadership by making better and better radio sets.

Yet we predict that the Freed-Eisemann which you buy today will compare favorably—very favorably—with the latest model you can buy a year from now, of the same or ANY OTHER MAKE.

What! Wait a year and miss all this?

Ask the radio fan who sat in his own home and caught every word of President Coolidge's inauguration.

Ask the music lover who, in his own arm chair, heard the San Carlos Grand Opera Company, a few weeks ago, render with exquisite beauty, the masterpieces "Aida" and "Il Trovatore."

The children with their bedtime stories—the grown-ups with their fascinating plays and readings—the "jazz" devotees with a dozen orchestras constantly broadcasting.

Ask any of the thousands upon thousands who nightly enjoy radio if they wish they had waited another year before getting their sets!

Your answer will come back a thundering, unanimous "No!"

Think it over and you'll feel the same way.

You need radio in your home. You need it as much as a newspaper, or your favorite magazines. And, for much the same reason. Radio is one of the great reflectors of modern life—an educator of infinite power—an entertainer without a peer.

And, in the Freed-Eisemann Receiver, it has reached such a high stage of technical excellence that this set may indeed be considered the radio of tomorrow as well as of today—an instrument you will long be proud to own.

Buy Your Freed-Eisemann Radio NOW

Four and five-tube models—table and console sets—from $100 to $250. Write us for the name of your nearest dealer, and he will willingly give you a complete demonstration.

MAINE REPORTS TWIN CHICKENS

Pair Hatched From One Egg, Find Life too Dry to Enter Unaided

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AUBURN (Me.) March 26. Twin chickens were hatched from one egg here recently, a poultry raiser states. The twins were discovered when one egg was found with a small chip in it, but with the shell too dry for the chicks to force their way through. After being placed in warm water, two healthy chicks fell out.

ney Crowe had requested the digging up of the bodies.

"Of course, it has been contemplated all along," he said, "but with so much evidence pointing at Shepherd, it has been decided that every angle is to be investigated."

Judge Olson asserted at the time the first investigation into the tragic death of Billy McClintock was started that the circumstances of Mrs. McClintock's death were suspicious and that he was confident his brother did not die from natural causes.

Dr. Olson was Mrs. McClintock's physician and according to the judge died shortly after Shepherd visited him in his sick room. Following the death of Mrs. McClintock, the physician was Billy's friend and adviser and was always distrustful of Shepherd, Judge Olson added.

While the conference was going on Shepherd was brought from his cell for a few minutes this afternoon and taken to Chief Justice Hopkins's chambers, where Assistant State's Attorney Savage had two new possible witnesses, employees of a microscope concern where Shepherd is said to have inquired last autumn about buying an instrument. One of the men partially identified Shepherd as that customer.

Mr. Savage kept both men's names secret.

FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

In the meanwhile William Scott Stewart of counsel for the defense, announced that he would asked Judge Hopkins to reconsider his decision that Shepherd must remain in jail until his trial for the murder of young McClintock started. His plea will be based on the discovery of further important evidence.

"I have to complete the arrangements," the attorney said. "In the next few days I will request the judge to permit me to introduce the new evidence."

He intimated that he would again raise the point that the State has to prove the "corpus delicti."

In the event that Judge Hopkins refuses to reconsider his decision to keep Shepherd behind the bars, Attorney Stewart said that he would immediately prepare a writ of habeas corpus to be presented to the Supreme Court of Illinois as soon as it convenes for the April term.

Arraignment of Shepherd and his plea to the indictment which will be "not guilty" will be delayed until this matter has been settled.

DINNER FOR DIPLOMATS STIRS CORPS

Belgian's Absence is Said to be Due to Presence of German

A dinner given by the Adventurers' Club in honor of the members of the local consular corps at the Ambassador last night brought up the question as to whether or not official representatives of Belgium are permitted by their government to be present at social functions attended by representatives of Germany.

The situation is said to have developed when Charles Winsel, local Vice-Consul for Belgium, is reported to have declined an invitation to last night's affair. The reason attributed to the refusal, according to Arnold Kruckman, secretary of the Adventurers' Club, was that Belgian representatives have been instructed not to attend social functions where prominent Germans or German governmental representatives are present.

Mr. Winsel when questioned about the report said that for official reasons he could not discuss the matter in any manner, either to deny or to affirm the assertion that such instructions have been issued by the Belgian government. He said he had not received an invitation to the affair and that if he had he would either have accepted or declined with thanks without giving any reason for his action.

The guests last night included H. C. Niese, Consul of Argentine; J. A. Alborta, of Bolivia; R. R. Rudas, Colombia; C. E. Bobertz, Costa Rica; J. A. Saenz, Cuba; V. M. Egas, Ecuador; G. A. Fisher, Great Britain; U. Quesada, Honduras; E. Piana, Italy; K. Wakasugi, Japan; Rafael Aveleyra, Mexico; A. Pallais, Nicaragua; M. L. Ayulo, Peru; A. Orfila, Spain; A. Loeb, Switzerland; S. C. Hagen, Germany; August Koppes, Luxemburg; Adrian Harton, Netherlands.

Other honor guests beside the consuls and their wives, were Hon. E. J. Lewis, secretary of the Consular Corps here; Mayor and Mrs. George Cryer, Arthur Eldredge of the Board of Public Works; Col. Rolegio Coyas Bazan, Governor of the State of Canaguay, Cuba and the Cuban Consul-General at San Francisco, Dr. Gabriel A. Anenabar.

ROBBERS' CACHE YIELDS MILLION

Two Arrested as Members of Large Crime Ring

Bootlegger and Bandit Gang Hunted by Police

Stolen Goods Disposed of by Mail Orders

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 26. — Two men were arrested tonight, charged with being members of a band of robbers and bootleggers whose cache of stolen goods estimated to be worth as much as $1,000,000 was discovered today in an old two-story building on South street.

The suspects said they were Patrick Mitchell, a laborer, and Max Price, a salesman, both of New York. They are charged specifically with stealing today, from the warehouse of Pinous, Sachs & Co., $30,000 worth of woolens which were found in the warehouse. They denied the charges.

Police in their raid on the warehouse found great stores of fabrics of all kinds, leathers, dyes, canned goods, cigarettes and cigars; between seventy-five and 100 barrels of alcohol and liquor, and in the basement two large stills which apparently had been in recent operation. They found a fleet of twenty-two trucks, some of which have been identified as recently stolen.

They found desks, telephones, filing cabinets, typewriters, correspondence and other indications that this was the headquarters of an extensive mail-order business conducted by a highly organized bandit and bootlegger band.

They found secret doors and stairways with an ingenious buzzer signal alarm system; a trick safe concealed in a wall and a trap door operated by electricity; a store of six-shooters; altogether a fantastic combination of a modern big-business office and dime-novel bandits' lair.

Shortly after police had broken into the place a mail carrier delivered a batch of letters, which were turned over to postal inspectors. It is hoped through these and the mass of correspondence found to trace mail-order purchasers and to get on the trail of the bandits themselves.

BIRTH CONTROL BAN SCORED

Conference Adopts Resolution Describing France and America "Most Backward Nations"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 26.—The sixth international Neo-Malthusian and birth-control conference in the second session of its seven-day meeting unanimously adopted today a resolution describing France and the United States as "the most backward countries represented at the conference" from the standpoint of dissemination of birth-control information.

Several speakers pictured birth control as the only method of preventing overpopulation of the world and consequent intensification of the economic struggle for existence in industrial countries.

Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, approved scientific study and discussion of the subject, but opposed birth-control practices for the present, saying it would lessen the American spirit of progress and adventure, lessen the number of young people and make the old a burden to the young.

J. O. P. Bland, English author and authority on the Far East, declared the future civilization "depends entirely upon whether the population problem is going to be solved by birth control or by mustard gas."

"The race-suicide bogie," he said, "has no more real significance than Kaiser Wilhelm's conception of 'the Yellow Peril' or the 'phantom of the 'rising tide of color.' "

Prof. Paul H. Douglas of Amherst College, asserted that feminists in Europe favored the fixing of such minimum wages as will permit all workers to maintain a family of five. At this rate, the United States would be able to support 70,000,000 more persons than it does now.

Rosika Schwimmer of Austria, who was a passenger on Henry Ford's "peace ship," objected to Prof. Douglas's interpretation of European feminists' purposes. She asserted that they have favored no such fixing of wages.

Prof. Samuel J. Holmes of the University of California was another speaker

LILLIAN GISH DRAWS CROWD

Courtroom Filled in Action of Producer to Enforce Contract With Star; Duell Handled Finances

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 26.—Lillian Gish played to another full house today. The screen actress drew crowds of flappers, stenographers and "soda slingers" once more to the courtroom in the Woolworth Building where the suit of Charles H. Duell, movie producer, to enforce an exclusive contract with Miss Gish is on trial.

Miss Gish arrived early, clad in a dark-blue serge suit, modishly cut as to length. The white collar of her shirtwaist was turned over her mannish suit collar. Her hat was black straw, trimmed with black velvet.

Evidence has cast some interesting light on Miss Gish's business and other affairs.

It has revealed that she signed a contract to work for Duell for eight years for a salary starting at $1250 weekly and scaling up to $2500 at the end of three years —plus 15 per cent of the gross profits.

It also has revealed that not only did Lillian make a will naming Duell her sole executor, but so did her equally famous sister Dorothy, and also her mother.

In addition Duell drew from his own company Lillian's pay for her and handled in his own name a large amount of securities and other investments she owns.

Witnesses explained Duell's close control of Lillian's affairs with the statement that they were engaged to be married. Lillian frowned when reference to the engagement was made, but her lawyer says it is true and that Duell completely dominated her two years ago, but doesn't any more.

It cost $625,000 to impress the public with the idea that the motion picture "White Sister" was a worth-while production by showing it in legitimate theaters at high box-office admission prices, according to Boyce Smith, who took the stand today.

Smith was once a member of the law firm of Duell & Smith, and is now an officer and director of Duell's concern.

The total box-office receipts of the "White Sister," while it played in legitimate theaters was only $497,000, the witness said. This involved an immediate loss of $128,000 but, the witness declares, the procedure was necessary so that the public opinion of the picture might be formulated and motion-picture exhibitors throughout the country might subsequently be charged higher rental for the picture.

PARIS LOOKS FOR SECOND BERLIN NOTE

Memorandum Expected to Explain Original Stand of Germany on Security

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, March 26.—Unofficial, but reliable, information in diplomatic circles in Paris is that Germany soon will send a second memorandum to the powers explaining her original propositions on security. A semiofficial communique hints that the Allies are not yet agreed over the question of German disarmament.

Failure of the ambassadors' council at its meeting today to touch upon the question is set forth as evidence that the subject will be avoided until Germany's second note is received. Germany's idea, it is said, appears to be to arrive at a separate security treaty with each of her neighbors.

Word from Berlin indicates a desire to send competent negotiators to discuss with the ambassadors the restrictions imposed on the Reich concerning construction of airplanes as well as aeronautics and supplies. This promises, should such a request be made, further to complicate the situation.

There is no enthusiasm in any section of French opinion over a German pact, no matter how presented. The French standpoint is that it is essential that the Allies be in complete agreement before negotiating with Germany. It is understood that the instruction with which M. De Fleuriau, the French Ambassador, returned to London emphasized the point upon which the French government most insists—that any pact with Germany must be compatible with strict execution of the letter and spirit of existing treaties and also enhance the security which those treaties afford.

Lillian Gish Atrae una Gran Muchedumbre al Juzgado

NUEVA YORK, Marzo 26.—Lillian Gish tuvo hoy casa llena otra vez. La actriz de la pantalla atrajo una muchedumbre de "flappers", taquigrafas y servidores de gaseosas a la sala de juzgado del edificio Woolworth, donde se está conociendo del jucio entablado por Charles H. Duell, productor de cintas, para hacer efectivo un contrato especial que celebró con la señorita Gish.

Temprano compareció ésta, vestida con un traje de sarga azul oscuro, de la longitud que actualmente prescribe la moda. El cuello blanco de su blusa caía sobre el cuello de su traje masculino. Llevaba un sombrero de paja negra adornado de terciopelo de igual color.

Los testimonios han arrojado luces interesantes sobre los negocios y otros asuntos de la señorita Gish.

Han revelado que firmó la estrella un contrato para trabajar con Duell durante ocho años, por un sueldo que empieza siendo de $125 semanarios, y va subiendo, hasta llegar a $2500, pasados los tres primeros años, más un quince por ciento de las utilidades brutas.

También han hecho conocer que, no sólo otorgó Lillian un testamento por el que hace a Duell su único albacea, sino que cosa igual otorgaron su famosa hermanita Dorothy y la madre de ambas.

Además, Duell cobró de su propia compañía el sueldo de Lillian, e hizo operaciones en su propio nombre con una gran cantidad de títulos y de valores que posee Lillian.

Los testigos atribuyeron el completo gobierno de los negocios de Lillian por Duell al hecho de que, según dicen los referidos testigos, tiene la pareja compromiso de matrimonio. Lillian frunció el ceño cuando se mencionó lo del compromiso, pero su abogado dice que es verdad, y que Duell la dominaba por completo hace dos años; pero que ya no la domina.

Costó $625,000 convencer al público de que la película "White Sisters" era producción de valer, y para eso hubo que exhibirla en teatros serios, cobrando altos precios de entrada. Tal declaró Boyce Smith, que ocupó hoy la barra de los testigos.

Smith fue en otra época miembro de la compañía de abogados Duell y Smith, y es hoy de la directiva de la empresa de Duell.

Agregó el testigo citado que el total de la recaudación de "The White Sister", mientras se estuvo dando en buenos teatros, ascendió tan solo a $497.000. De allí que la pérdida líquida fuera de $128,000. Ese procedimiento, sin embargo se hizo necesario para que pudiera formularse la opinion pública acerca de la cinta, y fuera factible luego rentarla a todos los teatros del país a precios elevados.

Se Recobran Joyas por Valor de $105,000

Ayer anunció el señor Cato, Capitán Ayudante de Detectives, que se habían recobrado alhajas valoradas en $105,000, que fueron robadas el 11 del corriente del auto de un dependiente de joyería. También se practicó la aprehensión de dos individuos, que se sospecha sean los ladrones.

Las joyas se encontraron escondidas en un baúl de la casa de la esposa de uno de los sopechosos, según manifiesta la policía. Allí fueron guardadas por los ladrones, sin que la referida esposa tuviera conocimiento de ello. Las joyas se encontraron intactas, según dicen los detectives.

Han sido detenidos y acusados de hurto mayor, Fred Harris, alias Harry Brody, y Tom Copage.

Harris fue aprehendido el lunes en la sala del juez superior Keatch, después de que éste lo había sentenciado a noventa días de prisión por un delito de falsificación. Su arresto se debió a un cotejo de marcas dactilográficas de este individuo y de las encontradas en el coche del dependiente Maurice Rudman, coche que fue encontrado el sábado, detrás de la escuela preparatoria de Hollywood, donde había sido abandonado. Copage fue prendido por unos detectives que habían estado vigilando la casa de su esposa desde el día en que fueron descubiertas las alhajas.

Cuando se halló el coche abandonado, los detectives hicieron pesquisas alrededor del vehículo para ver dé dar con las huellas muy especiales de los neumáticos del coche. Varias de estas huellas fueron luego descubiertas detrás de la casa de los Copage, según dice la policía.

Las joyas pertenecen a la Bastheim Jewelry Company, cuyo domicilio está en el edificio de la Title Guarantee Company, número 405. Estaban contenidas en varios maletines que dejó Rudman en un auto que apartó breves minutos cerca de la oficina de la joyería. Al volver a la calle su coche había desaparecido. Por esos días se creyó que el robo había sido cuidadosamente planeado por gente experta.

TAX 'INFLUENCE' RING IS CHARGED

Income Assessment Cuts Said to be Promised

Fake Railroad Levy Leads to Three Arrests

Former Federal Workers Knew Bureau Routine

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Arrests made in Connecticut and here are believed by internal revenue officials to have broken up a group of former employees of the Bureau of Internal Revenue engaged in an asserted attempt to "sell influence" among taxpayers on the claim that it could have tax assessments reduced.

With the arrest of John F. McCarren and J. M. Clifford in New Haven, the bureau gave out details of an asserted effort of those two and Frederick Sutherland, apprehended here, to collect fees from the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company for "reducing" a fake assessment of more than $1,000,000.

Sutherland, until a few days ago an auditor in the income tax unit, was accused by the bureau of drafting the fake assessment letter.

Officials of the railroad called the matter to the attention of Treasury officials as soon as they were approached on it, and the investigation that followed resulted in the arrests. Bureau officials also were quick to see the danger of other swindling attempts of similar character in view of the large number of former employees who are well acquainted with routine in the bureau and could, if so inclined, make convincing representations of "influence."

There has been little chance in any of the few cases of crookedness uncovered in the bureau recently by which the government could lose, officials asserted, but they explained that taxpayers unfamiliar with the laws and the operation of the bureau, might easily be misled and part with substantial fees without hope of restitution.

EDISON INCOME FORGES AHEAD

February Earnings Statement Shows Big Gain

Los Angeles Gas and Electric Scores Record

Branch Banks to Occupy New Quarters Soon

The income statement of the Southern California Edison Company for February, which has just been completed, shows an increase of 97 per cent in net earnings, a decrease of 35 per cent in operating expense, and a gain of 10 per cent in gross revenue, as compared with figures for the corresponding month of last year.

The increase of 10 per cent in gross revenues, which totalled $1,828,123.13, against $1,664,236.40 for February, 1924, is attributed by officials of the corporation to the rapid growth of the territory served, the major part of the additional load coming from increased consumption for domestic purposes and industrial plants.

Greatly improved power supply conditions in Southern California resulting from abundant snowfall in the mountains, together with the installation of a new steam generating plant at Long Beach, are reflected in the operating expenses of the corporation for February. This item totalled only $712,006.56 for the second month of the year, compared with $1,096,729.97 for February a year ago.

Increased use of the company's electrical energy, combined with the more economical cost of operation, were responsible for the almost startling jump in the comparative net earning figures. Total net for the second month of this year was $1,116,176.57. After making a deduction of $409,423.27 for interest charges for the month, there remained a balance applicable to depreciation reserve, dividends and surplus of $706,753.30.

More than 70 per cent of the Edison company's load will be increased when the mountain snows begin to melt next April. So far this year there has been nearly three times as much precipitation as last year. Above Huntington Lake there is sufficient snow on the ground to fill all of the reservoirs. Waters diverted through the new Florence Lake tunnel will supplement this storage, resulting in the maximum use of water power during the approaching season.

Record Established

Thirty-one years without a failure is the dividend record established by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation this week. On March 27, 1894, a succession of dividend payments which has never been interrupted was inaugurated and with this anniversary the number of disbursements is the equivalent of 124 quarterly dividends. Even during the panic of 1907-08, when thousands of firms were forced to the wall, and countless others sustained huge losses, the holders of this stock received regular returns on their investment.

The year just passed has been a prosperous one, gross earnings totaling $16,056,722. The excess of earnings over preferred stock requirements was $2,661,922. Over $15,000,000 was spent in plant improvement and betterment during 1924, including the new office home at 810 South Flower street, and construction on the Seal Beach electric station.

The growth of the community served is reflected by the increase of electric and gas services of the corporation. Since 1920, gas services have increased 137,154, while electric meters have increased 63,689, a total gain of 200,843. At the end of 1924 the total number of meters was 417,393.

During 1924 $5,672,483 was paid as wages to 4173 men; taxes totaled $1,397,183, and preferred stock dividend disbursements amounted to $1,417,863.

Branch Banks to Move

New banking quarters will be occupied shortly by two of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank's Los Angeles branches. On the 16th inst., The Vernon and Vermont branch, managed by G. H. Freytab, will move from the present temporary quarters at 985 Vernon avenue, to 4400 Vermont avenue. The Sixth and Western branch, L. G. Tyler, manager, will move into 601-03 South Vermont avenue, from 3206 West Sixth street on April 4.

Dividends Declared

Barker Brothers, Inc., of Los Angeles, home furnishers with headquarters at 716 South Broadway, announced yesterday that the regular quarterly dividends on the 7½ per cent first preferred stock and on the 7 per cent second preferred shares have just been declared. Both disbursements will be made April 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business, the 14th inst.

Dividend announcements yesterday received by the Los Angeles Stock Exchange are as follows:

Quarterly dividend No. 3 of $1.50 a share on the stock of the Sun Finance Company, payable April 1 to stock of record the 25th inst.

United Oil, a quarterly dividend of 75 cents, payable April 16 to stock of record April 6.

BAD CHECKS

The following bulletin on bad check-writing was issued yesterday by the forgery detail of the Los Angeles police department detective bureau:

A young man sometimes posing as a doctor, known by the name of R. M. Hagen, R. H. Schafer and Dr. H. M. Schafer, has obtained quite a bit of money in this city recently through issuing worthless checks. Usually lumber dealers are his victims. He represents to them that he is supervising the building of his home. His method of operation is to select building material or lumber, and in payment presents quite a large check, requesting the balance in cash. He invariably gives a fictitious address to which he wants the material delivered.

Following is a description of the man: 25 years of age, 5 feet, 6 inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, dark complexion, smooth shaven, dark hair, brown eyes. On one occasion he is reported to have limped, although this defect may have been a clever piece of acting on his part. He always has with him printed letter heads, cards, envelopes and doctors' prescription pads, which he uses as identification.

Notify the forgery detail immediately if this man attemps to cash a questionable check in your place of business. Merchants are particularly warned regarding cashing checks for strangers, and if the above described man is recognized, the public is urged to get in touch with the police immediately.

BUSINESS SANITY WELCOMED

New York Banker Says Conservatism is Watchword of New Era; Coolidge Sets Example

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Guy Emerson, vice-president of the Bankers' Trust Company of New York has a sensible answer for the querulous people who are inclined to express dissatisfaction over the state of business. As he views the situation it is wise to adjust one ideas to the spirit of the day and to forget that prosperity once meant nothing short of a boom. Business no longer is either "prince or pauper," as Andrew Carnegie described the steel industry, but is gradually entering an era of stabilization. This new sentiment, Mr. Emerson adds, is personified in the character of President Coolidge for whom business men have a real admiration.

Among the eastern business men, as Mr. Emerson yesterday told Los Angeles bankers with whom he is visiting, the dominant note is one of conservatism. It is not difficult to practice this policy in their own affairs, for economy and efficiency are typified in every action of the Washington government pertaining to business. More than this, the conduct of its own affairs by the Federal government is expressive of the stern principles of thrift laid down by the White House.

EFFICIENCY APPLAUDED

Mr. Emerson from his contact with business corporations, has seen the eagerness with which executive officers have welcomed the economy slogan. Now they walk into the directors' meeting and confidently outline policies of conservative nature, calling for the elimination of expensive frills and the wholesale introduction of the principles of efficiency and conservatism.

Speculation in inventories is frowned upon and stocks are maintained only at a point to cover normal requirements. Production is keyed to the known demands of consumers and no attempt is made by the majority of executives to load their wholesalers or retailers with more goods than they can easily handle. No one expects to realize big profits by these methods, and, strangely enough, as Mr. Emerson observes, the average board of directors is quite willing to concur in this program.

A willingness to allow operations to run along normal lines is distinctly satisfactory to most executives, who are now able to turn more attention to the reduction of costs and the accumulation of cash reserves. There is no particular pressure on them to push sales to the straining point and they are much more contented to maintain business along a normal level. By following this policy, progressive industrial heads hope to obviate much of the evils arising from recurrent booms and reactions in the country's business.

BUDGETS POPULAR

Mr. Emerson has also observed that the budget system popularized by the Washington government is extending from business corporations to the private life of an increasing number of people. The hit-and-miss methods of conducting a business are antiquated by the regulation of expenditures by budgetary control and with such success that the American families are finding it incumbent upon them to adopt similar measures.

There are many developments to substantiate the observations of the New York banker. Even in the face of the highly optimistic forecasts of 1925 business offered at the beginning of the year, it is becoming apparent that the great number of corporations turned a little more thoughtful when studying their own prospects, and decided to proceed with steps carefully attuned to the spirit of the day. The automobile industry is a pertinent illustration. Through high-pressure methods, these companies aggressively pushed sales in 1924, but toward the end of the year found that it would have been wiser to have pursued more conservative tactics. This lesson is evident in the production of cars so far in this year.

INFLATION ABSENT

Probably the tenor of the times is suitably emphasized by the state of credit and the level of commodity prices. More than one economist credited with prophetic vision is busily explaining the failure of the American public to work itself into a speculative frenzy by freely dipping into the nation's excess supply of money gold. For some time predictions of inflation in both commodity and security prices were heard, but the fact remains that neither event has materialized. As a group, commodities are acting in a normal manner, and the volume of trading on the stock exchange is far behind the figures expected in a genuine stock-market boom.

Mr. Emerson expresses the opinion that New York bankers are completely satisfied with the display of sanity in business affairs and are doing all in their power to insure the maintenance of this mental equilibrium as the normal standard of prosperity.

Mr. Emerson is in Los Angeles on business connected with the Bankers' Trust Company, and is conferring with J. Dabney Day, president of the Citizens' Banks.

PERMIT FOR BRANCHES IS GIVEN BANK

Institution to Establish Seven Additional Offices in Southern California

Permission to establish seven additional branch offices in Southern California, through the conversion of already existing institutions, was granted the Bank of Italy yesterday.

Telegraphic authorization from the Federal Reserve Board has been received by James A. Bacigalupi, president of the Bank of Italy, who announced that the necessary approval of the State Banking Department had been secured.

The banks concerned in the authorized group represent total resources of nearly $5,000,000 and include the American National Bank of Santa Ana; First National Bank of El Centro; State Bank of Venice; San Fernando Valley Savings Bank of San Fernando with its branch at Newhall; Arcadia Savings Bank of Arcadia, and the Santa Monica Boulevard State Bank of Hollywood.

"All of the institutions concerned in this instance are established banks," said Bacigalupi, "and the permission does not authorize the creation of any strictly new branches."

Sugar Company Will Call Bonds for Retirement

The retirement of $375,000 of the $15,000,000 Cuban Dominican Sugar Company's twenty-year first mortgage 7½ per cent bonds, floated last November, will be effected on May 1, the first semi-annual interest date, according to word received here yesterday at the local offices of the National City Company from the firm's New York headquarters. The bonds, which will be drawn by lot, are to be retired at 110 and accrued interest. They have been quoted recently, 97½ bid, offered at 98. Numbers of the drawn bonds will be available at the National City Company's offices on West Sixth street next weer, it was stated by officials yesterday.

Flotation of the Cuban Dominican Sugar Company issue last fall was one of the outstanding industrial bond offerings placed on the market during the latter part of 1924. The underwriting syndicate was headed by the National City Company and associate bankers in New York. A large portion of the issue was sold on the Pacific Coast, many of the bonds finding their way into the safe-deposit boxes of Southern California investors. The issue bears the date of November 1, 1924, and matures in 1944.

Central European Notes Already Distributed; Oil Financing Effected

Fresh security offerings scheduled to be placed on the investment market for public subscription today totaled upward of $9,000,000, the principal tenders consisting of $3,000,000 short-term 6 per cent gold treasury notes of the Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, and $4,000,000 Transcontinental Oil Company 7 per cent five-year gold notes. An issue of 50,000 shares of the capital stock of the Coty Company, French perfumery manufacturers, will also be floated this morning at $37 a share through a syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers.

The loan to the Serbian government, which was negotiated through a banking group headed by Blair & Co., Inc., and Chase Securities Company, was reported last night by the underwriters to have been entirely sold out to distributing firms throughout the country. Public offering is being made on the retail market today through a syndicate of investment houses, including several Los Angeles concerns, at par. Proceeds of the issue will be used to refund a similiar face amount of notes maturing on the 31st inst.

Each $1000 note carries a detachable warrant entitling the holder to purchase 100 shares of Transcontinental stock at 5½ before October 1, 1925; at 6½ up to April 1, 1926; 8 up to April 1, 1927; 10 up to April 1, 1928, and 12 up to April 1, 1929. Net earnings of the company before interest, depreciation and depletion amounted to $1,300,593, last year, of which $672,000 accrued in the final quarter.

WHO'S WHO

F. W. Heathcote, junior vice-president and auditor of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, will address the merchants' council of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce and the employees of the members, at a dinner on the 31st inst. His subject will be "Selling Service."

WALL STREET GOSSIP

COTTON PRICES OFF ON REPORT OF RAIN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 26.—Spot cotton 40 points net lower at 25.25.

Cotton future prices reacted sharply in the last hour today, due to reported heavy rains in Texas and heavy liquidation by prominent local speculative operators. Losses of approximately $2.50 a bale were registered on the decline. Earlier the list had shown a sagging tendency in dull and featureless trading with business small and to a large extent representing scalping operations by local professionals. The list closed 42 to 55 points net lower.

FRENCH SEEK TURKISH PACT

Would Use It as Lever Against England, Russia

Also Desires Contract for Arms, Submarines

Moslems Want Backing in Mosul Question

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 26. Henri Franklin-Bouillon, French expert on Turkish matters, is now in Turkey trying to establish a basis for an alliance between Turkey and France.

As the Mosul question is coming up in the spring for a settlement and as Turkey may need arms and credit as well as diplomatic support at Geneva, Angora is flirting violently with France. And with the French government seeking allies, Paris has decided that the time is ripe to try to settle outstanding questions with Turkey and to make a close accord with the Turks.

The French objectives are: Security for Syria; gain the support of Turkish influence in North Africa and the middle east; an alliance with Turkey to use as a lever against England and Russia, and indirectly against Germany in case Russia and Germany become allies; the favorable settlement of the Ottoman public debt; protection of existing French interests; a dominant economic position and contracts for arms, torpedoes, submarines, radio stations, naval repairs and the construction of new railroads.

The Turkish objectives are: French support against England on the Mosul question, notably diplomatic support at Geneva; unlimited use of the Bagdad railway, and munitions and credits; an easy settlement of the public debt, and a semi-Turkish regime at Alexandretta.

The French government at first proposed to send M. Franklin-Bouillon as Ambassador to Turkey several months ago. But the British declared they would consider this an unfriendly act, and thereby prevented it. The British were wrathful at him for making a separate peace with Turkey by the famous Angora accord of 1921, wherein the French turned over to Turkey huge quantities of munitions and agreed to support the Turks at the peace conference in return for a Turkish promise of military support in the event of an Anglo-French conflict over Syria and the promise of a dominant economic position.

The Turks are so anxious to please the French that they have refused an offer of the German Junkers to build an airplane factory at Angora; mainly to build planes for the German army.

Until M. Franklin-Bouillon arrived the French had intended to give the contract for the construction of a large radio station at Angora to the Radio Corporation of America, and a submarine contract to the Submarine Boat Corporation, but everything is off now.

As the Turks are planning to defend the Dardanelles in the next war with torpedoes and shore batteries, they are planning to place big orders for torpedoes.

Gen. Sarrut, the new French Ambassador, will not come to Turkey until M. Franklin-Bouillon returns to Paris and reports.

NEW YORK BONDS

Trend is Indefinite

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 26.—Fears that the Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate would be increased, which later were proved groundless, curbed speculative sentiment in today's bond trading and prices fluctuated within extremely narrow limits. Selling pressure was renewed against oil and local traction liens, but the market as a whole failed to develop a definite trend.

Scattered buying appeared for a number of railroad obligations, and was effective in lifting Reading general 4s 2 points and International and Great Northern first and adjustment 6s about a point each. Erie convertible 4s responded to the stockholders' ratification of that road's lease to the new "Nickel Plate," but Chesapeake and Ohio convertible 5s eased off in the face of a court decision which will prevent minority stockholders from blocking a meeting to consider the proposed inclusion of the company in the Van Sweringens system.

Despite a curtailment in crude oil production last week petroleum company bonds were offered freely and prices were forced back a point or more. The decline in Pan American 6s reflected nervousness over the delay in completing reorganization plans. Bethlehem Steel 5s were among the other heavy spots in the industrial list.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange and the total sales of each bond. These quotations are received over Associated Press wires, and to expedite transmission the closing is omitted when it is the same as the low, and both low and close are omitted when they are the same as the high.]

Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes
(Yugo-Slavia)
Six-Months 6% Treasury Gold Notes

Dated March 31, 1925 — Due September 30, 1925

Notes in denomination of $1,000. Principal and interest payable at maturity in United States gold coin at the office of Blair & Co. in New York City without deduction of any taxes or imposts, present or future, imposed by the Kingdom or any taxing authority therein.

The following information has been furnished by Dr. M. M. Stoyadinovitch, Minister of Finance of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes:—

DIRECT OBLIGATION: These Notes are to be the direct obligation of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, and the issuance thereof is duly authorized pursuant to the Budget Law for the fiscal year 1924-1925, and Section 110 of the Law of Public Accounts. The Government agrees that until these Notes are paid it will not issue any evidences of indebtedness having any specific security without giving these Notes priority in respect of such security. The proceeds of this issue of Notes will be used to refund $3,000,000 Notes maturing March 31, 1925.

ECONOMIC PROGRESS: During the last few years Yugo-Slavia has made great progress in improving its financial and economic situation and in consolidating the various political units which form the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. The budget for the fiscal year 1924-1925 balances at Dinars 10,405,000,000. For the year 1924, revenues exceeded anticipated expenditures by Dinars 530,000,000, which at the average rate of exchange during the period is equivalent to $6,750,000.

FOREIGN TRADE: Exports and imports since 1922 have been reported as follows:

Year	Exports (Dinars)	Imports (Dinars)
1922	3,691,166,163	6,441,876,189*
1923	8,048,743,930	8,309,635,472
1924	9,538,774,432	8,221,743,553

*Includes a part of reparations in kind for which no payment was made.

GOVERNMENT REVENUES: The net receipts for the last three years from Customs and Monopolies and gross receipts of State Railroads, which constitute the most important revenues of the Government, compare as follows in Dinars:

Year	Customs (Net)	Monopolies (Net)	State Railroads (Gross)	Total
1922	1,124,221,043	1,190,527,002	1,267,318,619	3,582,066,664
1923	1,676,977,437	1,519,982,720	1,879,967,302	5,076,927,459
1924	1,649,826,388	2,112,775,902	2,487,004,182	6,249,606,472

The revenues from these sources in 1924, converting the Dinar at the average monthly rate of exchange for the year, alone aggregate about $80,750,000.

FINANCES: The volume of bank notes in circulation for the last two years has been practically stable, fluctuating according to seasonal requirements between about five and a half and six milliards of Dinars.

The total external and internal debt of the Kingdom, including the present issue and also including the maximum proportion of the debt of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire to be assumed by Yugo-Slavia as well as unadjusted war debt claims of France and England both likely to be greatly reduced, will not be in excess of $39.50 per capita, calculated on the basis of present exchange rates.

We offer the above Notes "when, as and if" issued, and received by us and subject to approval of proceedings by our counsel.

Early Advances in Grain Trade Lost at Close

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 26. — Sensationally bullish crop reports on the outlook for the new winter wheat crop in the dry sections of the Southwest, backed by an estimate that 18 per cent of the seeded area last fall for the entire country would probably be abandoned, or around 7,500,000 acres, the second largest on record, brought in sufficient buying of futures early to advance July to 1.50½, a new high on the present upturn. The trade was not broad enough to absorb heavy profit-taking sales, however, and a break of 3¼@5c from the best prices followed, and the finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 2⅝@3c, with May 1.64⅛@1.64⅜, July at 1.46⅛@1.46¼ and September at 1.34⅝. Corn was ⅞c lower, with May 1.11⅛@1.11¼, July 1.14⅝@1.15 and September 1.15@1.15⅛. Oats were ⅛@⅜c lower and rye off 2⅛@3⅛c.

The May-July wheat spread showed a decided tendency to narrow, going to around 18c at the last, with some buying here against sales at Winnipeg at 3½@3⅝c difference. There was pressure on May from several commission houses a good part of the day, and while the winter wheat situation is regarded as a little tight, the big discount of 9c on May at Minneapolis prevents any demonstration of consequence on the part of those bullish. The Chicago-Liverpool difference was around 18c at the last, compared with 6½c recently.

A few scattered showers were reported in parts of Kansas and in Western Texas, but did not amount to anything, and the forecast was for generally fair weather, but the showers counted for more in the estimation of the pit element than the persistent claims of drought damage and of high winds and dust storms, and with a relatively light outside trade the decline was easily attained. The fact that the market did not respond more than it did to the sensational reports on abandoned acreage also attracted much attention. As is usually the case with weather markets, price changes were very rapid. No export business was reported at the seaboard.

Short covering was on in corn early, but long grain came out freely around 1.17 for July and September through commission houses, and toward the last local longs started to unload and found support lacking, the finish being decidedly heavy. Cash demand here remains slow, but showed improvement in the Southwest. Basis on low grades in the sample market was easy, and a local house reported that in the past week it had bought 800,000 bushels to come here from Kansas City. About half of the receipts of 141 cars were from outside markets.

Commission houses were buyers of oats early, but sold later when corn broke. The newly seeded crop in the Southwest needs rains badly in some sections. Spring seeding in the more northern sections is making excellent progress. Eastern cash demand was only fair.

Rye was dull and easier, with a slow export demand. Trade was largely of a local character.

An improvement in the demand for refined lard led to a little buying by cash houses, and the close on lard was 5@10c higher. Ribs gained 30@37½c and bellies 35@37½c.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE: Rather active demand existed for good grade cows and steers. However, the lower grades were most numerous and slow sellers on a steady to weak basis, while strictly good kinds held firm. A load and a half of mixed medium and good 936-pound Utah steers topped for the day at 8.30, while load lots of medium 949 to 1045-pound Utahs cleared from 8.25 to 8.50. A few common kinds sold downward to 7.00 and below.

No load lots of good cows were on hand, although odd head and small lots of both cows and heifers sold from 7.00 to 7.25. The price spread of 4.75 to 6.50 took in the bulk of fat cows and heifers, with half a load of heifers making 6.75. Two loads of common Utahs averaging around 850 pounds made 4.75. Canners and cutters held about steady, the bulk going over from 2.25 to 4.00. The small supply of bulls cleared around the steady mark, most bolognas going over from 4.00 to 4.75, with a few beef bulls from 5.00 to 5.10.

CALVES: The bulk of today's calf offerings were common and medium kinds that were rather draggy on a weak basis, with spots showing some decline. Lead lots of common southwesterns failed to sell at a late hour. A few choice milk vealers sold upward to 12.00 and above, while the bulk, all weights of common and medium offerings, mostly in small lots, cleared from 5.50 to 9.00. A few "bobs" sold downward to 4.00.

HOGS: Yesterday's late arrivals and today's fresh arrivals were cleaned up at values around 25 to 40 cents lower than Tuesday's best time, or steady to weak with yesterday's close. However, four loads held over since Monday still remain unsold. Today's top was 15.25, paid for two loads of good and choice 207 to 210-pound Nebraskas, while two loads of 175 to 178-pound California butchers cleared for 15.00, with several small lots of mixed butchers and light lights, mostly Californias, from 14.00 to 14.75. A few medium weight slaughter pigs sold downward to 12.00. No desirable packing sows were on hand and the few lots of rough California packers cleared from 10.50 to 11.00, while smooth packers are quotable upward to 13.25.

SHEEP: Today's offerings in the ovine division were not highly desirable from a killing standpoint. However, the lambs sold at around steady values, but the ewes had failed to move at a late hour. Thirty-seven head of medium 63-pound spring lambs cleared for 13.00. According to wire information, the first shipment of California spring lambs arrived at St. Joseph, Mo., today. Two doubles averaging 67 pounds sold for 16.50 straight. The balance of the lambs with this shipment were consigned to Chicago.

Information regarding the Company and its business is given in a letter cabled to us from Mr. Francois Coty, President, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned, and which we summarize as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS

The business was founded in 1904 in Paris, France, and Coty soon after its establishment became recognized as one of the leading parfumeurs of the world. Coty products include a large number of perfumes, as well as additional products, such as cosmetics, toilet waters, face and talcum powders, sachets, soap and brilliantines, and have been sold in the United States since 1906. Coty brands are familiar throughout the civilized world, among them being L'Origan, Chypre, Ambre Antique, Paris, Jasmin de Corse, Emeraude, and many others.

Coty, Inc., was formed in December, 1922, and has the exclusive distributing rights, for the United States, of all Coty products now existing or hereafter to be developed, as well as the exclusive right to the trade names and trade mark of Coty in the United States.

This company sells more French perfumes, toilet waters, face powders and other cosmetics in the United States than any of its French competitors. It therefore holds the commanding position in this industry in the United States.

All the ingredients and accessories used in the American laboratory are purchased from the same sources and are the same as used in the plant of the French company at Suresnes, Paris. The specialties sold in the United States are identical with those sold in France, the assembling of the ingredients being conducted in the American laboratory under the personal supervision of the chief chemist, who is also at the head of the Suresnes plant.

The secret of the great popularity and success of Coty's specialties lies in the quality of the ingredients, which is of the highest obtainable, their skillful blending into finished products, and an artistic and attractive presentation to the public.

GROWTH

Prospects for future development and increased sales may be seen from the record of the growth of the business in the United States, as shown below.

Year ended Dec. 31	Increase over previous year
1920	76%
1921	89%
1922	57%
1923	29%
1924	38%
5-Year Increase (1919 to 1924)	847%

The latest sales figures show a continuance of this remarkable record, as the months of January and February of this year show an increase of 27% over the same period of last year.

The management of Coty, Inc., will be in the hands of the same men who have built up the business in this country.

EARNINGS

The net profits of Coty, Inc., after depreciation and Federal taxes, as certified by Messrs. S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., were as follows:

Year ending Dec. 31	Net Profits
1923	$1,070,460.44
1924	2,045,871.68

Prior to 1923 the business in the United States was handled as a selling agency of the French business.

DIVIDENDS

Mr. Coty, President of the Company, states that it is his intention that dividends will be initiated in the near future at the annual rate of $3.80 per share and expresses his confidence that this policy can be continued and still leave ample funds for the development of the business.

It is expected that application will be made in due course to list this stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

On or before October 1, 1925	at $ 5.50	per share

" " " " April 1, 1928	at 10.00	" "
" and until April 1, 1929	at 12.00	" "

From the letter of F. B. Parriott, President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

Business The Transcontinental Oil Company, incorporated in Delaware, started operations in August, 1919, to develop a well-rounded organization engaged in all phases of the oil industry. This purpose has been accomplished by the development of a complete producing, refining and distributing organization, including 407 miles of pipe lines and 1,276 tank cars, of which 1,103 are owned and 173 leased. The refining and marketing facilities of the Company have a capacity of 14,000 barrels daily. The Company's net daily crude production at this time is approximately 6,000 barrels from 255 producing wells. It is expected the production will be increased by further drilling in proven territory to 10,000 barrels daily within the next few months. In North and South America and Roumania the Company owns or has an interest in leases aggregating 1,200,000 acres.

Purpose of Issue The proceeds of these Notes and $2,000,000 which will have been realized upon completion of this financing by the issuance of common stock at $5.00 per share are to be applied to the reduction of current indebtedness heretofore incurred in the development of the Company's properties, and to provide additional working capital.

Security These Notes are a direct obligation of the Company, subject to only $2,000,000 First Closed Mortgage Bonds due in 1931 (all owned by Standard Oil Company of California) and certain purchase money and equipment obligations. The Company's physical properties have recently been appraised by independent engineers at more than $44,600,000. The consolidated balance sheet of the Company and subsidiary companies as of January 31, 1925, adjusted to reflect the application of the proceeds of this financing to the reduction of current indebtedness, shows current assets of $4,774,574 and current liabilities of $1,566,957. On the basis of this balance sheet net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities except these Notes, are in excess of $10,500 for each $1,000 Note of this issue. Following this issue of Notes the Company has outstanding $15,750,000 par value of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, and 3,682,529 shares of no par Common Stock. The Common Stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The shares of Common Stock which will be outstanding after issuance of these Notes will have a market value based upon present prices in excess of $15,800,000.

Earnings In spite of the unsatisfactory conditions prevailing in the oil industry in 1924 the consolidated net earnings of the Company and subsidiary companies before interest, depreciation and depletion and other charges not applicable to current operations, as approved by Main & Company, Auditors, were $1,300,593 of which $672,035 accrued in the last quarter of the year. A conservative estimate prepared by independent oil engineers indicates corresponding consolidated net earnings for 1925 of more than $5,000,000, and after depreciation and depletion charges, net earnings are estimated to be $4,000,000, or over 7 times interest charges on the Company's total funded debt, including this issue.

Provisions of Issue The indenture under which these Notes are issued will provide that no additional Notes authorized hereunder may be issued unless all of the First Mortgage Bonds have been retired or provision made for their retirement, and then only when earnings for the preceding twelve months, after depreciation, depletion and Federal Taxes, shall be equal to not less than five times the interest requirements on Notes then outstanding and proposed to be issued.

The Company also covenants against the creation or existence of any additional notes, debentures or other obligations maturing more than one year from date thereof, or any mortgage or lien against the properties and assets of the Company, with certain specific exceptions.

The Company also agrees to pay no dividends on its Preferred or Common Stock which would reduce net quick assets to less than $3,000,000.

Application will be made to list these Notes on the New York Curb Exchange and the Baltimore Stock Exchange.

Legal proceedings in connection with this issue are being passed upon by Messrs. Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay for the Bankers, and by J. Charles Adams for the Company. Books and accounts audited by Main & Company, Certified Accountants, Pittsburgh, Pa., and New York City, N. Y. All offerings are subject to approval of counsel when, as and if issued and received by us.

SUMMER USE OF GASOLINE HEAVY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 26.—Demand for gasoline this summer will reach the rate of 13,000,000,000 gallons annually, according to the rate of increase that has been maintained for the last six years, it was declared by DeWitt Foster, international economic authority, in an address here.

"Rate gasoline consumption in the summer in the United States has increased 133 per cent since 1918," said Mr. Foster. "Difference between summer and winter consumption has never been less than 60 per cent at the narrowest point of difference in the last six years. Average difference between the crest in summer and the trough in winter is 80 per cent for the six-year period."

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The Marine Corporation yesterday completed its No. 34 well in the Athens area of the Rosecrans field, getting an initial production estimated at about 800 barrels a day. The well was brought in from a depth of 4366 feet, and is barefooted, flowing without an oil string, from ninety feet of open hole below the shoe of the water string. Gravity is said to be 35.6 degrees, clean oil, with 500 pounds pressure on the flowline.

Marine No. 34 is located as an offset to the Henderson Petroleum Corporation's first well in this field.

Ready to Drill

The Wilshire Oil Company is moving in machinery and drilling equipment ready to drill its first well on its new lease in the northwest of the Inglewood field, it was reported yesterday. The Wilshire has acquired a six-acre tract, adjoining the Petroleum Midway Company's Smith lease on the west. The tract is on a line with the producing wells of the field, and is considered by geologists to be probable producing territory.

Gets Deep Sand

Joseph B. Dabney's lone venture in the northern part of the Athens district at Rosecrans, has found oil sand at 5668 feet, and gives promise of making a producer unless trouble intervenes.

Dabney started this well in the early days of the Athens district when he and E. J. Miley were the only active pioneers. He found fair showings of oil at around 5200 feet, but had trouble with water, and allowed the well to stand idle for a couple of months pending other developments. This is Dabney's only project in Athens at the present time, the Blanton interests having taken over his other holdings in this area.

Report No Showings

No showings is the latest available report on the Union Oil Company's two wildcat wells at Saugus and Ocean Park Heights.

The well at Saugus, which reported indications of gas at about 1750 feet, two weeks ago, is drilling ahead at 1920 feet in gray sand, it is said. This well is being drilled with cable tools. The Newlin well at Ocean Park Heights is drilling ahead at 3160 feet, with cores showing brown shale with streaks of gray sand.

Drill Old Area

The Bolsa Chica Oil Company is preparing to drill a well in the Ventura-avenue field, offsetting the General Petroleum Corporation's Barnard well, it was reported yesterday.

The Bolsa Chica Company has acquired the Louis Hortman lease, formerly held by the Associated Oil Company, located in the northern part of the field, north of the Barnard tract. The lease comprises about twenty acres, and is said to have been quit claimed by the Associated some time ago.

The Bolsa Chica's first well will be drilled near the location of a well put down by the Associated Oil Company, which was abandoned before it had developed showings. The well is near the Barnard No. 1 of the General Petroleum which has been a small producer for several years.

Drill Prospect Hole

With two dry holes on the debit side of the ledger already, not including several dusters drilled by the Standard Oil Company, the Associated Oil Company is preparing to drill a third well on its 1700-acre Anita Baldwin lease, in the Inglewood district, it was learned yesterday. The new well is to be known as the Prospect No. 1, and will be located 800 feet northeast of Baldwin No. 2, which has been shut down at 4000 feet, and will be allowed to stand idle while the prospect well is drilled.

Baldwin No. 2 and Prospect No. 2, both are located near the center of the huge lease, which so far has shown no signs of oil, but which the Associated is unwilling to abandon until it has definitely demonstrated the absence of oil. Baldwin No. 1 was drilled in the extreme northwest corner of the lease and stopped work at 6700 feet.

The Standard Oil Company years ago drilled two dusters on the southern part of the Anita Baldwin tract, one to 5010 feet, and the other to 5172 feet, neither of which showed favorable indications.

Officers Elected

Clarence Fuller, president of the Richfield Oil Company, yesterday was elected vice-president of the United Oil Company, and J. A. Talbot, president of the United, was elected vice-president of the Richfield Oil Company, thus interlocking the official relations of these two commonly owned companies. No other changes were made in the official families of either of the companies.

The United Oil Company yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents a share payable on April 15, to stockholders of record on April 6. United officials asserted that many holders of convertible bonds were exchanging their bonds for stock in order to take advantage of the dividend.

Well Is Idle

The Potter & Smith well of the Standard Oil Company, southeast of Inglewood is shut down at 6036 feet, because of wornout conductor casing, it was reported officially yesterday. It was said that the Standard might not resume work in this well, because of unfavorable indications.

Are There Traitors in the Camp of Municipal Ownership?

This question was asked by Volney H. Craig at a meeting of the Pacoima Chamber of Commerce last Friday.

Mr. Craig said in part:

"For the past three successive years municipal ownership has not had enough water or power for its customers and its supplies of both commodities are diminishing. Is municipal success permanently bedridden or are there traitors in the camp?

Listen—the three great local engineers, Hill, Lippincott and Sonderegger said August 14th, 1924, that there was enough water 'during the driest years' in Owens Valley and Mono Basin to fill up the present aqueduct which was in 1924 only half full and fill up another aqueduct of 350 second feet capacity: (I told you this in the third issue of my "Taxpayer," dated May 1st 1924.) All informed men knew it.

A full aqueduct will produce in power at wholesale rates of 1c per K.W. at the San Francisquito plants	$3,600,000.00

The water will produce at irrigation rates	1,800,000.00
or in all	$5,400,000.00

Another aqueduct of seven-eighths the capacity of the present aqueduct at the San Francisquito plants duplicated

will produce in power	$3,150,000.00
in water	1,575,000.00
Total at the same rates	$4,725,000.00
Or in all from the two plants	$5,400,000.00
	$10,125,000.00

Then add the profits from electricity produced in the Owens Valley Gorge and other existing plants duplicated; at wholesale rates you have $15,000,000.00 gross revenue for water and power at wholesale rates: add to this sum the profit on these commodities at retail rates and the earnings are immense. The electrical department is getting rich, they say, by retailing electricity bought from the privately owned companies.

Of course the San Fernando Valley could not use all this water for irrigating; the most we ever used for irrigating in the Valley was less than 90,000 acre feet. The most Los Angeles City ever used for domestic purposes from the aqueduct was 57,071 acre feet, in any year. These two aqueducts would bring down 562,500 acre feet of water. But Pasadena is reaching out for water and could buy an immense amount of water and pour it into Devils Gate Reservoir to fill up the underground gravels; the balance could be taken as far east as Glendora or further and be spread upon the gravel cones for the benefit of Long Beach and other little municipalities. At the present time there would be a tremendous surplus of water, more than 400,000 acre feet. Pasadena uses about 20,000 acre feet annually.

Who is preventing ?Municipal Success? from being a real success?

?Municipal Success? is looking for reservoirs to build and is constructing a lot of mudholes that lose immense quantities of water by evaporation and neglecting the excellent reservoirs of Southern California all ready constructed and crying to be filled; the great gravel planes. ?Municipal Success? stores water in the Pacific Ocean—since the completion more than 65% of the flow of the aqueduct has gone into the Pacific Ocean and ?Municipal Success? is actively opposing our flood control efforts at every turn. Why? Ask yourself.

Pick a lie in any of these statements.

You know that I never was a municipal ownership man; My purpose is, and always has been, to take them out of politics and rainbow chasing and put them to work before they bring ruin to the Southland."

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 26.—The recovery in prices went no further on the stock exchange today. On the contrary, resumption of heavy selling after a brief early advance caused a general downward movement which resulted in many net declines of a point or more.

Taken in conjunction with Wednesday's stronger trend of prices, the course of today's market suggested that the process of closing out the mob of speculators who had bought on a margin at the high prices of a month ago had not been completed in the severe break of Monday and Tuesday. It is never surely known on such occasions what is the position of the professional "pools" in which manipulation has been responsible for the extravagant prices reached before the market broke. All that was plainly evident in today's market was that buying of a strong and aggressive character was withheld, that there was scattered liquidation even on the early recovery, and that professional operators for the decline resumed operations.

This is not an unfamiliar sequel to the kind of speculation which prevailed early in the present year. The extent to which a venturesome outside public with slender resources had engaged itself in a movement of the kind is always apt to surprise even Wall-street watchers. In the speculative years like 1919, 1916 and 1915 the occasional severe downward reactions were prolonged by this kind of forced selling long after even the professional contingent thought that liquidation must have been completed.

In today's market the points of special weakness were stocks which had led in the race for fictitious prices six or eight weeks ago, but other shares declined with them. Of the two stocks which were under particular pressure on Tuesday, Northern Pacific and Chicago Northwestern, early advances today of ½ to 1 point were followed by relapses which left them at substantial net declines. Union Pacific advanced 1⅞ points, then fell back 1⅝.

There is no reason for supposing that the rise of the stock exchange call-money rate to 4½ per cent had any influence on the course of the market. In view of the very recent rates of 4 and 5 per cent, today's advance on the eve of the quarterly demands upon credit was in line with all reasonable expectations.

The weekly Federal reserve statement did not make the money situation particularly clear. The New York bank's rediscounted bills increased $33,600,000, but reserves held for member banks nevertheless decreased $32,900,000, reaching very much the lowest total of the year to date, except for one week in January. The position of the associated banks ought to have been strengthened by the week's wholesale reduction of stock-exchange loans. On the other hand, the reserve bank, which a week ago increased by $51,200,000 its holdings of short-term government securities, has reduced them $75,300,000 during the past week, bringing the total to the lowest since last May. This means increasing control of the money market by the bank.

LOAN IS REJECTED BY NICARAGUAN CONGRESS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MANAQUA (Nicaragua) March 26.—The Nicaraguan Congress today rejected the proposed loan of $500,000 recently negotiated by the government with New York bankers. The Congress considers objectionable the terms on which the loan was based.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 26.—California dried fruits advices were to the effect that spot stocks of the smaller sizes of prunes are about exhausted. It was learned also that the association has very little to offer on the 50-60 size, practically withdrawing these to hold them for the large carton business. Bulk of the holdings in California are represented in the 40s.

The local representatives of the prune association are making all kinds of elaborate plans for the continuance of the Sunsweet specialty drive which will be carried into the month of May. The balance of the dried fruit items appeared rather listless.

CANNED FOODS

Asparagus held the center of the stage in the canned food field. Following the prices submitted by F. E. Booth Company, the same figures came along from the corporation and numerous other sources. The trade studied the figures very carefully yesterday, received the various offerings, and after minute comparison decided that they were practically the same all along the line. Then began the jockeying for better terms, but up to late today there had been no sign of a break in the quotations, and it is thought that the published prices will hold indefinitely, advancing slightly later on if anything. The California packers have certainly made some deep cuts in prices as compared with last year's opening, and the view was expressed that the year will be a good one for the distribution of grass. Reports from California are not so rosy about spinach as formerly. Corn stocks are light to the point of exhaustion. Salmon, tuna, crabmeat and other canned fish continue to do well on the last lap of the Lenten season.

SUGAR MARKET

Following the sale yesterday, the market was bare of raw sugar at the opening today, but later in the day offers of Cubas for second half April shipment were accepted by operators who bought about 25,000 bags at 2 15-16 cents. Refined demand fell off slightly. Prices remain unchanged.

Raw futures opened at 2 points decline for December and unchanged to 1 point advance for the other months. After the call the market was quiet and remained quiet throughout the day, with the exception of July and September options, most of the business of the day being transacted in these positions. Prices closed unchanged for January, 1 point advance for March and 2 to 4 points decline for the other months.

COFFEE AND TEA

Taking the advances in coffee future, prices in Brazil and a steadier tone of the Brazilian markets as indicated in early cables to the exchange as a guide, coffee futures in the local market opened at unchanged to 3 points decline, with the exception of the March option which declined 20 points. The advances in Brazilian prices were partially offset by lower exchange rates and the ultimate effect on this market was small. After midday the market was quiet. May closed 18.99; June, 18.45; July, 17.90; September, 16.98; October, 16.35 and December, 16.42.

Advices from all European tea markets and several of the principal sources of supply, indicate that the sales of teas at auctions are being made difficult by the presence of stalk in the offerings, and it is reported that good and fine teas without stalk are much firmer as a result. Black leaf and orange pekoes are in good demand and prices on these kinds are expected to go much higher.

No changes are reported in the world markets for rice. Recent advices from the South indicate that the supplies are running low, and there are predictions that the shortage will be acute within the next few weeks. Oriental conditions are unchanged according to a leading dealer.

The egg market shows no material change in any of the several grades of browns, barring an advance in the price of extras.

The tone in the butter market is much easier than it was the preceding day, but no attempts were made to revise prices of the best offerings of fresh creamery. Extras sold to regular buyers at 47 cents as an inside figure.

Trade in beans, both domestic and foreign does not expand, even at low prices which could probably be shaded. Arrivals of domestic are running light, as shippers cannot get much encouragement from buyers here to ship.

METAL MARKET

Copper has declined 1-8 cent and electrolytic is now quoted at 14 cents a pound, delivered for practically all positions. London quotations continue to decline; standard dropped 5s to £62 for spot, and to £63 for futures, while electrolytic registered a decline of 10s to £66 10s, and futures a loss of 15s to £66 15s.

The American Smelting and Refining reduced its price on lead to 1-4 to 8 3-4 cents a pound, New York, while the St. Louis market dropped from 8 1-2 to 8.40 cents. London spot declined 2s 6d to £36 2s 6d, and futures dropped 9s to £34 11s 3d.

Zinc is still quotable at 7 3-4 cents, St. Louis, for prompt, and futures a few points lower. Another advance in London has put prices in that country on a level where some American exporters may possibly book some business. London cables spot as advancing 10s to £36 10s, while futures held firm at £34 15s.

For three days in a row tin prices have been advancing. Today Straits here rose 1-4 cent to 45 cents, while the later months commanded a premium of close to 1-4 cent. London cables standspot as closing at £247 5s; futures, £250 10s and Straits £253 5s, a drop of £1 5s for the entire list. Straits in Singapore advanced 17s 6d, closing at £252 10s, c.i.f., London.

The trend of prices among the speculative bonds was more irregular, the movement taking place, however, on a level generally above the close of the day before. The investment group was generally dull, but firm, the Libertys and others of a similar grade moving in a narrow range around the final prices of yesterday. St. Paul and other issues, which were under special pressure early in the week, were firmer and in some cases higher.

STOCKS SAG SHARPLY ON BEAR STORY

Unfounded Report as to Rediscount Rate Starts Wave of Liquidation

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 26.—Heavy liquidation of stocks in the last hour of trading on the New York exchange, inspired by rumors which later proved to be untrue, that the New York Federal Reserve Bank would again increase its rediscount rate today, brought about another sharp reaction in prices which carried the industrial average into new low ground for the year. Most of the gains recorded in the rally of the last two years were wiped out.

The reaction took place in the face of such favorable news developments as a resumption of dividends on Wabash preferred "A" stock, the continuation of record freight car loadings and a decline in the daily average of crude oil production. The rumors about the rediscount rate apparently had their origin in the marking up of the call money rate from 3½ to 4 per cent and thence to 4½.

SOUTH PASADENA TO CAST BALLOTS TODAY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SOUTH PASADENA, March 26. Friday is election day in South Pasadena but few citizens are aware of it. The election has been called to fill a vacancy on the Board of Education. So far there is but one candidate for the office and he is the incumbent. The law calls for the retirement each year of one member of the board. Each candidate is elected for a term of three years. The term of W. R. H. Weldon, president of the Board of Education, expires, but since he has not completed an entire three years, he has been declared eligible for reelection. Possibility of an eleventh hour movement on the part of some organizations to elect a candidate by means of writing in the candidate's name, was declared unlikely by local officials due to the fact that little or no interest is being taken in the election.

Which Explains It

A village with few children piqued the curiosity of Francis Wilson, the actor and he said:

"Not many children here."

"No, sir, not many," was the answer.

"How often are children born here?" asked Wilson.

"Only once," was the answer.—[The Holstein Breeder and Dairyman.

FIREMAN RESCUES GIRL

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 26.—A rescue was effected by W. R. Vinal, a city fireman, when Lilly Belle Smith, 9-year-old girl, living at 90 South Lake avenue, was imprisoned in a five-foot excavation when dirt and rocks fell in upon her. The little girl, in company with other children of the neighborhood, was playing in the excavation made for the purpose of improving Green street, when the earth crumbled and completely covered the child.

WEED AS CATTLE FEED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FORT STOCKTON (Tex.) March 26.—Millions of tons of wild sotol plants are made available for use as feed for live stock by the invention of a machine which grinds the root and foliage into a nourishing meal. One of these mills has just been installed upon a ranch near here and is turning out thirty or forty tons of feed stuff a day. Heretofore only the heads of the sotol plant have been used for feed. In most parts of Southwest Texas the sotol grows so profusely that it can be gathered in enormous quantities and converted into feed stuff at low cost.

LOSES DOG SUIT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 26.—In the Superior Court a decision for the defendants has been given in a case in which T. G. Nelson, a rancher, demanded $500 damages for the death of two dogs that had eaten poison bait set by agents of the Biological Survey for the destruction of coyotes. Judge Gerald Jones, following findings of a jury on the facts, gave judgment that the plaintiff had been guilty of negligence.

SOUTHLAND FAIR BILL LOST BY THREE VOTES

MEASURE GAINS MAJORITY BUT FAILS SHORT ON RECONSIDERATION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—The second defeat today of the Murray bill asking for a Southern California State Fair at Riverside veritably exhausts the possibilities for the second fair so far as this Legislature is concerned, in the opinion of opponents of the proposal.

Although a similar bill by Senator Kline, San Jacinto, still is pending in committee it is generally understood that no effort will be made to get the measure out to the floor.

Proponents of the Murray proposals showed by the vote today that they had secured additional support since yesterday when the Assembly first refused passage of the bill. Te final vote was 38 for to 36 against, an increase of seven affirmative votes over yesterday's ballot. Forty-one votes were required to carry the measure on reconsideration under the rules.

Had it not been for the absence of six members, Assemblyman Jones, Ontario, said, the bill probably would have passed. Only three additional votes were necessary for passage, Jones stated, and at least three of the absentees he said would have voted in the affirmative.

Sonoma Citizens Oppose Opening Women's Home

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—Opposition to the bill which would reopen the Sonoma home for delinquent women was voiced today when Mrs. Eliza Shepard, sister of Jack London, and Walter Murphy, newspaper editor, both of Sonoma, Cal., called on Gov. Richardson protesting against the reopening of the home.

"The institution had a demoralizing effect upon the youth of the community," Mrs. Shepard said. "The women inmates were allowed to parade the streets of the town; they smoked cigarettes in public and the residents object strenuously to any measure that would revive the home."

WIDOW TO MOVE BODY OF DEWEY

Remains of Spanish War Hero to be Changed from Arlington to Cathedral

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Mrs. George Dewey, widow of the late Admiral Dewey, the outstanding hero of the Spanish-American war tonight gave out the following statement:

"I have respectfully requested authority from the War Department to remove the body of my late husband, Admiral George Dewey, United States Navy, from the mausoleum at Arlington. Mr. George G. Dewey of Chicago, son of the admiral, concurs in this request.

"As Admiral Dewey was a devout communicant of the Episcopal Church and for many years an active nad devoted member of the chapter of Washington Cathedral, I have asked that his body rest in the crypt of the Bethlehem chapel until an adequate memorial can be built in the cathedral.

"Both the War Department and the chapter of the Cathedral have granted my request."

The Navy Department will assist Mrs. Dewey in carrying out her plan and will provide a guard of honor when the transfer is made.

PEER'S SEAT DEPENDENT ON ROMANCE

Successor to Somerset Traces Ancestry to Act of Rescue in 1786

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, March 26.—The recognition of Sir Edward Hamilton Seymour, the distinguished soldier, as successor to the Duchy of Somerset, by the committee on privileges of the House of Lords, involves a romantic story. Sir Edward is a cousin of the late Duke and his claim depended on the marriage of one of his ancestors, Col. Francis Seymour, with a seaman's widow, Leonara Hudson, in 1787.

The colonel late one night heard a beautiful girl screaming and struggling with two ruffian sailors. He went to her rescue and had a hard time protecting himself from the sailor's knife attacks. The girl was the wife of one of the men. A year later the colonel met the girl in widow's weeds. She said her husband had died in the East India Company's service and had been buried in Calcutta.

The colonel wooed ardently and married her in 1787. When she died he erected a monument in Wells Cathedral to "the wife of Lieut.-Col. Francis Seymour."

Other claimants tried to prove that Hudson did not die in Calcutta, and that he afterward resided in Gravesend. Sir Edward relied on a ship's register showing that a member of its crew, John Hudson, died in Calcutta in 1786, and on the books of the East India Company proving it had paid to the widow a certain sum under his will after deducting funeral expenses.

A FAITHFUL KNIGHT

Angeleno Loses Wife on Train; Uses Plane and Car

A knight of old had nothing on C. J. Dale of Los Angeles, when it comes to pursuing the lady of his heart, over hill and dale, through all kinds of rain and cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale left Los Angeles en route to New York via New Orleans on the Sunset Limited. Everything ran very smoothly until Mr. Dale got off at Houston to make some purchases and the train went off and left him there.

There was no uncertainty as to what the next move should be as he stood watching the train and incidentally his wife become a speck in the distance and then fade out of sight. The fastest means of covering the distance between the point where he was and the point to which the train was heading was what he wanted and a Curtiss plane was hired as means of conveyance.

After flagging the wrong train once because the pilot was not familiar with the country around Lake Charles, Mr. Dale finally descended from his flying machine at Garyville and after wiring to New Orleans to Mrs. Dale, set out by automobile for that city.

Mrs. Dale was met at the train by Miss O'Leary of the Travelers' Aid Society at New Orleans and given the telegram from her husband asking her to wait for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale will spend a few days in New Orleans before going on to New York and will be at the Roosevelt during that time.

Husband's Story Clears Missing Caller Mystery

Ovin Owen, said to have taken part Monday night in the drubbing given Frank Chartress for calling on Mrs. Ruby Owen, was found yesterday on duty at the naval Base Hospital at San Diego and lifted the veil of mystery that has surrounded Chartress' disappearance, according to a report yesterday to the University police.

"We kicked him out of the house and told him to keep on going," Owen was quoted as saying, "and the last we saw of him he was."

There had been no kidnaping of Chartress, as was reported by Mrs. Owen to the police, according to Owen. He said Chartress was not in their car when they drove away. As Chartress has not appeared to make a complaint and as the District Attorney refused a complaint to Mrs. Owen, the police consider the case closed.

CITY POSTS ARE SOUGHT BY 138

Six in Race for Mayor; One for City Attorney

More Than Hundred Seek Council Jobs

Filing Time Closes for May 5 Primary

The time limit for candidates to file filled petitions for places on the May 5 primary election ballot expired last night with a total of 138 having filed. This is the largest number of candidates in the city's history. They were divided as follows: for Mayor, six; City Attorney, one; Controller, three; Board of Education, 11, and City Council, 117. Of the 165 who had taken out petitions for the Council, 48 failed to file.

SIX FOR MAYOR

Of the eight candidates who took out petitions for Mayor, six filed. They were Mayor Cryer, who is seeking a third term, this time for four years; Benjamin F. Bledsoe, who resigned from the Federal bench to enter the contest; Miles S. Gregory, who is now a member of the City Council and who was a candidate for Mayor at the primaries in 1911; Edgar McKee, former president of the Board of Harbor Commissioners; R. L. Knapp, retired merchant, who was a candidate two years ago, and G. J. Rindler, who is a janitor in a local laundry. A petition was taken out by William J. Needham, who said he had been engaged in the mining business, and one by H. A. Hedden, Socialist party candidate. Neither Needham nor Hedden filed.

Although 160 persons took out petitions for the City Council, but 117 filed petitions, leaving forty-eight unaccounted for, but having dripped out of the race.

As City Attorney Stephens was the only candidate to file for this office his election is automatic. Under the new charter his term of office will be four years and the salary will be $10,000 a year. The re-election of the present Board of Education at the primaries is assured, as the three other candidates are not well known. The complete list of those who filed petitions with the offices for which they are candidates is as follows:

"THE MEN ARE ALL ALIKE"

Most men hate to shop—when they want a particular make of hat, shoe or fountain pen, they want it, and that settles it. Ed Howard was that kind, he knew what he wanted, wanted what he wanted, but he certainly hated to do a Marathon race over Los Angeles to find it.

Then some one in the locker-room told him about The Times new "Direct-U" service, that tells people where to locate any advertised product. Ed's voice is already a familiar one to those in charge of the "Direct-U" department—MEtropolitan 0700.

Militant Woman Still Fighting for Irish Freedom

Mary MacSwiney in Three Characteristic Poses

PLEADS CAUSE OF REPUBLIC

Sister of Former Mayor of Cork Seeking Financial and Moral Aid for Erin Liberty

The Irish will never cease their struggles for independence until it is achieved, no matter how many experiments just short of that end are attempted declared Miss Mary MacSwiney, militant leader of the republican faction in Ireland, upon her arrival at the Biltmore yesterday.

Miss MacSwiney is a sister of Terence MacSwiney, former Mayor of Cork, who succumbed in a hunger strike when jailed for his activities in behalf of Irish independence in 1920. She is in America at this time to plead the cause of the Irish republic.

A woman of early middle age, red-cheeked and dark-haired, Miss MacSwiney is a pepful person and her Irish blue eyes snapped as she spoke of the struggle for Irish independence.

"I am here to enlist the moral and financial support of Americans sympathetic with our cause," she said. "Ireland today is exactly in the same position America would have been had they accepted Britain's peace proposals in 1787.

"You recall that was the time France had decided to aid the American colonies and to prevent it, England proposed a treaty which would have given the Americans everything they asked for except independence. Just so the treaty which created the existing Irish Free State gave Ireland home rule and all kinds of privileges, but the King's Ministers are still with us. In other words, we have everything but independence and that's the one thing we want."

Miss MacSwiney believes there is no doubt that the Americans would have accepted England's proposal at that critical time, had the question been put to a vote. "But even had it been adopted if a ballot had been possible, it would not have meant the end of the spirit of American independence," she continued. "Washington expressed himself on this point when he declared that if

In many instances the rainfall was so slight that the precipitation could not be measured. In Los Angeles it was .12 of an inch, according to official figures from Col. H. B. Hersey, chief of the local Weather Bureau.

The general prediction for today issued by the Weather Bureau intimated that more rain might fall. The official bulletin stated weather prospects as "partly cloudy with unsettled weather."

The total for this time last year, however, was surpassed by .01 of an inch by yesterday's rain.

According to figures issued by the Weather Bureau the total rainfall for the season reached 4.34 inches yesterday as compared to 4.33 inches up to the same time last year. From July 1 up to the present time and over the period of forty-seven years average rainfall has totaled 13.57 inches.

Reports indicated clear skies in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, but cloudiness from San Francisco south along the coast.

No reports of snow falling in the mountains had been received by the Weather Bureau last night although several peaks are said to have been lightly covered during the early morning yesterday. According to Col. Hersey the temperature yesterday morning on Mt. Wilson was reported as being 49

BOARD BARS EMPLOYEES FROM TESTS

Action Taken When Civil Service Attache Leads in Competition

Because one employee of the County Civil Service Commission has qualified for appointment to two of the best positions in the county service, the Board of Supervisors yesterday passed a resolution barring members of the civil service staff from competing in examinations.

Clifford M. Amsten, chief civil service efficiency investigator, the records of the commission showed, had taken the examination for Registrar of Voters and for second assistant superintendent of charities, and had come out first in each. His success placed him at the head of the eligible lists for both jobs. He was not appointed to either, however, because the appointing authorities exercised their option of selecting from the three highest ranking candidates.

The resolution barring Civil Service Commission attaches from competitions was adopted at the request of Sam Chappel, chairman of the commission.

"Such a situation as this lays our commission open to criticism, even though it may not be justified," Chappel told the board.

The board agreed that it was not appropriate that persons in official contact with the conduct of examinations should compete in them, and passed the resolution unanimously.

SNAKE-BITE SERUM SPED BY AIRPLANE

Ranchman's Life is Saved by Quick Treatment After Attack by Rattler

Bitten on the forearm by a venomous snake while working on a ranch near Escondido, the life of Fred Otacar, 7726 Walnut avenue, Los Angeles, was saved by serum rushed from San Diego by airplane yesterday.

The young man was working on his uncle's ranch when attacked by a rattlesnake, which sunk its fangs deep into Otacar's arms. He was taken to a hospital in Escondido and a friend sped by automobile to San Diego to obtain the serum. Owing to the victim's condition, it was decided to take the serum to Escondido by airplane and a machine was provided by the Ryan Transportation Company.

Physicians said the serum undoubtedly saved Otacar's life. The patient was reported last night to be in a serious condition, but was expected to recover.

HOSPITAL PLANS NEW EXTENSION

Good Samaritan to Have $1,000,000 Building

Block Surrounding Present Home is Purchased

Provisions Will be Added for 250 Patients

BY ALMA WHITAKER

The present Good Samaritan Hospital will soon be a mere wing of a magnificent new $1,000,000 hospital, which the Episcopal Church will build on an extension of the present site.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Joseph J. Johnson announces the acquisition of the entire block of land, surrounding the present Good Samaritan Hospital at Witmer and Wilshire. Plans for the new building are being prepared by Reginald D. Johnson, consulting with Dr. Broderick of San Francisco, regarded by many as the best California authority on hospital construction.

As now, the new hospital will be a nonprofit corporation, and the financing has all been provided for. There will be no campaign for funds, and any legacies will be devoted to endowment purposes.

Accommodation for 250 beds will be added to the present 150. The latest and best modern equipment will be installed throughout, the whole edifice being of Class A construction.

One particularly precious feature of the new hospital will be a generous provision of rooms at $10 a week, for patients of modest income in addition to the free beds of which there are at present a dozen, endowed by benefactors.

This "charitable" work is absolutely confidential—none but the patient knows of the benefits bestowed. Any room may become a free room, or a $10 a week room—none are labeled as such.

The former Lyman Stewart property was acquired a year ago, and transformed into the nurses' residence This is now completed. It is situated at Sixth and Lucas streets.

The location, almost in the center of town as it is, and yet high upon a hill, with sloping lawns, and far enough from car lines for quietude, is regarded as particularly ideal for the purpose.

Somewhere round about 1880, "Sister Mary" a good Episcopalian, started a little private hospital known as the Los Angeles Hospital and Home for Invalids. This was located on Olive street, near Third street, and was later taken over by St. Paul's Cathedral and its name changed to St. Paul's Hospital in 1887.

But as the city grew and the scope of the hospital became more widespread, it was rebuilt at Sixteenth and Hill streets and became the Good Samaritan Hospital. Then it went to Seventh and Figueroa streets.

The present building of the Good Samaritan Hospital was erected by a corporation of osteopaths and was first known as the Columbia Hospital. As a stockholding concern it proved a failure. It was then that the Episcopal Church consolidated with it, secured 51 per cent of its stock, and finally it emerged as the nonprofit corporation, exclusively Episcopalian, that it now is.

Thus Bishop Johnson is proud that the Episcopal Church really pioneered in the hospital field in this city.

It is interesting to reflect that the churches do undertake this hospital provision. Actually the idea fits better into modern views than was formerly the case. But today religion is not necessarily associated with the undertaker, but with the healing and redemption of the body as well as of the soul. Ministers are now rarely called for deathbed penitences, but officiate at the bedsides throughout illnesses. There is to be a charming chapel in the new hospital, too.

These church hospitals undertake the important service of training and educating nurses—as well as with imbuing them with the spiritual care and interest for their patients.

Thus Bishop Johnson feels that this new hospital is as important as the new beautiful St. Paul's Cathedral.

The average net cost to hospitals, per patient per day, is $5.50. Hence, it is explained, the $35-a-week rooms are actually run at a slight loss. This is the lowest figure for the regular rate, some rooms running as high as $65 per week. But as the hospital is a nonprofit organization, these luxurious invalids make up the balance for those special $10-a-week rooms aforementioned which are to be the generous feature of the new project for people of modest circumstances, to whom an illness often means bankruptcy.

IF THERE is anything I love it is to talk to some one who has to "act it out" as he talks. A gentleman with such an emotional complex has just been in here telling me about an incident he saw in the street.

GREAT STORY! WHEW! I didn't find out what it was about; but he shook me by the collar to show how the policeman did; and he made me lie down on the floor while he acted the part of the auto which ran over the woman; and then he galloped up and fell on my neck to show how the woman's husband did when he saw his frau being dragged from the traffic.

Well, there's always something to be thankful for; suppose it had been a battle he had been telling me about!

LOUNGE LIZARDS An indignant flapper writes to me.

She has come to live in Los Angeles. She says it is surely a great town; that's right.

But one thing she objects to. She has just been to her first dance. She says that two of the sheiks with whom she danced, instead of breathing soft nothings of love into her alabaster ear took her tenderly off into a corner and tried to sell her real estate.

She says she wants to take her romance straight—without any real estate options.

Well, well, Angel Child, as long as the lounge lizards keep their minds on real estate options this is likely to keep on being a pretty good town,

UNDER THE "BIG TOP" Another great international exposition is about to be launched; this one in Philadelphia.

I am wondering what this one will do for the world.

The influence of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco, ten years ago, turned the cities of this coast from drab towns into beautiful ones. Color came into our lives with that exposition.

The San Diego exposition changed the architecture. It brought beauty to California. It taught us that artistry isn't only for art galleries.

FILMING CULTURE From only one direction has there come an even greater influence for good taste and culture. The movies.

It is the fashion to grow gleeful about Mr. Cecil De Mille's movie bathrooms. It may be true that he has suffocated us with elegance; yet it is also true that the movies have driven the plush photograph album off the parlor table, the tidies off the chairs.

The movies have taught folks of moderate homes how to adorn them with simplicity. Some of the most brilliant young architects and decorators of our day are working in the movies.

It has given them a scope they would never have found otherwise. There are three reasons for this:

A young architect in private practice would be lucky if he were allowed an absolutely free rein upon a dozen fine houses during his whole professional life. In the movies he builds them by swarms.

He is not hampered by the ideas of Mrs. Coupons, who wants a bathroom in some funny place.

He works practically without regard to expense. Lastly, he is not held down by the mossback conventions of the older members of his own profession.

EASTER SERVICES AT BOWL

Hollywood Community Chorus and Orchestra to Take Part; Thirty Thousand Expected to Attend

Elaborate Easter sunrise services are being planned for Hollywood Bowl on the morning of April 12, according to announcement made yesterday by Mrs. J. J. Carter, president of the Hollywood Bowl, who will be in general charge of the program to be given by the Hollywood Community Chorus, the Hollywood Community Orchestra and the Hollywood Ministerial Alliance.

For the last five years increasingly large audiences have gathered at the bowl at every Easter dawn to celebrate the anniversary of the resurrection of the Savior of the world, and at least 30,000 worshipers are expected to be present at this celebration of that divine event. Arrangements have been made with the Pacific Electric Railway Company to run cars to the bowl every half hour in the morning, beginning at 3 o'clock, and ample parking space in and near the bowl will be at the service of motorists.

High over the hills of Hollywood, all night long, preceding Eastern Dawn, a gigantic lighted cross will serve as a beacon light to guide worshipers from every section of the Southland to the "temple in the hills," which will open its great gates to the devotees.

The "Sammies' Sisters"—Misses Irene and Loretta Davis—will arrive in Los Angeles from Chicago within the next few days to participate in the service. Robed in snow-white garments and standing

POLICE SHOOT FOR BONUS

Marksmanship Test to be Conducted on New Range at Elysian Park April 9; Teams to be Formed

The first police marksmanship qualification test will be held at the new police pistol range in Elysian Park on April 9, it was announced by Chief Heath yesterday. The test will begin promptly at 10 a.m. and continue until all eligible men have had the opportunity to compete.

The committee of judges who will be called upon to decide on the qualifications of each contestant will consist of Col. Story, Maj. Callender, Capt. Crossman and Police Commissioners Foss and Birnbaum.

This will be the first time that members of the police department will "shoot for the money," and qualify for eligibility to the various teams that will at once be formed to represent each division of the department and a crack team to represent the department as a whole against the world.

Before an officer will be permitted to shoot on test days, he will be obliged to have qualified as marksman on two previous occasions before the range master.

The contest for the additional bonus money, which was approved by the City Council recently, will be limited to the .45 caliber regulation police revolver with open sights. The rules of the marksmanship tests are as follows:

Ten shots, time fire, at twenty-five yards, possible 100.

Ten shots, slow fire, at fifty yards, possible 100.

Ten shots, rapid fire, at twenty-five yards, possible 100.

Ten shots, three seconds a shot, at a bobbing target at twenty-five yards, possible 100. This is a total of forty shots, with a possible score of 400.

Marksmen, receiving a $5 monthly bonus, must make 70 per cent, or 280 points, sharpshooter, with an $8 monthly bonus, $320 points, and expert, receiving a $12 monthly bonus, 360 points.

Many new improvements have been installed on the range since it was opened two weeks ago, and make it, in the opinions of such men as Capt. A. H. Hardy, national pistol champion, and Capt. Crossman, the best-equipped range on the Pacific Coast.

week for the erection of a height-limit bank building on the northwest corner of Ninth and Hill streets for the Pacific National Bank, it was announced yesterday by Morgan, Walls & Clements. The structure will cost approximately $1,000,000 and when completed will be one of the finest of its kind in the city.

Architects Joy, Rogers and Stevenson of Los Angeles are preparing plans for a five-story-and-basement building for the Y.M.C.A., to be located on Beacon street, San Pedro. According to estimates the building will cost $550,000.

Not Guilty Plea is Entered by ex-Principal

Tom Russell, former principal of Huntington Park High School, appeared yesterday before Police Judge Richardson and pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge. His trial was set for April 9, next. Russell was arrested a week ago in a Main-street theater, when two small boys complained to a traffic officer that Russell was annoying them. Russell is awaiting trial in Superior Court on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors, growing out of statements made by Huntington Park pupils. He recently was removed from his position by the Huntington Park school trustees, after a controversy that had raged since his first arrest.

PUPILS MAY SEE PARADE

The Board of Education yesterday ruled that school children may be excused on written request of their parents, so they may watch the naval parade at San Pedro April 3.

EPISTLE OF GIRL CAUSES NEW SEARCH

Mildred Trueblood Sends Letter Denying Influence of Woman; Still Missing

Search for Mildred Trueblood, 14 years of age, of Lennox, who has been missing since January 2, was renewed yesterday as a result of two letters received by Deputy Sheriff Stensland, one signed by the girl and one from Mrs. G. S. Mistler, with whom the girl is thought to have been hiding.

The letter signed by the girl was mailed at Oakland on Tuesday. The other was mailed at Elsinore Wednesday, although it was written on stationery of a local department store.

"You might as well give up trying to find me," the letter from the girl, which was signed "The Kidnaped Girl," stated. In the letter the girl denied that she was under the spell of Mrs. Mistler or that the woman had aided her to run away. She said she is working as a nursemaid in an Oakland home and in a few days is to leave with the family for Oregon.

Explaining why she left home the girl blamed her mother, saying she never had a home. She denied playing truant from school and declared that she got a "raw deal" in Juvenile Court.

"I am inclosing a newspaper clipping," the letter stated, "so you can read your interesting fairy tale." She also inclosed a card Deputy Stensland had given her when he investigated her disappearance previously to the last time. She ran away from home, Deputy Stensland said, three times within a few months.

In the letter signed by Mrs. Mistler the writer declared the Trueblood girl is not with her and stated that she and her husband are on their way to Kansas.

MAN IS HELD AS FUGITIVE FROM IONE

Escaped Prisoner Lodged in Jail Reported Also to be Wanted in Modesto

Forest Hanson, 23 years of age, of Santa Monica, was lodged in the County Jail yesterday as an escaped prisoner from Ione. He is said also to be wanted on a serious charge at Modesto, but nothing is known here concerning the details of this.

Hanson was arrested two days ago by Santa Monica police on the strength of an Ione circular describing his escape three months ago. The police say there he has been arrested several times in the past ten years on petty thievery charges. He is said also to be on parole from Judge Keetch's court.

His father is a gardener on a Beverly Hills estate, and lives at 1538 Yale street, Santa Monica, the police said. The police said State Parole Officer Porbell told them he intended to proceed against Hanson for violation of the terms of his probation.

COMPANY HEAD SOUGHT

Stockholders of Tire Corporation Institute Search

At the request of stockholders of the California Tire and Rubber Company, the State Corporation Department yesterday instituted a search for F. E. Collins, president of the concern. Efforts to locate the official have been unsuccessful thus far, they reported.

The stock purchasers filed complaints with the department, alleging that no certificates for the security have been issued them. It is also asserted that a provision of the company's permit requiring certain amounts of money received from the stock sales to be impounded has not been fulfilled.

The permit of the company was revoked by the State department in October, 1924, on the advice that the concern's charter had been suspended at Sacramento.

OPERATOR OF DANCE SCHOOL IS ACCUSED

Complaints charging misrepresentation of conditions of employment were issued by Deputy Labor Commissioner Lowy yesterday against St. Ritus Benda, operator of a dancing school at Fifth and Western. A hearing to consider the charges was set for April 1. According to the deputy, Verle Vacher, Fred Shaw and Val Larson asserted that they deposited with Benda amounts ranging from $35 to $50 on the representation that they would be given steady employment and be taken as part of a company of dancers on tour. The plan has not materialized, they declared.

LIGHT RAINFALL IN SOUTHLAND

deg., considerable above freezing.

According to Fred B. Lewis, assistant general manager of the Southern California Edison Company, reports from their stations indicated cloudiness as far north as the Big Creek region, east of Fresno, and that snow looked promising for the mountain region in the Sierras. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the temperature in the Huntington Lake region, which had reached a maximum of 56 deg. during the day, was dropping rapidly. Early yesterday morning the temperature fell as low as 30 deg.

No rain fell yesterday in the lake region, Mr. Lewis said, but there was considerable cloudiness.

In the Kern River region, east of Bakersfield, a light rain was falling last night, but not enough to be measured.

Throughout the entire Edison region, it was said, the sky generally looked cloudy.

The Municipal Water Bureau had not received any report from their stations last night, but it was indicated that little rain fell.

WOMAN FIGHTS FOR REPUBLIC

Britain's terms were accepted he would remove beyond the Alleghanies with his followers and there conduct a guerilla warfare.

"That's the situation in Ireland today. The treaty with England was accepted by a vote, cast largely under misapprehension of the true issues involved on the part of the electorate. And the fight for independence goes on and will go on until Ireland is free."

She said that the republicans at this time were not pursuing their former policy of seeking to gain their aims by force of arms. "We are now conducting a campaign of education, attempting to achieve by propaganda what we failed to obtain by force," said Miss MacSwiney. "It is for this reason we are using the elections, endeavoring constantly to gain new votes for independence."

The Irish Parliament at this time is composed of 153 members, forty-eight of whom are adherents of the Republican faction Miss MacSwiney said. The Free State contingent has fifty-seven members. The rest of the Parliament is made up of representatives of labor and other minor factions.

Miss MacSwiney spoke cheerfully of her own experiences as a hunger striker. "The first time was in November, 1922, when I stayed in jail twenty-four days without eating," she said. "Then I was placed at liberty and immediately went back and took charge of the Republican headquarters at Dublin. I was put in jail again in April, 1923, and then starved for twenty-one days before I was liberated."

Miss MacSwiney addressed an audience on Irish freedom at the Trinity Auditorium last night and will speak before the Friday Morning Club today. She came here from San Francisco, and will leave for Portland and Seattle this evening.

alone increased by 40 per cent from 1919 to now, he stated.

W. K. Barnard of the firm of Leeds & Barnard, consulting engineers for the committee, explained the details of the plan, particularly its unification of railways in the Harbor District. This will make a net operating saving of some $11,400 a year, besides permitting an orderly development far into the future and incidentally facilitate grade-crossing eliminations.

Maj. Finch, the government engineer, complimented the Greater Harbor Committee for its "far-sighted and nonpartisan work."

"I was particularly impressed," he said, "with the fact that the members of the committee say 'no' to a city line across this harbor."

Organ Equipped Sweet Shop Will Conduct Opening

Formal opening of Neve's Melody Lane, 744 South Hill street, said to be the only sweet shop in the country to be equipped with a pipe organ, will be conducted tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Arthur Shaw, honor graduate of the Academy of Music in London, will be in charge of the musical program tomorrow and will give daily concerts.

The new shop is said to be one of the most beautiful of its kind in this country. The interior is a replica of a famous hall in a Florentine palace, the decorative work being by E. Peterson, an artist who has spent considerable time redecorating many old Italian palaces.

The dining-room is in many ways a replica of the Room of the Parrots in the restored Davanzati Palace of the fifteenth century. A soda fountain is to the left of the gallery leading to the dining-room.

In the new shop the employees have shower baths, private rest rooms and dressing-rooms.

Otto Hoog, formerly chef of the Switzerhof in Lucerne, Switzerland, is to be in charge of the culinary department. Charles F. Plummer is the architect and Joseph L. Feil the store designer.

HEALTH INSPECTOR PASSES SUDDENLY

Sam Hoffer, 56 years of age, of 5014 Royal Drive, a city health inspector, died yesterday in the Receiving Hospital of a heart attack. Hofer was overcome in the Board of Health office and in the Receiving Hospital apparently rallied. Dr. Dunsmoor ordered him to bed for a rest, however, and presently came to his bedside to ask how he felt. "I feel fine," said Hofer, gave a gasp and died.

HUGE GEM LOOT RECOVERED

Jewelry Worth $105,000, Taken from Automobile, Found in Home of Suspect; Two Arrested

Recovery of jewelry valued at $105,000 stolen on the 11th inst., from a jewelry salesman's car and the arrest of two men as suspects in connection with the theft was announced yesterday by Assistant Captain of Detectives Cato.

The jewelry was found hidden in a trunk in the home of the wife of one of the suspects, according to the officers, where it had been placed by the thieves unknown to her. None of the jewelry had been molested, the officers declared.

Under arrest on charges of grand larceny are: Fred Harris, alias Harry Brody, and Tom Copage.

TRACED BY FINGERPRINTS

Harris was arrested Monday in Superior Judge Keetch's court, after he had been sentenced to ninety days on a forgery charge. His arrest was the result of a check of finger prints at the police bureau with prints found on the car of the salesman, Maurice Rudman, which was discovered Saturday where it had been abandoned in the rear of the Hollywood High School. Copage was taken into custody by detectives who had maintained a watch at his wife's home since the jewelry was recovered several days ago.

When the abandoned car was found, the detectives searched the vicinity for prints of the distinctive tires of the machine. Several of the prints were found in the rear of Copage's home, the officers said.

The jewelry was the property of the Bastheim Jewelry Company, 405 Title Guarantee Building, and was contained in several grips left by Rudman in a machine he parked near the jewelry office for a few minutes. When he returned the auto was gone. At that time it was thought that the theft had been carefully planned by experts.

The officers questioned Mrs. Copage and she satisfied them she knew nothing of the jewelry. Unknown to her, they searched the house and found in a closet a wardrobe trunk containing the missing jewelry. Keeping her unaware of the find, a "stake-out" was laid around the house. The watch was not rewarded until late yesterday afternoon. When Copage appeared he was arrested by Capt. Cato and a squad consisting of Detective Lieutenants Curtis, Nevens, Asst.-Capt. O'Brien and J. B. Armstrong, a private detective.

KIDDIES TO BE GUESTS AT CIRCUS

Al G. Barnes to be Host to Newsboys and Orphans Tomorrow Morning

Tomorrow will be a gala day for every newsie and orphan in Los Angeles. They're all going to the circus. Now what is more exciting to the average American kid than to look forward to a circus?

Al G. Barnes has turned over his big tops at Washington and Grand avenue, and promptly at 9:30 tomorrow morning the big show will start with a bang.

The elephants and the monkeys, the giraffes, lions and the tigers—all of them are joining in with the laughing hyenas in one big whoop, for they, too, are looking forward to the time of their lives when approximately 8000 newsboys of all the papers in this city, together with the orphans from the various orphanages, will make a mad rush for their seats and await the first blast of the bugles that will signal the show to start.

Little Edwin Hubbell, Wampas baby star of 1924 and Wampas mascot of 1925, is going to act as official host with Al G. barnes. Edwin is as eager as any of those 8000 youngsters and is going to be on hand bright and early to help Barnes welcome the gang of youthful Americans.

Last year Master Hubbell acted in a similar capacity and played host to some 7500 newsies and orphans, hundreds of them remembering that festive day.

The Kiwanis, Rotary, Knights of Columbus and other organizations of Los Angeles will help transport the kiddies from their homes to the big tents and back.

The bands will play, and the lemonade will be ice cold. The peanuts will be fresh, and the popcorn hot. There's nothing to do but come and enjoy the show. Remember, every newsie is invited and every little orphan will have a seat provided him. Yes, it will be a gala day—a day that 8000 little minds will cherish for a long, long time to come.

SAFEWAY STORES TO AID GUARD

Employees Enlisted in Regiment to be Granted Leave for Camp

The officers of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry, California National Guard, were addressed yesterday at their weekly luncheon at the Clark Hotel by Albert I. Stewart, sales manager of the Safeway Stores on the relation of the guardsman to the community.

Mr. Stewart was introduced by Capt. Dan W. Ferguson of the Reo Motor Car Company. Mr. Stewart stated that his company would allow any of its employees who belonged to the regiment to attend the weekly drills on Tuesday night, and also the fifteen days' encampment next summer, allowing them pay while on duty, and would not permit their encampment to interfere with their vacations.

The speaker stated that in his belief the community owes so much to the regiment that all business firms could likewise be liberal with their employees who are guardsmen.

"We are all proud of the Los Angeles regiment," said Mr. Stewart. "While it is not being prepared for war, though it may unfortunately be used some time to that end, its great purpose is to protect the civic and industrial life of Southern California."

PLAN SERVICES AT BOWL EASTER

on the highest peak of the bowl rim, these famous musicians will greet the first rays of the sun with trumpet calls which will be the signal for the beginning of the program.

Instrumental music and accompaniment for the vocal selections will be rendered by the Hollywood Community Orchestra, an organization of fifty picked musicians, which will be augmented to eighty instrumentalists for this particular occasion. The band will be directed by Jay Plowe, who is flutist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

STAR TO SING

Following congregational singing of "Holy, Holy, Holy," "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and other favorite hymns, led by Hugo Kirchhofer, Miss Alice Gentle, noted opera star, who is making her summer home at Hollywood, will sing "Inflammatus," from Rosini's "Stabat Mater."

Seated on the wide stage, surrounded by thousands of lilies and palms, to be furnished by florists of the Southland, the Bullock Chorus, directed by William Tyroler, will render the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

One of the chief features of the musical program will be the rendition of "Christ the Lord is Risen Today," and other popular hymns by the Hollywood Children's Chorus of 350 boys and girls, who will be dressed in white and grouped in the formation of a cross against the dark north hillside. Under the management of Mrs. Maud D. Lee, and accompanied by Mrs. Inez Jacobson, the living cross will burst into a paen of praise at a sign from Prof. Kirchhofer.

NAGEL TO READ

Another feature of the service will be the reading of Van Dyke's "God of the Open Air" by Conrad Nagel, noted elocutionist and motion-picture actor, and one of the leaders in the Hollywood Christian Science Church.

Standing at the lily-covered altar, prominent pastors of Hollywood will present the Easter message in sermon and song. Invocation will be pronounced by Dr. W. H. Rodgers, pastor of the Mt. Olive Methodist Episcopal Church, while the address of the morning will be by Dr. Theodore Kemp of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The scripture lesson will be read by Rev. John C. E. Fry of the West Hollywood Presbyterian Church, and benediction will be pronounced by Dr. S. J. Skevington of the First Baptist Church of Hollywood.

Following the service breakfast will be served to members of the Bullock Chorus, the orchestra and other invited guests at the Hollywood Woman's Club, 7078 Hollywood Boulevard.

DISCONTENT OF SPANISH DESCRIBED

Local Architect at Home After Tour Tells About Unrest Over Taxes

There is a widespread feeling of unrest and discontent among the simpler people of Spain at the present time, due to excessive taxation and other political factors, according to William M. Clarke, local architect, who has just returned from a year's tour of the southern Latin countries of Europe, during which he traveled more than 12,500 miles by automobile to fulfill his mission of photographing residential types of architecture under commission of the Los Angeles Pressed Brick Comany.

"Despite the fact that patriotic celebrations are being held regularly in which the loyalty of the people to the administration is manifested, there is a general undercurrent of discontent throughout the country among the poorer classes," Mr. Clarke said yesterday. "Taxes are not expended in the construction or repair of roads and highways or in the betterment of the present insanitary health conditions.

"Efforts of Ibanez, the novelist, to create a revolutionary outbreak by broadcasting literature derogatory to the King are having a serious effect on the situation, and officials of the government are bitter against him."

Mr. Clarke is scheduled to tell his experiences in Europe at the next meeting of the Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND BATHLESS FOR YEAR

Because his great-grandfather had lived to the age of 115 without once seeing a bathtub, Walter A. Roppy decided he could live equally as long if he, too, eschewed baths, according to a suit for divorce filed yesterday by Mrs. Isabel Rippy. In line with this policy, she said, her husband hasn't taken a bath during the last year. In addition, she declared in her complaint, her husband informed her that he intended to continue bathless until the time of his death, even if he, too, lived to the age of 115. He had also discarded forks, knives and spoons, using his fingers entirely when eating, she stated. Attorney William T. Kendrick, Jr., prepared the complaint.

WIFE OF ARTIST IS SUING FOR DIVORCE

Earle S. Moran was an artist but devoted more of his time to his models than to his art, according to a divorce complaint filed yesterday by Mrs. Louise Moran. She Charges cruelty and asserts that her husband was in the habit of boasting of his affairs with women and informing her that he had lady friends much younger and smarter than she. The complaint was prepared by Attorney Marion P. Betty.

Veronica Prescribed for Children as well as Grown-Ups

Veronica Water has proved unusually satisfactory for children and women whose systems rebel against strong cathartics. Veronica is a pure mineral water without the disagreeable taste of the bitter waters of Europe or the strong, gagging effect of some of the concentrated and fortified waters of this country. This natural, unfortified mineral spring water does not gripe nor is it weakening, no matter how thorough the purging.

Physicians prescribe Veronica where permanent relief is desired in cases of constipation, liver, stomach and bladder troubles. Veronica creates no habit. Doses decrease rather than increase. Try Veronica. Give it to the children. It is perfectly harmless, like all pure water, and it keeps their intestinal tract clean and free from poison-spreading accumulated food waste.

THE SILENCER

When a man has too loud a tie he should be expected to use his muffler.

KEPT ON ICE

They are trying to prove that there were human habitations during the glacial period. Ice houses, perhaps.

DELIVER THE GOODS

It is the high cost of distribution that is offering the most perplexing problems to American business. To get there with the goods at the least expense is the big trick.

WOMAN IN THE CASE

A Senator is reported as being about to marry his stenographer. Possibly he would keep all the secretarial money in the family or else the lady is a-weary of taking dictation.

OLD STUFF

The first English dictionary was published in 1620. Cross-word puzzlers will not know whether this was in another era or eon. But the ancient volume might still be of service.

AFTER DEMPSEY

If Jack Dempsey is ineligible to box in New York he can take his fists into New Jersey and still be within easy reach of the big money. Dempsey does not have to fight in New York, but since when did New York decide the championship?

NO HARM INTENDED

The Japanese government does not consider Uncle Sam's naval demonstrations on the Pacific in any other than a pacific light. It is neither a threat nor a menace so far as Japan is concerned, and the Mikado's administration professes to see no wrong therein. Which is right.

LOOKING AHEAD

If the world has final recourse in water power to the exclusion of other energy Africa will be the seat of empire. According to the best judgment of engineers, more than half of the potential energy of this old earth's water resources are lodged in the dark continent. There may yet be a cry of Africa for the Africans.

LADIES MUST LIVE

A society dame in Chicago turns out to be a bootlegging queen with offices in the Loop district and agents calling upon business men with her contraband wares. Many women love adventure—especially if it can be spiced with profit. Smuggling is supposed to be a man's game, but when a game woman takes to it she makes the men look like amateurs.

GRASPING THE CHANCE

One of the recently elected vice-presidents of the New York Bank of the United States, with its capital of more than $60,000,000, is Saul Singer, who came here from Russia as a penniless lad some thirty years ago and who toiled for years in the sweat shops of the garment trade in Gotham. It is perhaps needless to say that he is one of the Russians who is out of tune with the Trotzkys, yet he is a striking example of what this land offers in the way of opportunities to those who have the courage and industry to accept them. When this lad went to night school he learned to labor, not to argue.

THROUGH SCOTCH EYES

The dramatic section of an Edinburgh journal announces the release in the Scotch capital of an English screen comedy and it is described as coming as a tonic to cinema patrons who have grown wearily of the regulation American film, with its inevitable cabaret scenes and its eternal triangle. The English picture is mentioned in contrast as a tale of real charm—a human story, full of clean and wholesome humor and presenting many attractive scenes of the English countryside. The French folk get our bedroom and bathroom screenings, all right, and they appreciate much of our cabaret offerings, but the English are really getting sore over the settings given to our sex entanglements.

MEAT FAMINE THREATS

According to trained computers in the cattle industry, the country is due to have a meat shortage which will reach its peak in high prices next fall. It seems that cattle cannot be bred and fed with any profit when grain is so high and meat so low. The raisers are ridding themselves of their flocks. The markets are glutted with live stock, but the supply is shrinking at its source and there are no immediate reserves. This at least is the contention of the packers. But there are many who do not worry and to whom the threat of a meat famine brings no terror. Although America was brought up on meat, it is now found possible to keep the home fires burning on eggs, vegetables and fruits. Poultry and fish may satisfy the original appetite for red beef. It doesn't take long to produce a fresh supply and in the meantime folks may go without meat without dying off in vast numbers.

KILLING THE GOOSE

That the passing of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad into the hands of a receiver should have occasioned a general slump in transportation securities is not surprising. Money for investment in such securities has been tight ever since the railroads were released from government operation. The act under which they were turned back to their owners contains some provisions so drastic that The Times expressed its doubt at the time whether the average lines could be financed and operated successfully under such handicaps.

There were, and are, a few strong groups that can operate under those conditions and pay a moderate return to the investors. But the weaker lines are just as important to the territory they serve as the stronger ones; and an act that eventually drives the weaker ones to the wall is plainly not conducive to the public welfare.

Government operation under the Wilson administration proved conclusively that private interests can operate the transportation lines of the country more economically and efficiently than a government department, for the good and sufficient reason that trained railroad men are better equipped for the job than politicians. The country has recognized this; but the politicians have given to it only a reluctant recognition. They have imposed conditions on the railroads that have put an end to railroad construction and that are checking the development of many sections of the country, because they lack adequate transportation facilities.

For ten years before the war the politicians made capital out of baiting the railroads. They represented to the people that the transportation lines were robbing them and that freight and passenger rates could be cut in half without injuring the service. When the government took control those fallacies were exploded. And it is self-evident that, if the railroads are to be operated by private corporations, those corporations should receive friendly co-operation and support from the public.

During the year 1924 more miles of railroad were abandoned in the United States than were constructed. The railroads did not earn on the average as much as 5 per cent on the investment. And it is interesting to consider here who are the investors. The stock of the great transportation lines is no longer held in the hands of a few capitalists. There are something like 10,000,000 holders of transportation securities in the country. The great majority of the stock of all the important lines is in the hands of small investors. That slump in railroad securities does not merely hit a few wealthy people; it hits 10,000,000, mostly persons of moderate means.

Private operation under government control is the best solution yet found for the transportation problem; but it can only be successful if that control is exercised in a generous and friendly spirit. When the margin of profit permitted is so low that the railroad managements cannot float successfully bond issues for new construction it is evident that the government control is too drastic. When a line doing the business of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul is forced into a receivership it must be evident that there are other lines which, under present regulations, are approaching the danger line.

Moreover, it is significant that the elements in the country that clamored for government ownership are the ones who are attempting to make the burden of the railroads too heavy to permit successful operation. They seek to attain public ownership and operation through making private ownership and operation intolerable to those in the transportation business.

To the present the marked decline in the stock market has had little effect on business generally. Through the development of the Federal Reserve system, which divides the country into what is termed "panic-proof credit units," a slump in the stock market no longer gives rise to a financial cyclone. But it is the confidence of the average investor that the government will deal fairly with the transportation lines that keeps the depression from spreading. It will be necessary for the next Congress to prove by its legislation that this confidence is justified.

THE RAIN PADRE

The symphony of the clattering typewriter blended with the patter of the rain on the office window awakens a welcome sentiment of friendly feeling for the "Rain Padre," who has moved his sun spot from the north to our southern climes at the psychological moment when many had begun to fear that his March predictions would fail. So while we hail the prophet of Pluvius as a welcome guest many would fain hear more of his theory.

California has sheltered more famous astronomers than any other American State; and while they are discussing Father Ricard's theory in the East it is well that we should know something locally of the broad lines of the rain prophet's predictions. Many California farmers wait with eagerness for Father Ricard's program at the opening of the season for planting and sowing crops, and tending the orchards. And there are tourists and travelers who gauge their side trips to the interior by his prognostications. Some industries depending on the clemency of the elements balance their future speculation of output on his dicta.

The theory of sun spot effect on production is interesting; for scientific research may possibly perfect a system of reasonable expectation of the rainfall to synchronize with systematic sowing, planting and tending.

When the growing generation of California's fruit growers is able to assimilate the principles of scientific probability of atmospheric conditions sufficiently to discard the haphazard hopes of favorable chances, another step in the right direction of economic exclusion of waste will be made.

While the best qualified judges are reserved and discordant as to whether sun spots are regions of higher or lower temperature than the photosphere, recent evidence seems to point very definitely to a lower temperature.

The sunspot theory is not a new departure from mythological legends of ancient astrologers and astronomers. The first adequate determination of the character as well as the amount of solar radiation was made by S. P. Langley in 1893 at Mount Whitney in California (14,000 feet) with the bolometer, an exceedingly sensitive instrument which he invented.

The observations of Hale and Adams, resulting in the recognition of titanium and titanium oxide in the spectrum; and those of Newall and A. L. Fowler, locating manganese hydride have indicated to the scientists the cause of lower temperature which forms vapors low enough in temperature to decrease the temperatures of the line spectres of sodium, iron and others fusible at more moderate temperatures.

To the lay observer whose mind considers the foregoing data as thin and irrelevant, it is clear nevertheless that atmospheric conditions exposed to a lower temperature allow the vapors of the earth to accumulate under the influence of sunspots which decrease the absorption of the heat rays through the obstruction of lower temperatures interposed between the radiance of the sun and its effect on the crust and the immediate atmosphere surrounding our planet. The screen of umbrae caused by the sunspots breaks the intensity of unobstructed shafts of heat which otherwise would have evaporated the exuvia of terrestrial vapors, from which clouds and subsequent rains are formed.

The explanation, which Father Ricard accorded to an interviewer lately, goes far to make this problem clear to amateur astrologers. His explanation of the traveling of the sunspots from east to west across the face of the sun, thus producing low barometric pressure on different areas of the Pacific Coast, sounds plausible. The electromagnetic influence caused by the position of two or more planets in line with the sun on the formation of sunspots on the sun itself, which seems to be the culmination of the wizard's theory, substantiates the harmony of action between the great spheres which control our atmospheric destinies in the plan of good old Mother Nature.

HIGHER EDUCATION

Pittsburg usually takes a lofty attitude in most matters; but what shall be said of her proposed fifty-two-story skyscraper university?

New York has her Columbia, but even in that congested center nothing so lofty has been dreamed. They puncture the clouds with business towers; but education has never ascended to such heights.

Chicago University is in the heart of a metropolis; but it has spread of campus rather than height. Even the University of Southern California, which is taking on airs as a great city institution, is buying more land rather than aspiring to the stars.

All the other great universities seek the outside neighborhoods where hundreds and thousands of acres park around the buildings. Schools of learning have never thought in terms of skyscrapers.

But Pittsburg highbrows are true to form. Naturally the geological department will occupy the basement. The excavations may be utilized as a by-product for specimens. Various fossils of the university may be entombed there for study.

The business college will claim the street floor. Curricula feeding on yellow leaves of books will give added attraction to the show windows. A bargain counter could be filled with scraps of information.

The law school should be assigned to the court. This will be logical, and justice can be dispensed with here as well as anywhere else. Besides the cries of the victims will not disturb the higher-ups.

Serious attention should not be given to the suggestion of a sister institution that the dead languages be contiguous to the medical department. It might engender strife and some might be greatly cut up over it.

Of course, the campus would have to be perpendicular. The stairway could be the track. Marathons could be arranged between the cabs of the elevators. Football may be fostered in the street, and students who have never worked for money at any job that required physical exercise would be eligible as usual and could tackle the traffic. Sophomores could haze the freshmen by hanging them down a mile or so by the big toe. This would be picturesque for the public and piquant for the freshmen.

The astronomical department should be housed in the dome and the botanical folks could use the roof garden. However, there should be space enough reserved for the sky-pilots. They should be taught to land as well as to go up in the air. This will be appreciated by the public.

Considering all the languages that are taught, will this be a Tower of Babel?

SPEED 'EM UP

Everybody is glad that the poor, overladened postman has had his pay raised—the Newark News says, "There is no pretense that the new rates are scientific, and the bill is merely a temporary measure, the one thing permanent about it is more pay for postal workers." Be that as it may, it doesn't take more than four days to get a letter from San Francisco now.

Just About It
by James J. Montague

BAFFLING NATURE

Nature did not model Dolly
  For a moving-picture play,
For a life of costly folly
  Or an oil king's fiancee.
She was just a homely creature,
  (Though her heart beat true and warm)
With not one redeeming feature,
  And a rather slatty form.

She was not at all a "looker,"
  (As perhaps you understand)
Till a beauty doctor took her
  In his strong and skillful hand;
To a curve her mouth converted,
  Bent her nose a little in,
Plucked her eyebrows and inserted
  One small dimple in her chin.

Dolly now has a complexion
  Which, the beauty sharp contends,
Will defy the fierce inspection
  Of her envious lady friends.
In the brilliant night club sectors,
  She is noted near and far,
While the cinema directors
  Fight to make of her a star.

Everybody is astounded,
  When she trips along the street,
For her lines are softly rounded,
  And her smile is bright and sweet.
All the men avow that Dolly's
  Quite the only perfect girl,
And she'll soon be in the Follies,
  If she doesn't wed an Earl.

GENEROUS THOUGHTS

Sweet thoughts and words are the warp and woof,
  And the angels come and weave them
To enrobe victorious men as proof
That triumphs are won by their own home roof,
  And real men alone achieve them.

The garments the angel fingers weave
  Of the threads we mortals spin them
Will glow as the golden sky at eve
And shine as the crowns the saints receive
  On the brows of those who win them.

Our generous thoughts, as a song that's sung
  Or a word that is sweetly spoken,
Send a note of joy o'er a world far-flung
That swells as the tones of a harp new strung
  And abides where the hearts are broken.

A DAUGHTER'S TRIBUTE

BY DAVID STARR JORDAN

A very noble little book is Mrs. Fannie Garrison Villard's [illegible] of her honored father, William Lloyd Garrison. Mrs. Villard gives [illegible] very engaging view of the great abolitionist of the last century [illegible] at home "through a daughter's eyes." Stern and [illegible] at times because around him he "had mountains [illegible] possessed a calm temperament and a sweet disposition, [illegible] tagonism toward ideas, not persons, and gentle with all [illegible] vocates of violence and defenders of slavery. "Doing evil that [illegible] may come" was to him a false and pernicious doctrine, [illegible] as he said, he must be "as harsh as truth and as [illegible] justice."

He began his public life in 1831 with the assertion: "I am in earnest. I will not equivocate—I will not retract a single inch and I will be heard." In his private life he was wholly blameless, a delightful host to visitors and not above building fires, cooking breakfast for the children or other household duties which circumstances might require. Once he said, "He who attempts to appear before the public as a reformer should so live that all his actions can be searched with candles and not found wanting." When his daughter's hands were cold in winter she often warmed them on his bald head—"incendiary head," as he playfully called it.

Mrs. Villard gives a delightful picture of Garrison's "marvelously sympathetic nature, his complete forgetfulness of self, that drew all hearts to him. Once admitted to his presence, friend or foe felt the magic of his warning voice, expressive of a heart overflowing with kindness, and prejudices melted away before his genial smile."

The unshaken belief that nonresistance must prevail over force was the center of all his efforts. Against slavery, a condition which could not exist for a day unless supported by force, his life work was directed. Toward war, another and more destructive aspect of violence, his attitude was exactly the same. "Why should we go to a book to settle the character of war when we could judge it by its fruits?" . . . "I would not trust the war spirit anywhere in the universe of God." If our civilization lasts it will be because it becomes imbued with the same feeling.

Mrs. Villard gives a valuable chapter of quotations from Garrison's writings, a letter of eulogy by Tolstoi and, in conclusion, a view of her father as seen by his grandson, Oswald Garrison Villard. In his recollections Villard contrasts his (Garrison's) ways, "full of cheer, and sunshine and optimism" with those of John Brown, his fellow-worker by methods very different, "gravely earnest and intense, usually dull as well as ponderous."

Absolute justice was the central aim of all Garrison's efforts, and for this reason he should be placed at the very front of all prophets of democracy.

LIVING TWO LIVES

By The Foothill Philosopher

Within the last week I have been happily surprised when, upon daring to voice some of the sentiments that inspire my best moments, I have been informed by at least a dozen business men that they, too, live a sort of "double life"—one a life of action among men and things and the other a life of quietude and meditation. This method of living "two lives," they told me, instead of confusing them and making them less responsible to environment, has given them greater power and poise on the plane of action and in the realm of spirit.

Horace Greeley's only comment, when asked what he thought of the Fox sisters, so-called "spiritualist mediums," was "One world at a time." However, there is a vast difference in allowing oneself to be confused by intemperate, fanatical introspection and unbridled speculation and in wholesome faith in "the more abundant life" and the practice of constantly looking within and above for that guidance which is so essential to one's peace in a world of apparent discords.

To appreciate life as it is and to make it more worth while it is necessary to cultivate a belief in that larger, deeper, more wondrous life which is apparently above and beyond man, but which, in reality, is within the soul of each of us. To cultivate faith in a life better than one knows results in the consciousness that the larger life has, to some extent, been attained.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE HANDY MAN

Dave Dingbat is a handy man, he does all kinds of chores; I have him grease my pink sedan and paint the cellar doors. And he can chop and he can plow and make a wall of brick; he comes and nurses my dun cow when she is lying sick. He is so handy one would think he'd dwell in Easy street and have rich ginger ale to drink and costly things to eat. I ponder, as I watch his smoke, upon his sad estate; this gifted man is always broke, with bailiffs at his gate. He travels with the futile mob of men who cut no ice; he never gets the first-class job for which men pay the price. When my dun cow has mumps or croup or other trifling ill, I let Dave feed her pills and soup and pay his modest bill. But when her anguish brings out sweat and racks her till she moans, I call in haste the licensed vet, who charges seven bones. When my old car is needing grease so bad she shrieks laments, I call in Dave to bring her peace and pay him fifty cents. But when the bus declines to choo, an expert workman comes and spends three hours or maybe two and charges frightful sums. And thus the gifted handy man gets all the dinky jobs; he finds himself an also-ran and wrings his hands and sobs. Far better play a cheap-john lyre and play that lyre so well that passing strangers will admire and wave their hats and yell.

WILL FIGHT PAROLE FOR KIDNAPERS

Prosecutor Prepares New Charge Against Abductors of Mrs. Witherell

Anticipating efforts of Arthur W. Carr and Floyd L. Carr, confessed kidnapers of Mrs. Gladys Witherell, to obtain paroles from San Quentin, U. S. Atty. McNabb yesterday issued warrants for their arrest on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. The charge grows out of evidence that the Carr brothers in January, 1921, wrote letters to O. F. Witherell, 1845 Whitley avenue, demanding a ransom for the return of Mrs. Witherell.

Mrs. Witherell's disappearance was reported to authorities by Mr. Witherell January 15, 1921. A search failed to disclose Mrs. Witherell's whereabouts. Her husband later received two letters, one saying Mrs. Witherell would be returned safely on payment of $30,000 and the other demanding payment of $20,000. Shortly afterwards officers rescued Mrs. Witherell in a cabin near Corona where she was guarded by one of the Carr brothers.

Attorney McNabb has sent to the State Prison Board a transcript of the official court report of the confession made by the Carrs. Following that confession, the two were sentenced by Superior Judge Reeve on February 3, 1921, to serve from ten years to life at San Quentin.

STABBING IN DEBT FIGHT UP IN COURT

Huntington Park Man is Arraigned on Charge of Deadly Weapon Assault

T. B. Wells, 324 East Ninety-first street, was arraigned yesterday before Justice Miller of Huntington Park on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon on W. P. Williams, 233 South Grand avenue. Hearing was set for April 1, next, and bail was fixed at $500.

It is charged that Wells struck Williams on the head with a bottle and stabbed him with a knife when the latter and his brother-in-law, G. E. Davis, 229 East Ninety-fourth street, went to Wells's home to collect a debt of $152 Wells is said to owe Williams.

Wells told Deputy Sheriffs Hunter and Hanby, who placed him under arrest after the altercation Wednesday night, that he used the knife in self-defense because he feared Davis carried a gun.

Williams was treated at the Vernon Emergency Hospital and was later removed to his home. He will recover.

Story of $2000 Dinner Arouses Judge's Desire

"Well, the court can only say that it would certainly have liked to have been a guest at that dinner," Judge Gates exclaimed yesterday, after listening to counsel for John Varner, 84-year-old bridegroom, attempt to extract from Mrs. Emma Varner the disposal she made of some $2000 that her husband, in the enthusiasm of his honeymoon, had placed to their account.

"Oh, I spent it," Mrs. Varner declared vaguely. "For groceries and furiture and such."

Under detailed questioning she admitted that expenditures for furniture had totaled $60.

"Do you mean to say you spent $1940 for groceries in the few weeks you lived with Mr. Varner?" counsel for the husband demanded.

"Well, I gave a big dinner. All the relatives were there and we had lots to eat," Mrs. Varner submitted.

"It must have been a wonderful spread," Judge Gates opined. He continued the hearing a week for further evidence. Varner asserted that within a few weeks after their marriage, last December, Mrs. Varner had received about $4000 from him, which he has not been able to get back.

FINAL TOUCHES GIVEN TEN-CENT MUSIC BILL

Final rehearsals will be conducted by the Philharmonic Orchestra today and tomorrow in preparation for the last of the 10-cent outdoor symphony concerts to be given Sunday afternoon in the Coliseum at Exposition Park. Anticipating an audience of 35,000, Conductor Walter Henry Rothwell has prepared a program that will appeal to all tastes for music. The starting hour of the program is 2:30 o'clock. Extra car service will be provided by the Los Angeles Railway. Gates to the stadium are to be opened at 1:30. More than 15,000 seats will be available at 10 cents each. Nine O'clock as Bedtime Hour is Basis of Action

Lily Blasdel, blond and pretty, stoutly maintained before Judge Summerfield that she was no 9-o'clock wife.

She wanted a divorce from Leo C. Blasdel, whom she charged with cruelty.

"He made me go to bed at 9 o'clock every night," she complained. "Whether I was sleepy or not. He said no decent person cared to be up any later than that."

"Well, he couldn't force you into bed, could he?" objected Judge Summerfield.

"It was either go to bed or live in misery, he was so hateful about it," Mrs. Blasdel retorted. "So I went to bed."

Judge Summerfield, however, was not so certain that this constituted extreme cruelty, so he took the case under advisement.

Race Between Gun and Razor Won by Former

"Yo' honah, it were a race between a gun and a razor, and the gun won."

In these words M. P. Prepoli, negro, described yesterday the circumstances which preceded by a fraction of an instant the death of C. W. Green, another negro, in a poker game about a week ago in a shack at the Los Angeles River bottoms. "Snowball" John Williams is charged with the crime and Prepoli appeared as a prosecution witness against him in Justice Baird's court at the preliminary hearing.

"Snowball," the dead man, "Oklahoma Slim" and "Small Black" were all playing, the witness said, adding that he did not join because he had been shot once in a poker game. Green won a big pot, according to the witness. "Snowball" and "Oklahoma Slim" accused the winner of cheating. One went for his razor and the other for his gun but "Snowball's" gun won, he declared.

The court continued the hearing until today.

WIFE FINDS DECREE NOT EASILY GOT

Mrs. Ruth Gunn was treated to a surprise yesterday. It happened in Judge Summerfield's divorce court.

Mrs. Gunn was there seeking a divorce from Alfred James Gunn, who had defaulted to her complaint. So she expected easy sailing.

The surprise came just after she had completed her story of domestic discord, featured by numerous beatings she said she had endured.

A head was thrust in the door of the courtroom.

"Who's that?" inquired the judge.

"Oh, that's my husband," Mrs. Gunn exclaimed.

"Well, let's hear from him about those beatings," the court demanded.

So Gunn took the stand and told Judge Summerfield that he had hit his wife only once, and that she had hit him first that time.

"I think you are both at fault. Try to get together, and don't hit each other. I'm not going to award any decree today," Judge Summerfield said.

"I'll never, never, never live with him again," Mrs. Gunn protested.

"Oh, well, think it over. I've heard lots of wives say the same thing and then come back in here to get a decree set aside," Judge Summerfield insisted.

So Mrs. Gunn did not get a decree, but as she left the courtroom with her attorney, Joseph Herlihy, she left a trail of "never, nevers" floating behind her.

Wife Can't Say He Boasted of Former Loves

"Mrs. Hillison" can never reproach John Gibiser with talking too much, at least. He did his best to conceal her address, when his wife, Julia Donnell Gibiser, had him up before Judge Gates in alimony court yesterday, and displayed a picture of Gibiser and Mrs. Hillison together.

"Where does this woman live?" Judges Gates demanded.

"Mr. Judge, I couldn't say," Gibiser parried.

"Yes, you can, and you had better," the court retorted.

"Well, Mr. Judge, she lives in Fourth street."

"Fourth street, Los Angeles?"

"No."

"Well, Fourth street where?"

"Fourth street, Pennsylvania."

Judge Gates finally extracted from Gibiser the information that "Mrs. Hillison," lived in Allentown and that he had not seen her for ten years. Mrs. Gibiser had charged that he was spending money on Mrs. Hillison that should have been applied to arrears in alimony. Gibiser was admonished and given more time to pay up.

OUR NOUVEAU 400

Social Queens Displaced by Press Agents in Club List

BY ALMA WHITAKER

A perfectly frightful upheaval has taken place in Southern California. Social queens have been deposed and press agents glorified. The mighty have been put down from their seats and the humble, but not necessarily meek, have been exalted.

The deed has been perpetrated by the new publication—the Society and Club Register of Southern California. Its compiler and publisher is a gentleman from New York, Mr. A. B. Copeland, who has painstakingly readjusted most of our social values.

For instance, under that section labeled "Society Listings," Mrs. Hancock Banning and her family have been utterly ignored. Mrs. Banning simply is not. Neither is her daughter, Mrs. John C. Macfarland. Oh, well, never mind, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks are not there either—these aristocrats in their respective spheres may weep in company.

"It was thought best not to include motion-picture people," murmurs the publisher doubtfully.

But whist, see here. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil De Mille, Mr. and Mrs. William De Mille—how come?

"Well—er—" explains Mr. Publisher, "they got in on the social standing of their wives.

That's a good one on Cecil and William.

Well, then, the Macphersons? Don't Jeanie of the "Ten Commandments" and Aimee Semple of the gospel at least get in on their mamas' social standing." They do not. But one McPherson is permitted to grace that book and her name is Caroline.

Well, now, would one call W. A. Clark, Jr., "society"? He isn't there. But Mr. and Mrs. George Leslie Smith are very much all there. Once again is a Caroline glorified.

Alas, in vain do I search for an O'Melveny. Never a sign that such a name exists. But, oh, there is a Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton Cline—that's our old friend Bill Cline; press agent of the Orpheum. Bill, you dog, I never knew, I never guessed.

And who are these, listed as Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Edward Reynolds? No, you wouldn't have known, would you? But that really stands for Cecil E. Reynolds, M.D., F.R.C.S., and all the other letters of the alphabet. So, you see, when they do include any sort of a once treasured nabob in our midst, they denude them of their glory. Say, but this is democratizing society with a vengeance.

Oh, but there are gems of enlightenment herein. Turn to the L's.

"Lindsey, Mrs. Estelle Lawton, nee Estelle Lawton. Mr. Dudley Lindsey (husband.) At home by invitation only."

"Enchanting," I murmured. "Tell me, is that the new vogue?

"Now see here," replied Mr. Publisher peevishly, "I checked up on that one myself and Mrs. Lindsey wished it put that way."

So you can see where Gurney Newlin, bachelor de luxe, has a distinct advantage. He gets in on his own and can presumably be at home when he likes. But at that, only two of all that stylish Bachelor's Club get into that Society Listing.

But I wil say this for the publishers—they have managed to squeeze most of the newspaper women in—with husbands, if any—no matter how many Mrs. Hancock Bannings are omitted. All the same, Jean Loughborough, society editor of the Examiner, is missing, including son Billy—and at that she may feel swanky about it.

Now with William and Cecil De Mille getting in on their wives' social prestige, you might have supposed that the same courtesy would be conceded to Mr. Antonio Moreno, wouldn't you? But not on your life—Daisy Danziger that was, including hubby, moan in the discard.

But there, there, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Armitage are there—so society is not entirely tottering. Mr. Armitage being a super-hyper-press agent more sumptuous than any mere Wampus. But here again there is cruel discrimination—can't find a Wampus anywhere.

Ah, here is Mrs. Jack Valley, hurrah, daughter-in-law got in even if Mama and Papa John S. Vallely are left out.

Not a sign of the Russel McD. Taylors or the John Trainors or the A. L. Cheneys or the Granville MacGowans or the William A. Brackenridges or Mrs. Sherman Hoyt or the Samuel Storrows—but saved, saved, saved—Dr. and Mrs. J. Whitcomb Brougher are distinctly and emphatically there—even if Dr. Brieglieb and Bob Shuler are not.

Alas and alack, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Joseph Johnson is lamentably absent, but, eureka, Clara Shortridge Foltz stands fully revealed.

This "Society Listing" has the poorest possible opinion of our doctors, surgeons, ministers—can't find Dr. Rae Smith; Dr. A. S. Lobingier, Dr. Titian Coffey, or Dean MacCormack or the Rev. E. E. Helms—but anyway, healing and uplift are represented by Antoinette Sabel.

Oh, I'm just sick about it. Why, will you believe it, I can't even find Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, who hobnobbed with nothing lower than royalty on that last European trip of hers, and I can't find Wadsworth Harris . . . Oh, my dear society editors, what on earth will you do without Wadsworth Harris?

You will have to do with "Pinky" Snyder instead — he's there, thank Heaven, he's there!

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

RICKETS AND SUNSHINE

(Part 2.)

In last week's paper on Rickets, I told you that babies on normal diets will sometimes develop rickets, unless they have plenty of sunshine or unless they have cod liver oil or one egg yolk a day.

Today I want to talk a little more on the sunshine cure.

It used to be thought that plants only had the ability to directly take and use the sunlight to build up their tissues, but we know now that the animal kingdom also can use certain elements of the sunlight.

It has been found, by animal experimentation and by observation of babies and children, that they may develop rickets on diets that are apparently normal, but if these animals and children are exposed to the sunlight, something is absorbed which activates the food principles so that they are better utilized by the body, and the rickets will be cured. This something which is absorbed by the air is thought to be the invisible ultraviolet ray.

This makes us realize the extreme importance of a goodly amount of sunlight. It has been found that rickets will develop most in the spring, because the spring follows the winter when children are not out in the sunlight enough, especially in cold climates.

The sunlight must be the direct sunlight — that is, not filtered through clothing or glass, because that filters out the curative rays. When it is cold as it is in the winter, young babies cannot have the benefit of the direct sunlight on their arms and legs and that is the reason they should get the cod liver oil. However, it is just as important for the children who are old enough to have their arms and legs exposed even in the winter months, to have their cod liver oil. Of course, you have to remember, always, that these two things have to be combined with correct diet and other hygienic measures.

This is the way the sunlight treatment is given to the children who are old enough to be exposed during the cold weather, in the Jewish orphan home in New York. Warm dresses are made of heavy material sewed across the bottom, something like little rompers. They are made without sleeves. There is an elastic run around the armsize and around the openings for the little legs to come through, so that they hug tight and the cold does not go under them. In these the children are put in the sunlight for about fifteen minutes. Gradually the time is increased until they can stay for an hour or so.

The arms are covered up when they are first exposed, and when they get used to this amount of cold and sunlight, then the arms are exposed also. And when it is very mild, the chest and the back are exposed.

Of course there can be no rule about this exposure. It has to be regulated according to the temperature and the sensitiveness of the babies' skins. The treatment should be given every day if possible, but four or five times a week seem to suffice.

It is found in this hospital that the signs of rickets disappear under this treatment.

Summary: To prevent and cure rickets:

1. Correct diet.
2. Direct sunlight (not through glass), or through the quartz mercury vapor lamp.
3. Egg yolks.
4. Cod liver oil.

The baby who has rickets should be under the care of a children specialist.

POACHED EGGS, MARYLAND

Place two poached eggs on two squares of buttered toast, cover with cream sauce, lay a slice of fried bacon across each egg and garnish with a crisp corn fritter.

LAMB KIDNEYS SAUTE

Skin, split and cover with salted water eight lamb kidneys; let stand twenty minutes, drain and wipe dry between towels. Place in a bowl, add one tablespoonful of olive oil and mix well. Heat two tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan, add the kidneys and one tablespoonful of finely chopped green onion; toss or shake the pan over the fire for four minutes, place on squares of buttered toast, sprinkle over a seasoning of salt and pepper. Add to the butter in the pan one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and two tablespoonfuls of orange juice; heat and pour over the kidneys.

TOMATO DRESSING

Place in the top of a double-boiler one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of dry mustard, half a teaspoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of paprika, and one tablespoonful of flour; mix well, add one cup of strained tomato juice and stir and cook five minutes; add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and the yolk of one egg, mix well and cook one minute; remove from the fire, add one tablespoonful of butter in small bits and beat well for one minute. Set in a cold place to become thoroughly chilled before using.

HOLLAND PEACH CAKES

Drain the syrup from one can of peach halves. Sift two cupfuls of sifted flour with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, and one teaspoonful of salt; rub into these, as for biscuits, five tablespoonfuls of butter and when like coarse meal work to a smooth dough with one cupful of milk. Roll out half an inch thick on a floured board cut in rounds with a large biscuit cutter, make a depression in the center of each round, lay on each round a peach half and sprinkle well with sugar mixed with ground cinnamon. Bake ten minutes and serve with a sauce made of peach syrup heated with one tablespoonful of butter and one teaspoonful of lemon juice.

CARROT SALAD

Mix two cupfuls of grated raw carrot with one cupful of chopped white celery, two chopped sweet green peppers, one head of lettuce broken in shreds, and half a cupful of lemon French dressing. Serve on cold lettuce-covered plates.

APRICOT PUDDING

Butter-custard cups and sprinkle the sides and bottom with fine bread crumbs. Press the fruit from one large can of apricots through a sieve and add to it one teaspoonful of lemon juice, the beaten yolks of two eggs, half a teaspoonful of cinnamon and four tablespoonfuls of sugar, mix well and pour into the crumbed custard cups; bake thirty minutes in a medium oven. Cover the tops with a meringue made with the stiffly beaten egg whites and six tablespoonfuls of sugar; dust with sugar, return to the oven and bake a nice brown. Good hot or cold.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Coffee Making

If you can possibly afford it, buy a percolator. It means good coffee. A cheaper grade of coffee may be used with really splendid results if the coffee is percolated and not allowed to boil in with the water. Have the coffee ground finely for the percolator, it yields better flavor.

Electric Cords

Keep the cords on your vacuum cleaner, electric iron, grille, etc., free from kinks, which wear upon the insulation and finally result in breaking. Should you notice any worn places in the cords, wrap them with bicycle tape and they will be as good as new.

LET THEM
Drink Coffee With You

Now the children may drink coffee. People may drink it at bedtime. Those forced to coffee substitutes may drink coffee at its best. Now there is a coffee without caffeine—the drug that does the harm. It is removed without altering the flavor an iota. The result is Kaffee Hag—a delightful blend. You never served a finer coffee.

Rain Forgotten in Pleasure of Evening Program

Tried Friends of Radio Fans Heard in Concert

Yvette Mandler, Young Pianist, Matinee Feature

BY CLAIRE FORBES CRANE

We all know how thankful the crops in the meadows and fields and the fruit orchards were yesterday for the gentle fingers of the soft rain which caressed them like the touch of cool hands on a fevered forehead. The rain seemed to relax all nervous tension—to give us leisure to think quietly and supply us afresh with kindness and thoughtfulness for our fellow-workers.

Our entire studio staff reflected this thought throughout the day as we went about our manifold duties, listening to the rhythmic patter on our glass roof. When night fell and the artists of the evening assembled there was a spirit of good fellowship borne of the contrast of the weather outside and the coziness of our station that made the program an assured success.

Our host of the evening was John Wright, the "Right Tailor," an old friend of ours with many entertaining programs to his credit at KHJ. The artists were Uncle Remus, the Orpheus Four, Sol Hoopi and his Novelty Three, Harold Hynes, monologist; Jose Arias Trio with Antoinette Friend, violin, and Dave Albert, accordion.

CONTINUE TO DELIGHT

Uncle Remus did not seem to have more than a trace left of his broken ankle, but appeared spry enough to again evade the disgruntled owners of chicken coops! He has made himself during the past year, with his original songs, patter and skilled playing of the autoharp, a tradition of KHJ which will go down in history as one of its most beloved features.

The other members of last evening's coterie of talent were old and valued friends of our studio and contributed their customary delightful performance. One of the great tests of personality is a continuous appearance before the public through any channel with the receipt of undiminished response after every occasion. Each person on last night's program has passed this test in radio broadcasting, which is by far the most difficult form of public work.

At 10 p.m. the Piggly Wiggly Girls took the stage, and during the time of their appearance they completely held the attention of their audience with a well-balanced program of semiclassics.

The noon program was an impromptu affair due to the inability of one of our orchestras to get here. However, KHJ proved equal, as always, to the emergency, and the Piggly Wiggly Hawaiian Trio rushed to our assistance with Howard W. Coombs, pianist, and Jean Veditz, violin.

Howard Coombs gave "Hark! The Lark," and "Country Gardens," by Grainger, with a nicety of touch and musical feeling for the phrase which, alas, is not often the possession of youthful masculine pianists! Jean Veditz is one of our own studio family and, much to our surprise and delight, exhibited a real gift for his instrument which, we hope, he will be persuaded to display more often.

The Pacific States Electric Compresented for the matinee the Arion Trio, John Buchanan, Scotch baritone, and Yvette Mandler, pianist. Yvette Mandler is a very young, charming, and gifted pianist. Yesterday she played a "Scherzo" of Mendelssohn's and a Brahms "Waltz" with rare poetic insight and a clarity of technique which should endear her to all lovers of fine broadcasting.

John Buchanan with his soft Scotch burr and pleasing voice, together with our favorite Arion Trio, completed a splendid hour of music.

The "children's program' opened with the daily lecture on American history by Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog. We had a little group of cherry blossoms amongst our studio children last evening! They were Sumi Iwasaki, 16 years of age, Masa and Fuji Tanaka, 12 and 10, respectively. All pianist pupils of Mrs. Cora Bowler, they were discovered in one of our Saturday morning broadcasting classes and last night they pleased both young and old with their keyboard manners.

CHILDREN'S HOUR

Our Dickie Brandon, pretty Baby Betty Burock, reader, and Leola Dolbee, 10-year-old reader, a newcomer whom we heartily welcomed to KHJ, romped with their Uncle John before the microphone. Little Red Riding Hood of KHJ, none other than precocious Joyce Coad, and "Sunny" Jane Hughes, screen juvenile matched their active, minds with the questioning of Uncle John. Georganne Dimarco, 6-year-old reader, was another new face in the "Children's Hour."

At 7:45 p.m. Dr. Charles H. Woods, president of the largest Chiropractic College in the West, spoke on the subject of "Chiropractic in its Relation to Health."

I hope nothing will tempt you out this evening away from your receiving set. The Master Carpet Cleaners and Contractors Association, represented by J. Howard Johnson, has planned a wonderful program. Besides many old favorites, it will introduce to you William Van Den Burg, famous young 'cellist, former assistant teacher and pupil of Pablo Casals.

Don't forget it is going to rain at KHJ on the night of April 6. Don't leave your house that evening!

Justice Court Jurisdiction to be Settled

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 26. — The question of whether the Justice Court of Pasadena has jurisdiction over high-grade misdemeanor cases was brought up today with the result that the case of Milton J. Berry, asserted healer, who is charged with treating the sick without a license, was postponed for two weeks.

When Berry's hearing was called in court today attorneys for the defendant protested continuance on the ground that Justice Morton's court had no jurisdiction over such a type of misdemeanor case. It was revealed that a Justice Court has jurisdiction over cases where the fine does not exceed $500.

The charge against Berry was sworn to by James Henry, Jr., South Pasadena millionaire, who declares Berry, professing to be a great doctor, contracted to cure him of infantile paralysis, and that he paid large sums for the cure, which was not forthcomnig.

SLOT MACHINE EARNINGS TOLD

Suit Reveals Huge Profits from Nickels

San Diegans Earn $24,000 in Year's Time

Devices Held Not Illegal Under City Law

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 26.—An insight into the huge profits accruing from nickel-in-the-slot machines was given today when Frank A. Frenken instituted suit against his former partner, L. M. Favorite, for an accounting of proceeds of the machines which are said to have been operated jointly by the two men.

Frenken said he and Favorite installed fifty-eight of the slot machines in various stores around the city more than a year ago, and that the machines showed a profit of about $2000 a month.

This profit was divided between the two, he said, until recently when, he declared, Favorite removed some of the partnership machines and installed slot devices owned exclusively by Favorite.

The original investment in machines, Frenken set forth, was $6000, and in the first year the profits were $24,000.

A temporary restraining order was issued in Superior Court today against Favorite, who must show cause on March 30 why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

Elimination of the slot machines has been attempted on a number of occasions by police authorities, but the police judge declined to take any action, asserting the machines are not gambling devices under the meaning of city ordinances now in effect.

VOLLMER AIDE IS FULLERTON CHIEF

SELECTION OF BERKELEY MAN MADE IN REORGANIZING DEPARTMENT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

FULLERTON, March 26.—The Board of Trustees last night accepted the report of the police committee recommending the appointment of O. W. Wilson as Chief of Police of this city. Wilson has been connected with the Berkeley police department as chief aide to August Vollmer, former Chief of the Los Angeles department. Wilson was given the post by a unanimous vote.

In recommending the appointment of Wilson, Trustee W. J. Carmichael, chairman of the police committee, said that when former Chief of Police Arthur Eells was dismissed from the force Chief Vollmer of Berkeley was asked to recommend a man to head the department here. He was asked to recommend a man capable of constructive policing of the city.

After several conferences with the Fullerton police committee the northern Chief recommended Wilson. In recommending him Vollmer said: "I can recommend Mr. Wilson as highly as it is possible for any human to recommend another."

Wilson has been on the Berkeley police force for the past four years, serving in every capacity. He is a motorcycle officer, a patrolman and a fingerprint expert.

In recommending the northern man for the post Trustee Carmichael said that he believed that the appointment would end the difficulties that Fullerton has had with the police department over a period of years. He said that Wilson would initiate a policy of creative and constructive policing.

For several years the police force has been a cause of dissension in the community.

With the arrival of the new Police Chief of April 1 it is expected that the department will be immediately reorganized and a program of constructive policing outlined for the officers. Whether there will be any change made in the personnel of the department is a matter for conjecture, with many of the business men inclining to the belief that some changes will be made.

LONG BEACH SECESSION BODY SPLIT

Arguments Reveal All is Not Harmony Behind Move of Bar Association

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, March 26.—Indications that all is not harmony in the ranks of the Long Beach Bar Association, on the question of "secession" of this city from Los Angeles county, and the setting up of a separate county government here, were seen here today, following action of the association in referring the matter to its board of trustees.

The association, which has been generally credited here with being the moving spirit behind the so-called Long Beach county plan, is not unitedly for it, it was revealed when arguments against the proposition were heard at a special meeting. The quesiton of whether a bill, creating a separate country, with Long Beach as the seat of government, shall be submitted to the State Legislature, was left to the trustees for decision, as a result of these arguments. Motion to act was offered by Attorney L. N. Whealton, former Mayor, who returned yesterday from Sacramento, where he had gone in the interests of the port district bill.

The attorneys who will make the decision are P. E. Keeler, Walter Desmond, former postmaster; Fred Knight, Stephen H. Underwood, C. C. McWhinney, and others. They will have power to act.

PAGEANT OF RAMONA TO BE LARGER

Greatest Attendance in History Anticipated and Prepared For

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HEMET, March 26.—With all indications pointing to an attendance of 15,000 people during the four days of the Ramona Pageant this year, the people of Hemet and San Jacinto are working zealously to make the third annual production the greatest event of its kind in all California's history. The dates are Saturday and Sunday, April 25 and 26, and Saturday and Sunday, May 2 and 3.

The pageant will be given on two week-ends this year because of the indication that the attendance could not be handled on one week-end as in the past.

Perhaps the most important announcement made by the pageant management is that a new road is being constructed into the Ramona Bowl, the natural amphitheater in which the world-famous Indian love story by Helen Hunt Jackson is reproduced. Patrons this year will not be compelled to make the long climb to the bowl.

The pageant will again be under the direction of Garnet Holme, known throughout the world as the man who has made California's history and romance live again in outdoor drama form.

More than 150 people will be in the cast this year, including some of the best-known dramatic artists of the Pacific Coast.

This pageant is being produced with the sanction of Virginia Calhoun, owner of exclusive dramatic rights on "Romona" with Little, Brown & Co., publishers of Boston.

Approximately 250 covers were laid. The affair followed a day's business session of the officers, during which problems of the club were discussed.

Thomas Robinson, president of the Santa Monica Club, presided at the dinner. Rev. William M. Matthes delivered the invocation and Mayor Steele of Santa Monica gave the address of welcome. Walter P. Warmbold was toastmaster.

The annual election of officers resulted in the selection of Dr. William B. Wells of Riverside as president and Joe Moore of Pasadena as secretary.

GLENDALE TO CARRY RATE FIGHT HIGHER

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, March 26.—The fight for lower fares over the Pacific Electric between Glendale and Los Angeles will be carried to the State Railroad Commission for a ruling following the decision of the City Council to retain Attorney Robert Young of Los Angeles to prepare the city's case and to present it to the commission.

Mr. Young, who was formerly City Attorney for Hollywood before its annexation, is said to have been responsible for securing a reduction of the rates between Los Angeles and Hollywood, and also between Inglewood and Los Angeles.

In his preparation of the legal phase of the case Mr. Young will be assisted by a rate expert who will compile the figures that are to be presented to the commission. Mr. Young was retained at a conference of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce transportation committee.

Two Angelenos Hurt in Ontario Auto Accident

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

ONTARIO, March 26.—Mrs. May Gingrey and Thomas W. Hamilton of 150 West Seventy-third street, Los Angeles, were suffering this evening from painful cuts and bruises, and Thomas Turner, who resides at the St. Charles Hotel, San Bernardino, was under arrest charged with reckless driving following an accident shortly before noon today at the intersection of A street and Archbald avenue, in which a truck driven by Turner almost demolished a motor sedan occupied by Mrs. Gingrey and Hamilton.

Turner was placed under arrest by State Traffic Officer George Carpenter, who arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after its occurrence. Turner, proceeding west with a large truck, hauling a trailer loaded with pipe, is said to have swung to the wrong side of the roadway and to have struck the sedan head-on, practically telescoping it. When arrested the truck driver asserted that the lighter machine had been moving east on the wrong side of the road and his effort to dodge it had resulted in the collision. Turner is slated to appear in the Police Court here April 2.

Mrs. Gingrey and Hamilton were picked up by a passing motorist and taken to the office of Dr. F. F. Abbott. Mrs. Gingrey suffered a deep cut on the throat and the lower lip and her right knee was painfully bruised. Mr. Hamilton received cuts about the face and sprains of the left knee and right wrist.

Janitor Held to Answer on Attack Charge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UPLAND, March 26. — Manuel Hernandez was this afternoon held to answer to the Superior Court following his preliminary examination in the Police Court before Judge Crane on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon on the person of Lino Colunga. Hernandez is employed as a janitor at the Pomona College Library Building in Claremont and Colunga works in the college grounds, it is said.

Judge Crane fixed Hernandez's bail at $500 and in lieu of that amount he was held in the City Jail.

According to Colunga's complaint, Hernandez first shot at him with an automatic revolver and missing his mark, proceeded to beat him over the head with the gun. Although several witnesses testified to having witnessed the gun play, Hernandez emphatically denied having been armed.

The altercation between the two men is said to have taken place just this side of the San Bernardino-Los Angeles county line between Upland and Claremont. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Thompson appeared to prosecute the case at this afternoon's hearing.

UNDERTAKER WINS ALL UNDERTAKINGS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, March 26.—That an undertaker can be successful in everything he undertakes was demonstrated today when Harry Beaver, local mortician, provided an ambulance and stretcher to bring to a Lions' Club meeting the only member needed to give his side, the "Navy," a 100 per cent rating in the eight-weeks' attendance contest now on between it and the Army under command of "Gen." Joe Barrett. The missing member was Chester Hardin of 411 East Kelso street, whose illness had prevented his attendance at several recent meetings. He gave his word to "Admiral" Beaver that he would be there, but final recourse to the ambulance was necessary and he was given three rousing cheers on his arrival. He promised to be there next time even if a hearse was the appropriate vehicle.

REDLANDS WINS OVER OREGONIANS

Debaters Defeat Willamette on Question of Supreme Court, 2-to-1 Score

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, March 26.—The championship debating team of the University of Redlands continued its winning streak in the first interstate debate of the season, defeating Willamette University of Salem, Or. by a 2-to-1 score.

Wayne Orton, '26, and Russell Andrus, '25, upheld the honors of the Maroon and Gray. They debated the affirmative of the Supreme Court question. This is the same question which they debated on last year's eastern trip. However, it was found a few hours before the debate that the question was stated differently from last year and considerable readjustment of arguments had to be done on the platform by the locals, since last year's question provided for re-enactment of legislation declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court by a majority vote, while last night's question called for re-enactment by a two-thirds vote.

The Oregon debaters were Charles Redding and Joel Berreman. They gave the locals one of the stiffest battles in which they had ever engaged. Both were fluent and convincing speakers and gave the Bulldogs plenty to worry about. Berreman was the star for the northern team in both speeches, and it was with great difficulty that his objections were cleared away.

SAN DIEGO MAYOR HAS HARMONY PLAN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 26.—Closer co-operation and more harmony between all departments of the city government will be sought by Mayor John Bacon, who today announced he plans to hold semimonthly conferences of department heads, the first meeting to be held following his inauguration May 4. Mayor Bacon was re-elected for a third term Tuesday, getting more votes than his four opponents combined. The conference will bring together the Chief of Police, fire chief, health officer, city audtior, harbor master, superintendent of parks, the city manager, secretary of civil service, and heads of the smaller departments, including the cemetary, library, etc. Members of the City Council, while not official members of the conference, will be invited to participate.

There will be no contests. The terms of office are Mrs. Anna C. Geck, president of the High School Board, and H. D. Turner, also of the board, expire with the last of April, and they will not again be candidates. Mrs. Edwin L. Camp and Ray Chesley will be elected to these two offices. There will be only one to elect on the City School Board. Fred A. McClung's term expires and he is the only candidate announced for this place.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 26.—Mrs. Mary Fitch, 85, succumbed today to burns received when her clothing caught fire as she was preparing food on a small gas stove at her home this morning. Neighbors summoned by the aged woman's screams, succeeded in extinguishing the flames, which enveloped Mrs. Fitch's body. The victim, suffering severly from burns and shock, died soon after she was taken to a hospital. Mrs. J. A. Reynolds, a neighbor, was badly burned about the hands while assisting Mrs. Fitch.

DOC E. DETRICH FOUND GUILTY

Slayer of Barber of Osdick is Convicted

Verdict on Circumstantial Evidence

Jury Unanimous on First Ballot Taken

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, March 26. Circumstantial evidence against Doc E. Detrich, miner and prospector, today sent the man accused of inflicting the knife wounds which caused the death of George Paslow, barber of Osdick, to the State penitentiary for the remainder of his natural life. A jury in Superior Judge Charles L. Allison's court today returned a verdict of guilty of first-degree murder against Detrich.

The jury was out slightly more than an hour. One ballot was all that was taken, it was reported after the jury had delivered its verdict to Judge Allison shortly after 11 o'clock this morning. The jurors retired for deliberation at 9:45 o'clock this morning.

The story of Detrich, told by him on the witness stand yesterday in a cool and deliberate manner, failed to impress the jurors. Detrich, the only witness in his own behalf, declared that he was not the assailant of Paslow, but was merely an innocent bystander at the attack and found himself enmeshed in the coils of the law because of his presence near the scene of the attack.

A woman, Detrich said, was the attacker of the Osdick barber. The silence of the desert country, which has been characteristic in the testimony of witnesses at the trial, kept Detrich from naming the myterious woman who attacked Paslow. The accused man said that the dim glow of light from the desert shacks of Osdick, cast upon the brawl which is said to have taken place in the center of the main street of the town, prevented him at the distance from which he witnessed the attack from identifying the woman he says attacked the barber.

The State accused Detrich of stabbing Paslow in a row. On his death bed Paslow identified Detrich as his attacker, this statement being introduced in evidence against Detrich.

City Water is Now Turned on in Lankershim

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LANKERSHIM, March 26.—The new city water is now piped all over the Lankershim district and in various places service is being furnished. Connections have been made with all the local systems and water is being turned on gradually.

The fire department has been notified that forty more fire hydrants have been made ready for service in different locations in the district.

Virtually all territory south of Central avenue on the west of Lankershim Boulevard has been piped. Water has been turned on on Central avenue.

No definite day has been set for the taking over of the local water systems that have been in use here. The proper negotiations are yet to be made.

It is announced that water consumers from now on will note a large decrease in their water bills under the municipal system, the charge heretofore having been $1.50 for 800 cubic feet. The city rate will scale much less than this, especially to large users of commercial water.

On some of the streets here water mains have not been laid because owners have not formally dedicated the streets to the city.

On Harmony Drive, one of the undedicated streets, is located the Lankershim Laundry. This plant will be without city water until the proper street dedication is made.

Sun-Maid Ads to Tell Story to Continent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, March 26. — Every city, town and hamlet in the United States and Canada will be told the story of the Sun-Maid raisin industry in the San Joaquin Valley during the week of April 27 to May 2, which has been designated as Raisin Week, it was announced by the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers of California today.

In connection with the annual raisin festival here April 30 every method of advertising consistent with approved publicity ideas will be used in spreading the story of the raisin. Thousands of grocers will have special window and counter displays, advertising space will be used with a lavish hand and special articles on cooking will be published and spread by use of radio under the plan now being prepared.

The plan for the observance of Raisin Week this year is more elaborate than any ever before attempted, the primary idea being to reach every potential consumer of raisins.

The membership now is more than at any previous time and by the time the campaign is over the total membership will be from 200 to 300 more as Ventura and Ojai have not yet completed their work.

Officer Who Hadn't Forgotten Pangs of Hunger Allows Youth Stealing Food to Escape

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, March 26.—"I've been hungry, myself, and besides, he's just a kid." This brief explanation, made by Police Sergeant J. P. Davidson accounts for the fact that a youthful burglar is not only alive but free today.

When Davidson discovered the youth eating ice cream at the counter of a restaurant at 24 Pier Place shortly before daylight this morning he knew that at last the burglar who had visited the place nightly after it was closed, to steal a meal, had been trapped. But the boy had locked himself in and there were two doors. Spying the officer, the lad ducked the beneath the counter and, while Dadvidson was endeavoring to passkey the front door, the boy escaped through the rear exit.

"I had the gun on him a dozen times while he was dodging and ducking in the restaurant, but I hated to shoot, because all the reports said that the only thing the kid ever took was food, and that he never touched money or anything else. So I didn't have the heart to shoot. And I guess that was the only way I could have gotten him, as there was no way for me to get help," Davidson said.

And so somewhere today there's a 17 or 18-year-old boy alive and out of jail because he stole only food to fill an empty stomach.

PASADENA PARTISANS WORK FAST

Mass Meetings Preliminary to City Election Follow Each Other Closely

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 26.—Mass meetings have been the order of events in Pasadena during the past few weeks as the city is preparing for its final municipal election when four new members of the Board of City Directors will be elected. Mass meeting after mass meeting is held by the followers of the various candidates and now with the election less than a week away, campaigning is becoming more heated.

The most popular indoor sport at present is for citizens to write letters supporting or opposing the candidates and their platforms and having them published in local papers. One man will write what he believes to be true and this is followed by an answer from another citizen who thinks different. This controversy of words keeps on until another pair break into the limelight.

The four present members of the Board of Directors who are seeking re-election are MacD. Snowball, Carl Thomas, Frank May and Fred Harris. They are opposed by four independent candidates, A. N. Cole, Franklin D. Cole, William Easterbrook and Carl S. Newcomer. The incumbents are supported by the Citizens' Protective Association, while the insurgents are supported by the Voters' Municipal League.

New Steamship Catalina to Go Into Service

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

AVALON, March 26.—The steamship Catalina will be placed in service to and from the island for the spring and summer season on Saturday, April 11. Heavy traffic is expected for that week-end on account of the Easter sunrise services to be held here Sunday morning, April 12.

The prospects are also good for a large volume of business to the island during the spring and summer, according to J. N. Stewart, traffic vice-president of the company.

The Catalina Marine Band will resume its nightly concerts in the Greek Amphitheater here on Saturday, June 20, continuing through to September 20.

The band will be under the leadership of George Mulford and the management of Charles H. Porter, the able sponsors who have managed and directed the band for over thirty years. It will consist of thirty-two pieces, the expense of it being borne entirely by the Santa Catalina Island Company for the benefit and enjoyment of sojourners at the island.

EL CENTRO MURDER CASE NEARING JURY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, March 26.—Arguments of attorneys in the trial of James Calhoun, charged with the murder of Gene Hudson, leader of El Centro's darktown factions, neared a close in Superior Court here this afternoon. The case which has attracted more than ordinary attention in the valley has occupied a greater part of the week and witnesses were called on from both city and county police offices as well as allenists from Los Angeles. Calhoun was said to have shot Hudson early in January at which time he escaped authorities and fled into Mexico, where he was arrested by Sheriff Gillett and Deputy Sheriff Oswalt.

DRIVERS OF DEATH CARS EXONERATED

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 26.—Both drivers who previously had accused each other of being responsible for the automobile accident on Colorado street which resulted in the death of H. H. Neals, 426 North Pasadena avenue, were exonerated at a Coroner's inquest in the Reynolds & Eberle undertaking parlors today. E. A. Black, 275 East Colorado street, driver of the car in which Mr. Beals was riding, and who disappeared after the accident, was arrested last evening and held by the police for the inquest today. M. A. Doss of Arcadia, driver of the other car, was also at the inquest. The jury's verdict was "unavoidable."

FIND MISSING BOYS VENDING NEWSPAPERS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

HUNTINGTON PARK, March 26.—After having disappeared from their home a week ago, two little brothers, Max Richard, aged 12 years, and E. W. Richards, aged 10 years, residing in the 2200 block of Fifty-eighth street, north of this city, have been returned to the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Richards. They were found by deputies from the Sheriff's office in the vicinity of Manchester and Vermont avenues, selling papers. The lads, when they left home, were, supposedly, on their way to school, and failing to return, the officers were notified after the parents had given up the search for the boys.

Valley Cities Plan to See Battleships

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, March 26. — All towns in San Fernando Valley are making plans to get up parties to visit the battleship fleet in Los Angeles Harbor.

The Van Nuys contingent, under the direction of George W. Bunton, secretary of the Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce, will leave here at 9 a.m. on April 2. From present indications it is believed there will be a crowd of 300 or 400, including business men and families, school children and a troop of Boy Scouts.

Arrangements are now being made to charter several pacific Electric cars to convey the party to the waterside. The Van Nuys cars will bear banners and other decorations and members of the party will be identified with arm badges bearing the name of the city.

A large party in chartered cars also is to leave Lankershim on April 2, linking on to the Van Nuys train as it passes through Lankershim.

In order that school children of both towns may be enabled to see the battleship fleet, a move is now on to declare a school holiday in both cities. In this event a large party of pupils and their teachers will increase the present reservations.

STARS, STORIES

KATHLYN WILLIAMS, OTHERS, CAST IN FILMS

By Grace Kingsley

The Lasky Studio is no place for a kid to wheel his little cart around in now-a-days. He'd be run over sure. Many are the preparations being made for the filming of big features. "The Wanderer" seems to have top place just as present in the list of set-building operations.

And while we are speaking of "The Wanderer," it is with pleasure that we announce that Kathlyn Williams is to have the role of the prodigal's mother, formerly played on the stage by Nance O'Neil, and considered next to the role of the prodigal himself, the biggest part in the picture.

While the name "Buster" may be all right for the common or garden variety of prodigal, it never would do as the moniker of a classic prodigal and, therefore, the Paramount people are going to see to it that Buster Collier, who plays the title role, is known by his right name, hereafter, viz., William Collier, Jr. Others who will have big parts are Greta Nissen, Ernest Torrence, Kathlyn Hill and Tyrone Power. Raoul Walsh, as everybody knows, is directing.

Douglas MacLean is another Paramount star who will soon start work. He has just returned from New York, and is considering several stories. He will work at the F.B.O. Studios as formerly. MacLean recently spent several weeks in Honolulu on vacation.

"The Pony Express," which is expected to be a fitting successor to "The Covered Wagon," what with James Cruze at the directorial helm and one thing and another, is still on paper, but will be transferred to the screen very soon. Henry Miles Forman, co-author with Walter Woods, conferred with Cruze and Woods on their recent trip east. Mr. Forman has since been doing research work on the subject at the Library of Congress in Washington, and left for Hollywood this week.

"'The Pony Express,'" said Jesse L. Lasky, "is one of the group of pictures which we planned to make that would tell in dramatic form the absorbing story of this country's growth. 'The Covered Wagon' told the story of the pioneers' trek across the prairies. 'The Pony Express' will depict the hardships, the trials and the victories of the man who maintained communication with the outposts of civilization, which these pioneers established in the Far West."

Betty Compson will have the feminine lead in the picture, while Ernest Torrence, Wallace Beery, Ricardo Cortez and Raymond Hatton will have the principal male roles.

Greta Nissen's talents aren't to be allowed to rust in any sort of metaphorical napkin, apparently. This young Norwegian player, besides being cast in "The Wanderer," also will have the principal feminine role in William De Mille's next picture, "Young Wives," adapted from Alfred Savior's play "Banco."

Miss Nissen has studied classical dancing all her life, and, after appearing in the New York production, of "The Beggar on Horseback," is quite fittingly cast as Tisha, the dancer, in "The Wanderer." She made her first appearance before a motion-picture camera less than two months ago, following her acceptance of a contract offered by Mr. Lasky.

Mary OConnor, head of the story department at the Lasky Studios, left yesterday for New York, where she is to have the pleasant task of shopping for plays to be turned into pictures by Paramount.

HUNT STROMBERG IS BUSILY PREPARING

Hunt Stromberg, that indefatigable young producer, is filling the Hollywood studio stages with his companies these days, owing to the fact that his contract with the Producers' Distributing Corporation calls for a tremendous increase in his production output this year. Yesterday he started another special production, while his two current productions are as yet not completed.

Under the direction of Tom Forman, the production of "Off the Highway," adapted to the screen by Dorothy Farnum from the popular novel "Tatterly," by Tom Gallen, went into the making on the same stage where Stromberg is personally directing "The Romance of an Actress."

Marguerite De la Motte and John Bowers, whose engagement to be married was announced upon their return from New York, have been signed to play the leads in "Off the Highway," which is to be a Stromberg special for Producers' Distributing release. William V. Mong, who will play the other featured role, has been under contract since February 1, as the producer believes that Mong is the ideal actor for this powerfully dramatic dual role. Others prominent in the cast are Buddy Post, Gene Corrado, Josef Swickard and Charles Gerrard.

Reports from the East indicate that Priscilla Dean's tour is the most successful ever made by a screen star, the demands for her appearances in various cities being so urgent that Stromberg has been practically forced to extend the star's time on tour. However, she will return in the near future to resume her starring contract with Stromberg.

In the meantime the producer has his hands full meeting his release schedules with his special productions and the Harry Carey westerns. "The Texas Trail," under the direction of Scott Dunlap, is Carey's current starring opus which Stromberg is personally supervising.

Zasu in "Pretty Ladies"

"Pretty Ladies," Monta Bell's current Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, is to have a highly interesting cast. Zasu Pitts and Tom Moore have been signed as the leads.

The story is practically a tale of "Follies," and was written by Adela Rogers St. John. Lilyan Tashman has an important role, and there are to be three charuses of beautiful girls.

Ruth Clifford Busy

Honeymooning is all very well, says Ruth Clifford, but somehow it is very nice to get back to work too. So Ruth has started on her first picture since her marriage to James A. Cornelius three months ago. But after all, the atmosphere will be familiar, for the story is one of the South Seas, where Miss Clifford spent her honeymoon.

Miss Clifford is playing the lead in the picture which Norman Dawn is directing, and which has as its background the Hawaiian Islands and the South Seas, whence members of the company have just returned.

Sam Taylor Solos

Sam Taylor, who for the last three years has directed the Harold Lloyd comedies in association with Fred Newmeyer, yesterday split up that connection by signing as sole director for the comedian's next picture, to be made for Paramount.

Marian Nixon Signs

For the next five years Marian Nixon is to be identified in featured roles in Universal pictures. She has just signed a contract for that length of time, according to announcement made yesterday by Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Laemmle thinks he has secured a great find in Miss Nixon, and declares he has some important plans for her.

Buys "Dark Angel"

Confirming a recent report from New York, Samuel Goldwyn yesterday telegraphed the definite information that he had purchased the screen rights to "The Dark Angel" for production by George Fitzmaurice and the additional news that Ronald Colman will play the leading role with Vilma Banky making her debut opposite Colman. Miss Banky is the talented young Hungarian actress Mr. Goldwyn recently brought from Budapest to appear in his productions.

Langdon Vacations

They have gone to the mountains, the seashore, resort hotels, and practically every other place imaginable to write up ideas for pictures, but it remained for Harry Langdon to hit upon a novel idea for a locale, wherein he, with his director and scenario chief, could map out plans for his next production while keeping absolutely away from all interruptions.

Immediately following the completion of "His First Flame," the story now in production, this triumvirate of comedy genius will embark on Mack Sennett's yacht for a cruise along the coast. They expect to return within a week or ten days with a completed continuity for Langdon's next picture, on which work will begin at once. Harry Edwards will direct, and Vernon Dent will again be seen in the role of Langdon's chief source of worry.

Newmeyer to Direct Syd Chaplin

Jack Warner and Bennie Ziedman completed arrangements yesterday whereby Fred Newmeyer will be loaned to Warner Brothers by the Harold Lloyd Corporation to direct Syd Chaplin in his first starring vehicle "The Man on the Box." Production on this is to be started within the next few weeks.

Newmeyer has been associated with Lloyd for the past ten years. He started with the comedian as an actor in the old "Lonesome Luke" days. Five years ago Lloyd selected him to direct his two-reel comedies. In association with Sam Taylor, he directed "Safety Last," "Why Worry," "Hot Water," "Girl Shy" and "Rah Rah Rah." Through his long years of training he is recognized as one of the best comedy directors in the business and a combination of he and Chaplin in the making of a picture is everything that could be expected. It is inevitable that a mirth riot will result.

"The Man on the Box" is an old stage play by Harold McGrath, replete with humorous plots and situations and just the right thing for Chaplin's debut under the Warner banner.

C. Francis "Chuck" Reisner adapted the story and Charles Logue is writing the scenario. The remainder of the cast will be announced in the next few days.

They Appear in "Too Many Kisses"

Frances Howard and Richard Dix

Miss Howard and Mr. Dix will be seen as the romantic leads in "Too Many Kisses," which opens at the Metropolitan tomorrow.

PONSELLE DELIGHTS

Songbird Hypnotizes Audience With Rich Voice

BY FRANCIS KENDIG

When reviewing a recital of Rosa Ponselle there is a great temptation to dig up a book of synonyms and look up the words beautiful, ravishing, glorious, spellbinding, etcetera, write down the whole list, and end up with "and this is Ponselle!" Because there is something about the glowing, fragrant voice of this soprano that makes one feel just that way.

There should be a parallel phrase about "speech is silver, silence is golden" coined especially for those who write, for occasionally no words at all seem to be infinitely more expressive than any words, no matter how adroitly, gracefully or even poetically they might be wedded. Can one describe the perfume of a summer rose? It is no more easy to describe the rich tones of this vibrant singer.

Unqualified praise is scarcely praise at all. And so I am not oblivious to such faults as may exist in Miss Ponselle's voice; in high passages I note the occasional suggestion of forcing the tone; again I cannot quite forgive the songbird for singing "Moon Deer," not because I do not like the song, but because it is not suited to Miss Ponselle or her voice. But these things are inconsequential.

Something about her voice as soft and rich as warm velvet or solf silk makes the appeal irresistible. Tonight I find analyzing her work particularly stupid and unattractive — it is impossible to shake off the spell of her tones, to coin phrases. A vocal student should surely do this for his own betterment, however, because there are any number of things about which one might comment; the phrasing, the flawless diction, the aristocratic style, the exquisite finish, the perfectly blended registers, the song for the sake of the song. These things I find to be particularly compelling.

Operatic offerings included arias from "Gioconda," "Traviata," and "Tosca." Florid work is taken with ease; the great charm is even stronger in such as Rimsky-Korsakov's "Nightingale and the Rose," a lullaby by Cyril Scott, and a jewel-like number by Reger.

One hesitates to say too much in favor of even so remarkable a singer as Ponselle, because sometimes those who have not previously heard her, upon doing so, are just a little disappointed. But I doubt if this could happen in the instance of this philomel of the footlights.

STEWART LECTURES ON CHURCH MUSIC

Tracing the historical development of music in the era of the Christian church, Alexander Stewart presented a lecture-recital on "Types of Church Music" Wednesday afternoon at the University of Southern California, the recital being given under the auspices of the Woman's Club of the university.

The musical illustrations were given by the solo quartet from the First Baptist Church, assisted by a string quartet from the College of Music of the University of Southern California. The personnel of the quartet is composed of Beulah Ellis, Marguerite Johnson, J. Malcolmson Huddy and Edward Adsit, and of the string quartet, Dorothy Cameron, Helen Mildred Auer and Marian Sischo.

The program was divided into three groups, the first group depicting early church music. The musical selections included a tenor solo, "Ave Maria" (Arcadelt,) sung by Mr. Huddy, and three quartet numbers, notable among them being "The Sleep of the Child Jesus" (Gevaert) and "Lo, How a Rose 'Ere Blooming (Michael Praetoriuss.)

Mr. Stewart explained how Bach, Mendelssohn and other great oratorio composers made use of the chorals which had become so important a part of the church music in Germany during the reformation period. A selection from Bach's Christmas Oratorio" was sung by the quartet, and "It is Enough" from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" by Mr. Adsit. The Italian influence was shown in the florid "Rejoice Greatly" from Handel's "Messiah," this number being sung by Miss Ellis, whose voice disclosed fullness and sweetness.

Cosmopolitan and modern types of church music comprised the third group, the quartet offering the lovely "Ave Verum" (Elgar,) and "Art Thou Weary" (by the American composer, George W. Chadwick.) Miss Johnson sang "God is My Shepherd" (Dvorak,) and achieved fine tonal effects in the duet, "Blessed Jesus" (Saint Saens,) which she sang with Miss Ellis.

SPONTANEITY MARKS DRAPER PORTRAYALS

Clever Character Sketches Charm Matinee Audience at Playhouse

One of the most unusual and distinctive programs of character sketches which Los Angeles has had the opportunity of hearing this season was that given by Ruth Draper yesterday afternoon at the Playhouse.

Miss Draper is probably one of the most delightful, as well as accomplished, artists of the monologue. This is her first appearance on the West Coast since she completed her recent engagement of twenty-two weeks in New York. Previously, she made an extended tour of Europe, where, according to reports, she was received with the same warm enthusiasm with which she was greeted here yesterday afternoon.

Miss Draper's bid for distinctiveness comes in her marked ability to people the stage with an entire set of characters. Yet she uses neither costumes, scenery or props, except for the effective use now and then of shawls, depending wholly on the inflections of her voice and the subject matter of her conversation.

Something in the extreme naturalness, the verve and the seeming spontaneity of her work contained that infectious quality which spread like wildfire through the large audience. It required only a word or two from her and her listeners were transported into the habitat of her characterizations.

Miss Draper's impersonations covered a wide range, including a passionate Balkan peasant, a French modiste, a New England "granny" and a lunch-counter waitress. Perhaps the most popular of her presentations was "The Children's Party in Philadelphia." The gabbling, gossiping mother was just genuine enough to bring a continual series of reminiscent chuckles from her audience.

Her other numbers were "The French Dressmaker," "A Quiet Morning in Bed," "Three Generations on the Court of Domestic Relations," "On the Porch in a Maine Coast Town," "A Class in Greek Poise," "A Southern Girl Visits the North," "Love in the Balkans," and "In a Railway Station on the Western Plains."

THEY'LL ALL BE THERE

Criterion Theater to Give Special Matinee Today for Players

Today's matinee of the new "Quo Vadis," at the Criterion Theater will be a scintillating affair from an audience standpoint as well as the feature on the screen, for Managing Director Harold Horne has designated it "Legitimate Theater Matinee Day" and all the stars and featured players of the Playhouse, Majestic, Mason, Morosco and Orpheum will be on hand to view the great spectacle.

Among those who will be present are Dulcie Cooper, Edward Everett Horton, Tom Chatterton, Olaf Hytten and other popular players from the Majestic; Ted Lewis, the high-hatted king of jazz, and the other notable acts now at the Orpheum; from the cast of "The Dark Angel," at the Playhouse, and "No, No, Nanette," at the Mason, will come Toylar Holmes, Nancy Wellford, Marie Wells, Tyler Brooke, Angie Norton, Derek Glynne, Mia Marvin, Dorothy Whitmore, Robert Ames, Marion Coakley, Joseph Kilgour, Lawrence Grant, Myrtle Vane, Claire Du Brey and Marvel Cullen Landis.

FEDERATION CONTEST TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The California State Federation of Music Clubs will hold its local prebiennial "young professional artists' contest" tomorrow at Chickering Hall from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., nineteen artists, ranging in age from 18 to 30 years, having registered for the contest from all parts of Southern California.

As previous contests, inaugurated by the national federation through State federations, have produced star talent now famous in opera and lyceum, it is hoped another luminary may be developed in Los Angeles on a par with Katherine Meisle, the Chicago opera star, who won the contest in Los Angeles in 1915.

Under supervision of the national organization, Mrs. Edward Place is State chairman, and Mrs. W. V. Goodfellow of this city, assistant chairman, who is personally in charge of the local contest. According to regulations awards will be made to one male and one female vocalist and one pianist, either sex. The winners will then be eligible for the State contest in San Francisco, the district meeting later and the final at the biennial in Portland, June 6 to 13.

Under restrictions of the federation, the judges and contestants are never named until the close of the competition, but Mrs. Goodfellow states that many of the contestants have already achieved local distinction and the judges are American composers and musicians of renown. The public will be admitted to this contest, which for pianists will open at 11 a.m. and for vocalists, 1 to 5:30 p.m.

MACLOON GOES EAST ON IMPORTANT MISSION

With "The Dark Angel" looking decidedly like a real hit at the Playhouse, and the long lines at the Mason Operahouse where "No No, Nanette" is holding forth, never breaking, Louis O. Macloon has decided it is a good time to hike for Broadway, and leaves today on a short trip to New York City.

His mission is the completion of negotiations that have been going on for some months for a big New York musical comedy hit to follow "No No, Nanette" at the Mason, Mr. Macloon simply has an eye to the remote future in completing these arrangements, as "No No, Nanette" is undoubtedly destined to break all long-run records in Los Angeles, and it will probably be months before the opening of a new show.

George Cunningham, who staged the dances in "No No, Nanette," will accompany Mr. Macloon on his eastern trip to see the New York shows.

WIFE TO FIGHT LOVE CHARGES

Brands Story of Misconduct With Indian False

Millionaire Sportsman Names Hopi Guide in Suit

Mrs. Ida May Hendricks to Resist Divorce Action

Vehement denials to divorce suit charges that Mrs. Ida May Hendricks, wife of a multi-millionaire New York and Los Angeles sportsman, had been intimate with a Hopi Indian guide near Los Angeles, were voiced here last night by Mrs. Hendricks, through her attorney, O. A. Gerth.

"These charges are a mass of falsehoods," Attorney Gerth declared. "There will be an entirely different story to relate before this action has been settled in the courts."

The divorce action caused a distinct sensation, both in New York, where it was filed yesterday, and in Los Angeles, where Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks have resided at times with their 4-year-old daughter.

Joe Secakuka, Hopi Indian guide and newsstand clerk, was named corespondent. The charges are similar to those which featured the sensational Stillman case. Mrs. Hendricks is accused of undue familiarity with Secakuka, on diverse occasions, some of them being, according to the complaint, in the Grand Canyon, Colo.; near Redlands on an automobile highway; at Williams, Ariz., and Flagstaff, Ariz., and at and near Riverside and San Bernardino.

According to Attorney Gerth, each and all of the allegations are untrue.

ACTION IS REVEALED

The filing of the action was revealed yesterday when Hendricks, a young man under 30 years of age, who recently inherited his father's fortune, was granted permission by Justice Leander B. Faber in the Supreme Court at Brooklyn, to serve notice of the suit on his wife by publication. It was represented to the court that efforts to find Mrs. Hendricks for personal service of the papers in the case had been unavailing, as she could not be found. Attorney Gerth said he did not know just where she is at the present time, but believes she is somewhere near Los Angeles.

Hendricks, according to dispatches from New York, refused to discuss the case further than the charges covered in the complaint. According to close friends of the family in Los Angeles, his reticence was due to the shock of the revelations recently made to him regarding his wife.

James B. Elliott, boyhood chum of the youthful millionaire, was at his side in the Roosevelt Hotel in the eastern metropolis last night, attempting to comfort him, Elliott's mother said. "He was weeks making up his mind to file the suit," Mrs. Elliott stated. "He had had implicit confidence in Mrs. Hendricks and when rumors reached him of this Indian and his wife, he was so certain of her loyalty and devotion to him that detectives were hired to disprove the statements made against her.

BROKEN MAN

"Instead of disproving them, the detectives found conditions worse than the reports that had been made to Mr. Hendricks. The shock completely unnerved Mr. Hendricks. He is a broken man. He asked my son to come to him to comfort him. Before leaving, Mr. Elliott made an affidavit to the effect that Mrs. Hendricks had told him, as recently as the first week of this month, that 'California had got under her skin' and she never wanted to go back to her husband."

The asserted intimacies with the Indian took place shortly after the return of Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks from a European tour. Husband and wife came west together, Mrs. Elliott said, as far as the Grand Canyon, Hendricks later coming on to Los Angeles, leaving Mrs. Hendricks and the girl in the Grand Canyon.

Following the asserted denouement, the divorce complaint recites that Hendricks caused the arrest of his wife and the Indian at Riverside on October 9, 1924. The charge filed against him at that time, according to the divorce bill, was violation of the Mann Act. Riverside police, however, declared last night that no charges were filed. It was said that Mrs. Hendricks and Secakuka were found together at the Riverside Fair, after Hendricks had requested their arrest. The two were interrogated, but police said no action was taken.

RIVERSIDE EPISODE

Mrs. Hendricks told police at the time, they said, that Secakuka had come to California from Arizona in her employ and throughout the entire period in which their relations were those of employer and employee that they stayed at different hotels. Police also said that Mrs. Hendricks later lost track of the Indian and appealed to Riverside officials to help locate him so she could discharge an obligation to him. He could not be found, they reported.

Riverside authorities said that Mrs. Hendricks and the Hopi were detained at the station until evening, when Hendricks and an attorney arrived. They had a long talk, it was said, and then Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks departed together. Inasmuch as police said no action had been taken upon which an official report could be based, none was made and the date of the occurrence did not show on the records.

The complaint recites that Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks were married in Kenmore, N.Y., March 27, 1920.

PRIZE DANCES

A new "photographic" series of prize dances will be held at the Hollywood Montmartre Cafe by Eddie Brandstatter, starting this evening. There will be six dances in the series, held every Friday evening, at the end of which the winning couple will receive an order for photographs by Witzel. The winners of the grand prize will be awarded an order for more costly photos. Chevalier Du Brac, Parisian dancer, assisted by Peggy Brown, has been secured by Brandstatter as an added feature for Friday evening.

Officials of University Publications in Session to Organize Against Misuse of Humor

Solemnly and with formality editors and business managers of several western college and university comic publications are meeting at Bovard Auditorium to organize against the misuse of the humor promulgated in their periodicals.

For once all humor is aside. Grim determination to cleanse their columns of off-color tid-bits marks the deliberate attitude apparent, all because—one editor confided—the faculties have taken the offensive against spicy items.

It is their plan to organize the Western Association of College Comics, adopt a constitution and by-laws and elect a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and two members-at-large to serve with the officers on a board of directors.

Those attending the conference, which opened Wednesday morning and closes this morning with the selection of executives, are Dean R. Avery, editor of the University of California Pelican; Laurence A. Dunn, business manager of the Colorado Dodo, University of Colorado; Arthur Duncombe, business manager of the Stanford Chaparral; Arnold Tschudy, manager of the University of California Pelican; Leonard Sonnemann and Bay Robinson of the Pomona Sagehen, Pomona College; Grady Setzler, editor of the Southern California Wampus; George Orme, business manager of the same magazine; W. H. Keyser of College Humor, and John R. Burr, representing the Collegiate Special Advertising Agency.

There are other matters to be considered in the organization of the Western Association of College Comics and they are, as set forth in the preamble of the constitution and by-laws:

"For the purpose of promoting the general welfare of college comic magazines; of developing the closest harmony and co-operation among them; of regulating advertising in order to promote a better spirit of co-operation between the advertiser and the college comics."

With the election of officers and completion of remaining business before the conference this morning it is the plan of the new association to extend invitations of membership to the University of Washington, Whitman College, Willamette College, University of Oregon, Oregon Agricultural College, University of Nevada, University of Utah and University of Denver; in fact, excluding a participating offer to no western college or university that publishes a humorous periodical.

The western association eventually is to be a unit of a national organization.

FETE TO OPEN BOULEVARD

Parade Tomorrow on Western From Hollywood to San Pedro to End in Tour of Harbor

Western avenue will be opened as a boulevard from Hollywood to the sea with a parade which will start from Western avenue and Los Feliz Boulevard at 10 a.m. tomorrow. San Pedro is making preparations to welcome the paraders hospitably, with ceremonies and a free trip around the harbor. The Southwest Realty Board, the Woman's City Club and the Greater Citizens' Publicity Committee of the harbor region are handling the arrangements.

The Southwest Realty Board has named marshals to take charge of the parade at points north of Hollywood Boulevard, through its caravan committee, of which C. W. Clegg is chairman and B. H. Spalding vice-chairman. Cars from communities to the south will assemble just north of Torrance to join the parade.

The last stretch of Western avenue, from the Redondo-Wilmington Boulevard at the end of Narbonne street, Lomita, into San Pedro, is now paved with rock and in excellent shape for automobiles, according to Miller McClintock, traffic expert of the Traffic Commission. Mr. McClintock reports, it was said, that the street can carry 1500 automobiles an hour, single file, in one-way traffice under police supervision.

Two boats with a capacity of 200 passengers each have been provided for the harbor trip. Each boat will have a lecturer. The trips will start immediately after the San Pedro ceremonies.

The Greater Citizens' Committee is made up as follows: William H. Savage, chairman executive committee; Rev. Thomas Grice, chairman civic ceremonies committee; H. E. Van Norman, honorary chairman program committee; C. D. Mansfield, chairman program committee; Clarence Snethen, chairman and Hugh Pomeroy, honorary chairman civic bodies committee; James H. Dodson, Jr., vice-chairman civic bodies committee; B. H. Spalding, chairman regional publicity committee; Carl L. Hyde, vice-chairman regional publicity committee; H. E. Nightingale, president Southwest Realty Board caravan committee; Mrs. Charles H. Toll, honorary chairman, and Mrs. C. J. Colden, chairman, community co-operation committee; Charles Freeman Johnson, secretary and director of publicity.

Collector Will Be Back Today From Kidnaping

Rex B. Goodcell, Collector of Internal Revenue, returns to his office in the Federal Building today after an enforced visit in San Francisco, according to a telegram received yesterday by Deputy Collector Elliott Kelly. Collector Goodcell went to San Francisco Wednesday when members of the Downtown Association of the northern city locked him in a drawing-room of the special train on which they were returning from a good-will trip in Mexico.

"The joke is on me," Collector Goodcell wired. "Company is most agreeable and I will enjoy spending a day in San Francisco."

Mrs. Goodcell received a telegram early yesterday morning from her husband just as she was about to notify the police that Collector Goodcell had disappeared. Mr. Goodcell wired her that he would have been home at the usual time Wednesday had it not been that the San Francisco excursion party decided to "kidnap" him.

TANGLED OIL SUIT STARTS TO UNRAVEL

Trio in Contempt Case from Orange Court Are Denied Mandate

Complicated litigation involving profits made on an oil well of the Pacific Corporation in Orange county started to untangle yesterday when the Appellate Court here gave authority to Orange county Superior Court to continue with contempt proceedings against several of the litigants.

Justice Works of the Second District Court of Appeal, in a lengthy decision made necessary by the ramifications of the case, denied Howard Murche, James W. Clune and Roland G. Swaffield a writ of prohibition with which they sought to restrain the Orange county court from taking action against them for being in contempt.

Yesterday's decision partially unravels the proceedings originally started by about 150 unit holders of the company, who filed complaints against the Pacific Corporation for asserted profits made which they did not receive. A receiver, Ben E. Tarver, was appointed by the Orange county court to take charge of the matter.

Other litigants then started an unlawful-detainer action in Los Angeles Superior Court which involved the real property on which the well is located. James M. Clune was appointed receiver in this matter. Clune and the others who sought the writ yesterday are asserted to have forcibly ejected Receiver Tarver from the oil-well premises and, as a result, were cited in contempt of Orange county Superior Court.

WIFE COMPLAINS OF HUSBAND'S COERCION

Blanche Sabin yesterday filed suit for divorce against Joe Sabin, in which she charged that her husband had sought at the point of a gun to force her to a confession of intimacy with Walter McDonald, when he himself was frequently going out with Mrs. McDonald, taking her to the beaches and returning home at all hours of the morning.

Her husband resorted to gun play, she said, last Tuesday in the presence of McDonald. He told her he would kill her unless she confessed being intimate with McDonald, she said. When she denied the charge he struck her on the head with the butt of the gun. He has been on intimate terms with Mrs. McDonald since last November, she declared.

HOSPITAL'S ARCHITECTS ARE CHOSEN

Soldier Home Managers Decide to Have Federal Men Draw Plans

On the third day of its sitting at Sawtelle, the national board of managers of the Soldiers' Home yesterday disposed of the question of an architect for the new hospital by asking that the plans be prepared in the office of the government supervising architect.

Col. James A. Mattison, surgeon of the local home, has orders to proceed at once to Washington for consultation with that official in preparation of the plans. He will leave for the East next week in company with Col. Roy L. Marston and Col. C. W. Wadsworth, who remain here for a few days to visit friends. The other members of the party will go East tomorrow afternoon.

Much time was devoted to the discussion of the hospital, as the building alone will cost not less than $1,200,000, and the board is desirous of getting the best that science can provide.

Gen. George H. Wood, president of the board, said the interest of the people of Los Angeles was not to be overlooked.

"I wish on behalf of this board to express our gratitude to Congressman John D. Fredericks for his invaluable services in securing for us the appropriation for this hospital," he said. "If it had not been for him we could not by any means have succeeded in this great undertaking for the Sawtelle Home. We also desire to express our appreciation to the citizens of Los Angeles, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and other organizations which so splendidly supported his efforts in our behalf."

A large delegation from the Sawtelle Chamber of Commerce appeared and asked that the city be granted a right of way over a forty-foot strip of ground along the west line of the reservation, to complete the opening of One Hundred and Ninth avenue to a width of eighty feet from Pico street to Beverly Boulevard. As the reservations in the deed may interfere, the matter was taken under advisement until a copy of the document is secured.

Unique Wall Decoration is Made From Fur

A unique wall decoration, made entirely out of fine furs, has just been completed by Julius Meyhoefer of 3566 South Vermont avenue after three months of constant labor.

The entire piece, one and one-half yards square with a gold-fringe border, was made principally by hand. In it are included the finest obtainable Alaska seal, black beaver, mink and otter, fur both plucked and unplucked.

Mr. Meyhoefer is an expert fur worker and the piece he has produced is declared by experts to be one of the finest of the kind ever shown.

Work Started on New District Phone Building

Work on the Southern California Telephone Company's eleventh new switching building in the Los Angeles exchange was started yesterday. Located in the district now served by Garfield office, the new plant will take care of the increasing telephone needs of Highland Park and adjacent territory. The property is situated at Avenue 56 and Meridian street and the project will mean an investment of $575,000, according to H. C. Lauderback, commercial superintendent of the company.

It is planned to provide for 20,000 more telephones in the district in the next several years, Mr. Lauderback announced, and the equipment to be installed in the new structure will care for 5000 instruments and will cost $340,000.

The building will be of concrete and steel construction, class A, and will originally be three stories in height. The property is 150x126 feet.

ORATORY TESTS ON FOR TONIGHT

Schools' Champions in Five Districts to Compete

Local Contests Second Step in Eliminations

Next Group Competitions Set for Monday Evening

After nearly two months of preparation, the first real battles in the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution in Southern California will take place this evening, when champions of the schools in five districts will meet to decide which school has the best orator.

The districts, the places where the meets will be held and the schools taking part in each, are as follows:

District No. 4, Orange county, will conduct its contest at Anaheim, the orators representing the schools of Huntington Beach, Fullerton, Orange Union, Santa Ana, Tustin and Anaheim.

District No. 5, Imperial county, will meet at Imperial, with orators representing the schools of Brawley, Calipatria, El Centro, Holtville and Imperial Valley.

District No. 10, Inyo county, will meet at Bishop, the orators representing the schools of Big Pine, Bishop, Owens Valley and Lone Pine.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY

District No. 22, part of Los Angeles county, will meet at Covina, with orators representing the schools of Covina, El Monte and Monrovia.

District No. 15, also part of Los Angeles county, will meet at Santa Monica, with orators representing the schools of Venice and Santa Monica.

These five contests are the first of the district meets, which constitute the second step in the long process of elimination to determine on a representative from this territory at the Washington grand finals. It will be the first time the contestants have been pitted against opponents outside of their respective schools. The representative of each institution has been determined by oratorical tests conducted by the teachers, with all the pupils writing orations in that school taking part.

NEXT MEETING

There are thirty-six districts in the Southern California territory, and the next group of district meets is scheduled for Monday night. The largest number of district contests will take place on the evening of April 3, next, when all districts remaining after the meets tonight and Monday night will conduct their contests.

The district meets are attracting wide attention in their respective communities. In many places they will be made patriotic events, with elaborate programs in which the leading citizens of the community will take part. The high regard in which the contest is held in the different districts is evidenced by the fact the judges at each district event include most prominent citizens of the community.

LOCAL POST GIVEN FLAG BY LEAGUE

Organization of County Employees Makes Gift to Veterans

Stirring memories of World War days were recalled at the Courthouse yesterday when more than 100 members of the Los Angeles County Employees' Patriotic League gathered at the entrance of the building to witness the presentation of the flag used by the league at its meetings during the war to Post No. 1, Disabled Veterans of the World War.

The presentation was preceded by an impressive ceremony conducted by Mrs. Maude Dickens Womersley, first-vice president of the league, who led the assembled members in singing "America," "The Star Spangled Banner," and "Over There," as they were sung at the daily mass meetings of the organization during the war.

Paying a glowing tribute to the "boys," Mrs. Womersley then presented the flag to the veterans' delegates through Miss Veta L'Ehmann, known as "Miss Los Angeles," who, in turn gave the banner into the custody of William W. Brown, commander of the war veterans' post. Others who took an active part in the presentation were Buron Fitts, representing the American Legion; Mrs. Edith Wiley Nedderman, an official of the league, and Maj. John Darrah and Benjamin Walker of the veterans' post.

Signature on Will Illegible; Halts Probate

The signature on the document offered as the will of Antonio Corsi, widely-known artists' model, was so illegible that Judge Willis yesterday took under advisement the contest petition for its probate, although a statement was made in court that a settlement had been agreed upon by both sides to the controversy.

The will was offered for probate by Miss Vern Nye, screen actress, to whom Corsi's entire $10,000 estate was equeathed by its terms. She was referred to in the document as "my faithful friend." It was explained in the will that no bequests had been made to Corsi's three sons as Miss Nye had been instructed as to what their father wished done for them. Albert Corsi of New York, one of the sons, filed the contest.

The signature on the document was a scrawl, hardly recognizable as a signature, Judge Willis pointed out. The contestant contended that the will was offered for signature when Corsi was so ill as to be unable to recognize those about him.

"BALD-FACED KID" ESCAPES

Prisoner Mingles With Spectators Leaving Court Room; Said to Have 100 Aliases

"The Bald-Faced Kid" lived up to his almost legendary reputation for getting out of tight scrapes yesterday when he slipped from a group of prisoners leaving Police Judge Pope's court and disappeared.

The Kid, who was booked as John Stone, but who is declared by police to have used a hundred aliases and to have served five prison terms for picking pockets, had been taken to Judge Pope's court to answer a charge of vagrancy, due to the collapse of a charge under which he was thought to have been wanted in Fort Wort, Tex. He pleaded not guilty to the vagrancy charge and the date for his trial was set for next Tuesday.

With several other prisoners, The Kid walked down the stairs in the custody of bailiffs. In some way, exactly how, no one seems to know, he slipped from the line and mingled with spectators. His absence was discovered when the bailiffs counted the prisoners at the jail.

The Kid and three others were picked up Monday at Santa Barbara and Vermont avenues by Detective Lieutenants Trainor and Bligh as suspected pickpockets. An automobile bearing a Kansas City license in which they were riding was held pending advices from the Missouri city.

Investigation of The Kid's record, the officers said, showed that he was wanted in Fort Worth for an offense said to have been committed in 1923. But when Fort Worth authorities were notified they stated The Kid was not wanted.

SLAYER ACTS DEATH DRAMA

Dance Hall Girl Took All His Money, Then Flouted His Love, Filipino Relates

Dominga Villa, youthful Filipino sailor charged with the murder of Emma Hanmore, dance-hall siren, told a broken and starkly-tragic story in his own defense yesterday in Judge Hahn's department of the Superior Court.

He described his agony when he discovered that the woman on whom he had lavished everything he owned had been unfaithful. After taking the last of his funds she flouted him and attempted to send him away with a jazzy love tune ringing in his ears, he related.

JUST FOOLED HIM

"She broke me," he said, groping for every word. "I love her, I give my life for her but she just fool me and then say bah, she no want me."

Repeatedly, in the earnestness of his recital, the accused murderer left the witness stand to act out the drama which preceded the shooting. He was cautioned again and again to retake his seat on the witness stand but each time seemed to forget himself, rise to his feet and act out his words.

He met the woman in a Main-street dance hall, he said, and she encouraged his affections.

"I loved her like a crazy man," he declared.

On the day of the shooting, he said, he came to her apartment and gave her money. In the apartment, he said, he saw the clothing of another man and demanded an explanation.

SINGS LOVE SONG

She put him off, he testified, and he induced her to accompany him to the dance hall in the evening. They returned to his room in a hotel, he said, and there she finally told him she did not want him after obtaining the rest of the money he had with him.

"She sang for me a love song then," he stated, "and laughed at me. I went mad."

At this point the afternoon recess of court was taken and the Filipino will end his story today. The case is being prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Davis and Dennison.

It is charged by the prosecution that the Filipino killed the woman in a jealous frenzy. He attempted to end his own life with a bullet after the killing but recovered.

DOGS CLEW TO HOLD-UPS

Japanese Victims of Robberies Identify Animals as Pair Seen with Bandit Suspect

Two dogs, said to have been constant companions of Juan Campos yesterday served, according to Deputy Sheriffs Neighbors and Monteleone, to identify positively Campos as the daring "Bandini Road" bandit who for several months preyed on Japanese vegetable growers.

The canines, a black and a brown mottled one, according to the victims, accompanied the bandit when he held up and robbed the vegetable merchants. The animals did not take an active part in the robberies, the deputies were told, but were a moral aid on account of their ferocious appearance and apparent devotion to their master.

When Campos was taken before the Japanese they said they were sure he was the one who held them up. And when the dogs were produced, the deputies said, the victims declared they were positive Campos was the bandit.

Campos is held in the County Jail on suspicion of robbery and a complaint probably will be issued against him today. The dogs are at liberty and probably will not be involved further in the case, although they are said to be howling mournfully over their master's absence.

According to the deputies, Campos was arrested as the suspected bandit Tuesday but convinced them he was a hard-working laborer. A check-up of the references he gave caused his second arrest, they said.

The victims who identified Campos yesterday were K. Naladami, S. Okada, K. M. Iwata, N. Kayana and I. Hatanaka, who were robbed of sums ranging from 80 cents to $15 between November 14, 1924 and last Sunday.

PAGEANT OF ELECTRICITY FOR SHRINE

Plans Are Completed by Engineers for Display at Convention

Harry D. Brown and Frank N. Murphy, electrical engineers in charge of the motion-picture electrical pageant to feature Shrine week, yesterday announced the completion of plans by which the visiting Shriners will witness the most pretentious electrical display ever attempted.

Given free rein to carry out their own ideas by Motley H. Flint, upon whose shoulders largely rest responsibility for the event, and Joseph M. Schenck, grand marshal of the parade, Brown and Murphy have worked out a display of spectacular beauty and scientific interest.

Backed by the studios in the motion-picture industry's general desire to contribute to the entertainment of the thousands who will visit Los Angeles Shrine week, the engineers have designed the electrical features of more than sixty elaborate floats.

These floats will assemble as a glittering armada at a downtown point and move toward Hollywood. There, they will encircle the Bowl, having passed before hundreds of thousands as a spectacular advertisement of Los Angeles and the motion-picture industry.

Wife Spanking So Out of Date She Gets Divorce

Spanking, as a corrective measure for wifely misconduct, is as out-of-date as a snuff box, Judge Gates ruled yesterday, after browsing about for several days among the leather-backed tomes that line his chambers.

The particular spanking under consideration was the one that William Herbert Sparling administered to Ruby D. Sparling. She charged him with it and he admitted it, declaring that she had been disorderly and needed it. Judge Gates took Mrs. Sparling's plea for divorce under submission, and yesterday awarded her a decree.

"Despite the fact that the old English law gave the husband the same right to chastise his wife as to whip his children, we must recognize that times do change. The day is long past when a man may claim justification for spanking his wife, even if she be drunk. Decree granted."

Fireworks and flowers marked the festivities celebrating the opening of the new temporary headquarters of the Commercial Club of Southern California yesterday in the Biltmore Hotel Arcade.

Miss Agnes Godde, secretary to J. Ward Cohen, the club organizer, took advantage of the occasion and signed up C. H. "Buy Something" Talbot of the Biltmore men's shop, as the first life member of the new business club, taken in by the club since occupying its new home.

After Mr. Talbot had placed his name on the dotted line, the remainder of the day was spent by Mr. Cohen in receiving flowers, visitors and congratulations over the club's progress.

COUNCIL IN MOVE TO GUARD HOTEL SILVER

The City Attorney was instructed by the City Council yesterday to prepare an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to buy silverware stamped with the name of a hotel or restaurant. The legislation is designed to prevent the operation of fences who handle silverware stolen or lost from hotel restaurants by being carried out in the garbage and often recovered on the city dumps.

LOVE DUEL WRECKS THREE LIVES

Suitor Wins Girl's Love, But Loses Life; Other Wins Fight But Loses as Police Seek Him as Murderer; Girl Wins Heart But Loses Lover in Quarrel for Her Favor

Raindrops, beating time with the sobs of the girl who was speaking, pelted against the steel-barred windows of the City Jail yesterday as Maria Arellano shed a requiem of tears for the departed sunshine of her own life. Through an interpreter Senorita Arellano told of the sunshine that Odilon Silva had brought to her with his love. Maria still loves, but vainly. The heart of the man who won her lies still on an undertaker's slab.

The story is as old as the world itself but was served up to police Wednesday night with a strangely quixotic garnish.

Until New Year's night, Basilio Quintana had had no competition for the favor of Senorita Arellano. Into the lists of love came striding the unknown but handsome, entertaining and dominant Silva. Maria smiled upon him. As far as her heart was concerned, Silva had jousted victoriously. Quintana had been lanced without a struggle. But his wound rankled while he girded himself with new armor.

Wednesday night, he was ready for the fray. He challenged Silva as the latter accompanied his lady fair to the tournament, the tournament in this day and age being a motion picture theater near First and Gillespie streets. Silva accepted the challenge. They told her they would fight it out alone. To the winner belonged the unshared affection.

Maria protested. "Please don't fight," she begged. "It is useless. I can love but one of you and that one is chosen."

The modern gladiators smiled at her; one admiringly, one with ill-concealed hatred. Senorita Arellano turned her face and walked away. A few moments later she heard two shots. She screamed and turned around. A stumbling figure fell into her arms, blood streaming from two wounds. As she stood in horror, the figure slipped to the street, lifeless. Maria looked. It was Silva. He had won but lost in the winning.

That's the story as it came from Maria's interpreter. But when she went to jail as a material witness, the story started police in a search for Quintana. He had won, but in the winning, he lost.

As for Senorita Arellano, she had won a heart. But by winning, she lost it.

MRS. ROSS IS CALLED BY DEATH

Widow of Rosslyn Hotel Founder Succumbs After Short Illness

Mrs. Abner L. Ross, 80 years of age, widow of the late Abner L. Ross, founder of the Rosslyn Hotel in 1898 and formerly a real estate operator in Los Angeles, died yesterday afternoon of heart disease at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Ross, 2273 Holly Drive. Mrs. Ross had been active up until three days before her death, when she complained of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the funeral parlors of the Pierce Brothers Undertaking Company, 720 West Washington.

Mrs. Ross was born in Wheeling, W. Va., and was reared in Baltimore, Md. Her daughter is noted for her musical numbers in the Pilgrimage play and a world famous song "Dawn and the Desert."

Tony, Mix's Cow Pony, Starts on Trip to Europe

On the first lap of a journey that is to take him to Europe and back, Tony, Tom Mix's cow pony, yesterday started for New York, accompanied by a special attendant and a horse valet. With Tony also were two specially made trunks, containing his wardrobe—blankets of many colors, surcingles and other horse impedimenta.

Tony departed via the Union Pacific with New York City as his first important stop. There he will be a guest in the sheds of Gotham's mounted police. April 8 on the Aquitania, Tony leaves for Europe. In London, the Mix pony will be quartered in the stables of the Prince of Wales. Similar honors await him in Spain.

Before leaving, the Behrendt-Levy Co., insurance agents, placed a policy on Tony written by Lloyds of London for $50,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Mix will entrain tomorrow reaching New York in time to accompany Tony on his first European jaunt.

Hamilton Style Revue Features Oumansky Fete

With Peggy Hamilton's feature fashion revue as the headline attraction, an exceptional program was enjoyed by leaders in the world of society and the arts at the welcome-home reception last night in the Friday Morning clubhouse in honor of Alexander Oumansky, ballet master, who has just returned from successes in New York and abroad to open his own school of dancing in Los Angeles.

The appearance of Oumansky himself in the character of the famed Pierrot, with the assistance of Clarice Ganon, presenting Kreisler's delightful "Caprice," proved a charming feature of the program. Oumansky's ballet of six beautiful girls in "Voices of Spring," a novel creation of the internationally known dancing master, was a very pleasing number.

Many of the Southland's talented artists appeared on the program, among them Miss Ingrid Arnesen Boyd, operatic singer; Miss Toska Tolces, pianist; Sol Hoppi's Hawaiian Trio, the Neapolitan Trio of Grauman's Egyptian Theater; Ben Whitman, violinist; Joseph Biskay, Hungarian tenor; the Balalaika Russian Orchestra; Pauline Becker, danseuse; Otto Lederer, impersonator; Louise Sullivan, vocalist and violinist; Miss Marguerite Sender and James Burroughs, ballad artists of the Metropolitan Theater, and Ruth Roland, vocalist and film star.

Rolph Vessels to Operate in Lumber Trade

Two Carriers Now Idle Will Augment Fleet

The new coastwise freight line to be operated by James Rolph, Jr., between Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland, will get underway shortly after April 1, it was announced yesterday by local representatives of the line.

The Annette Rolph is to be taken over by Rolph in San Francisco today from the McCormick Steamship Company, under which she had operated two years under charter. She will be dry-docked at the Bay City, and proceed to Portland April 1.

The Georgina Rolph, now at Astoria, will sail from there in a day or two and will be turned over to the Rolph interests here April 3, proceeding thence to Portland.

The two vessels will be augmented shortly by the additional steamers Viking and James Rolph, also owned by Rolph for sometime, but laid up in the north.

The vessels will operate in the lumber and general cargo southbound, returning north with general cargo only.

The McCormick Steamship Company will shift several vessels to meet the vacancies through withdrawal of the two chartered Rolph vessels. The Silverado and the Multnomah, now operated between Puget Sound and California ports, will be diverted to the Columbia River service, while the Wapama and the Celilo will be taken off the Columbia River-Los Angeles run and put on the Puget Sound run, possibly not coming this far south.

Eight thousand bunches of bananas from Central America are due on the United American Line freighter Kermit, Capt. Strong, this morning, coming from Hamburg, Antwerp, London and Hull, via Central America. The Kermit has more than 6000 tons for the Pacific Coast, approximately half of which is for here, consisting largely of European cement.

Michael Bernardini, Los Angeles broker, who purchased the former China Mail liner Nile in the San Francisco bone yard last May, has brought suit in the San Francisco courts charging Maurice M. Learner and William Rosenthal with conspiracy to defraud him in the deal. Both are ship wreckers of Oakland. Bernardini asserts he purchased the ship for $90,000 on representations that the craft was seaworthy and that it would pass inspection by officers of hulls and boilers, and that it was fully equipped for a voyage. He charges the vessel was stripped before it was passed over to him and that he discovered the inspectors have condemned it as unseaworthy. The Nile had lain in the bone yards since the China Mail suspended operations three years ago, and was sold to satisfy creditors to Rosenthal & Sons.

Capt. Hans Poulsen, former master of the coastwise liner Yale, and later master of the City of Los Angeles, leaving that ship several months ago on account of protracted illness, has recovered and been transferred to command the liner Harvard, which sailed for San Francisco yesterday with 200 passengers aboard. Capt. Gus Dahlgren, who has been in command of the Harvard, is acting as first officer on that ship temporarily.

Word was received from San Salvador yesterday by local agents of the W. R. Grace & Co., that Capt. F. W. Grundberg, master of the Johnson motorship Balboa, died there after an illness of several days. The vessel and the late master have been frequent visitors here, the last time being only a few days ago.

The round-the-world passenger and freight carrier Mexico Maru of the Osaka Shoshen Kaisha Line, which arrived from the south yesterday, will take on 150 passengers from this port tomorrow when she sails for the Orient. Several hundred tons of freight also are being stored in her holds here.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Rumors current in local shipping circles here today indicate that local operators are unsympathetic with the action of the North Atlantic Far East lines in adopting a minimum rate of $9 a ton on general cargo. It was said that the local operators believe the recent action of North Atlantic Far East lines as uncalled for and unfair to intercoastal lines. It is believed by the intercoastal lines that the action taken by the Far East lines is an attempt to divert business from the Atlantic to the through services.

Tomorrow the United States Shipping Board is scheduled to announce what disposition will be made of the "535" type liners that are being bid for by shipping companies. The Pacific Mail Company is said to be the highest bidders, while the Dollar Line submitted the only cash proposal for taking over the ships.

Freight offerings to and from Mexican ports have increased to such an extent of late that an additional vessel will be placed in this service, out of San Francisco, according to an announcement made here today by Williams Dimond & Co.

The Mexican Line steamer Nayarit arrived here today from Mexican ports with a fair sized cargo.

SEATTLE, March 26.—George E. Correy, veteran cargo surveyor and appraiser, sailed today for the Orient aboard the O. S. K. liner Arabia Maru. He is to spend three months touring Japan and China.

The steamship Eastern Gale is being refitted here as a cannery freighter for three voyages in summer between Seattle and Bristol Bay, Alaska. The acquisition of the vessel from the United States Shipping Board by the Booth Fisheries Company cuts the voyage down to eight days, compared with eighteen to thirty days by sailing ships.

The Munson McCormick coastwise passenger carrier Wapama arrived today and shifted to Tacoma to load outward after discharging cargo here.

TACOMA, March 26.—The Remus of the Latin-American Line arrived this afternoon from west coast ports of South America. The vessel has ore and nitrates to discharge here and will later load outbound freight at the different docks.

The Harrison Line steamer Author arrived this afternoon and will be here several days loading and discharging freight. The vessel has 400 barrels of fire clay among the inbound cargo to unload, besides pig iron and other cargo. Saturday the Author will shift to the smelter to load 1000 tons of copper and then load 300,000 feet of lumber for England.

With a large amount of general freight from San Francisco the Bayside steamer Phyllis arrived this morning and left for Seattle about 4 o'clock. The Diana Dollar of the Dollar Line is due Saturday to discharge oyster shells and other cargo.

The Northland of the Nelson Line, due from San Francisco tomorrow night or Saturday morning, will load a shipment of lumber.

The Amur and Griffco were arrivals today from British Columbia at the Tacoma smelter with ore. The Griffco came from Britannia Beach and the Amur from Stewart, B. C.

PORTLAND (Or.) March 26.—The West Nilus of the Swayne & Hoyt Australian service is expected here next Monday to load 800,000 feet of lumber. The Point Lobos of the same company's Pacific-Gulf service will arrive to take out 600,000 feet of lumber. Oyster shell and other freight is coming here on the Point Lobos.

J. R. Fitzgerald, San Francisco agent for the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, has arrived in Portland on a visit.

With lumber and miscellaneous freight for South American west coast ports, the steamer Maine, represented by Norton, Lilly & Co., cleared Wednesday.

The West Niger was dispatched last night for Dairen and other ports in the North China service of the Columbia Pacific Shipping Company.

SAN PEDRO TO FETE SAILORS

Street Dance and Passes to Theaters to be Given

Fleet Will Hold Open House Until April 3

Air Commander Pleased With Showing at Practice

With the greatest naval demonstration in history a pleasant memory, 15,000 of Uncle Sam's bluejackets today and tonight will make a peaceful assault on San Pedro with a genuine outing and high-jinks as the goal to be attained

Today is the first day on which parties of considerable size have been allowed to visit land. San Pedro civic and fraternal organizations have combined on an elaborate program of entertainment to center about a mammoth street dance tonight. Free theater tickets, free soda water and entertainment are a few of the items to attract the pleasure-seeking gobs. Soldiers and marines will also share in the fun.

The dance will be on Seventh street between Palos Verdes and Center streets. Special music will be furnished by bands and several acts of vaudeville have been obtained.

FLEET TO BE HOSTS

Starting today visiting will be permitted on the battleships from 1 to 5 p.m. daily until April 3. Thousands of Southern Californians are planning to visit the fleet. They will be transported largely on special Pacific Electric trains that have been provided.

With the exception of torpedo practice engaged in by eight battleships and several destroyer squadrons which did not get into action during force practice, the fleet was inactive yesterday. The battleships Mississippi and Nevada went out to sea to have long-range practice, but the visibility was so poor they were unable to fire. This practice will complete the schedule and must be finished by April 3.

COMMANDER PLEASED WITH AIR FORCE SHOWING

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN DIEGO, March 26.—Gratification over the part played by aircraft in the force practice of the United State Fleet in the Santa Barbara Channel Wednesday was expressed today by Capt. Stanford E. Moses, commander of the aircraft squadrons, battle fleet.

"We sent aloft every available plane from the Langley and they carried out their assigned duties with precision and dispatch," said Capt. Moses. "Not a single mishap marred the part played by the airplanes and seaplanes in the maneuvers."

ORPHANS' HOME DRIVE PLANNED

Campaign for New Building to Commence April 6

Immediate Action to Lessen Fire Risk Demanded

Conditions Termed Worse Than at Playa Del Rey

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 26.—After hearing experts testify that the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society buildings in South Pasadena were in a more hazardous condition than the school in Playa del Rey, which burned to the ground with a great loss of life, officers and directors of the county institution today decided to start a campaign to raise $200,000 for the purpose of erecting new buildings on a tract already owned by the society in Altadena.

At the present time the society, the buildings of which have been condemned by the State Board of Charities, faces the crisis of having its doors closed and the 140 inmates turned out.

"If the doors of this institution are closed what will become of these little tots; are they to be turned out into the street? It seems to me that they will be worse off than ever before," said W. A. Brackenridge, chairman of the building committee.

Mr. Brackenridge further declared that he was amazed at the reports of the fire inspectors and felt surprised that the attention of the board of directors of the institution was not directed to the fire hazards long before this.

ACTION DEMANDED

Mrs. Margaret Sirch, representative of the State Board of Charities, read a report from that organization which demanded immediate action on the part of the aid society in providing new quarters for the children. She declared that she had made a personal inspection of the buildings and was sure that if a fire should break out the loss of life would undoubtedly be great. She further intimated that the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society had been particularly slow in bringing the institution up-to-date. The only reason the State board has tolerated the condition this long was because of the excellent training the children received at the hands of the conductors of the institution, Mrs. Sirch declared.

Mrs. Edna Graham of the Public Welfare Commission of Los Angeles county, asserted that because of the criticism directed at the commission when the Playa del Rey school burned, this organization felt it could no longer shoulder responsibility for the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society home. The local institution, she said, was a far worse fire hazard than the beach school.

An immediate need of precaution was stressed by R. L. Dunlap, chief of the Fire Prevention Bureau of Los Angeles county, who declared that the children who now sleep on the third floor of the institution must be brought to the first floor at once. New sleeping quarters must be provided for these children now, he said, as the danger is too great to wait until the new buildings are ready for occupancy.

PLAN FOR CAMPAIGN

Erection of tents in the rear of the institution in which the children might sleep temporarily was sugested by Mrs. M. E. Grimes, superintendent of the school.

"They'd all catch pneumonia if you do," said Mr. Brackenridge. Another suggestion of providing rope-ladder fire escapes was also killed by the fire warden, who said only metal fire escapes are legal.

Earl V. Armstrong, president of the society, outlined a plan whereby the $200,000 now needed to erect the building might be secured. Pledge cards will be circulated among approximately 1000 picked persons, who may make their donations in six payments extending over an eighteen-months period. Each director will be given a number of persons to interview in this regard. Approximately sixty workers from the Junior Aid Society under the leadership of Mrs. Earl Armstrong will assist in raising the fund.

$1000 IS GIVEN

A committee composed of Donald O'Melveny, Mrs. John B. Miller, Mrs. Earl V. Armstrong, John Legatt, Harold B. Landreth and Earl V. Armstrong was appointed to carry on the work of the campaign which will open officially April 6 and continue for two weeks. The organization will next meet on the opening day of the drive at the Midwick Country Club for luncheon.

The first contribution for the new home was received this afternoon from Frank C. Hogan, Pasadena pioneer, for the sum of $1000, it was announced by the president.

The officers and directors of the aid socitay present at the meeting today included:

Earl V. Armstrong, president; Donald O'Melveny, first vice-president; John Leggatt, second vice-president; Robert Fullerton, Jr., third vice-president; Harold B. Landreth, secretary, and Dr. R. M. Paine, treasurer. Trustees: Robert Fullerton, Jr., Mrs. John B. Miller, W. A. Brackenridge, Dr. W. A. Boucher, Harold Landreth, Mrs. A. H. Gates, Dr. R. M. Paine, J. S. Mather, John Leggatt, E. V. Armstrong, Mrs. Harry Gray, Dr. H. M. Coulter, Donald O'Melveny, Robert L. Clifford and Mrs. E. B. Holladay.

Woman Believed Fatally Injured by Automobile

Miss Della Crotty, 70 years of age, of 714 West Fifty-sixth street, was knocked down and probably fatally injured last night at Fifty-sixth and Hoover streets by an automobile driven, according to police, by J. L. Clarke, 948 1-2 West Forty-eighth street.

She was taken to the Receiving Hospital where physicians said she suffered a basal skull fracture and would probably die.

Later she was removed to the Angelus Hospital.

MISS VALLI DENIES REUNION

Says Separation from Her Husband, Demmy Lamson, is Permanent as Far as She is Concerned

Incompatibility is the rock on which the romance of Virginia Valli, motion-picture actress, and Demmy Lamson, manager of stars, was wrecked, according to the admission of Miss Valli yesterday.

She denied there was a trial separation between the two, stating that as far as she was concerned it is permanent and has been since the parting of the ways was reached just before the first of the year.

"No, there is no divorce in view at present," she declared. "If there was one I don't know what would be charged. My husband and I were simply incompatible."

Miss Valli lives with Mrs. Marie Crisp, wife of Donald Crisp, the director, at 623 South Hobart Boulevard. Her husbend lives in the apartment they formerly occupied.

"I think he will soon go to his club, but I am not sure of that," the actress declared.

Only last Sunday Miss Valli returned from the East where she was visiting her mother, who has been very ill. While she was away, Lamson decribed their relations as a "trial separation" and said his wife would return to him when she came back to Los Angeles.

He is a manager and agent for motion-picture actors.

Miss Valli has just signed a contract to make a picture for Edwin Carewe.

Ohio University Teacher to Give Art Course Here

The University of California, Southern Branch, has announced that for the summer of 1925, Ralph Fanning of the department of fine arts at Ohio State University, has been invited to give courses in the history and appreciation of art here.

These lectures are of great value to teachers and others who are unable to pursue an extensive course of study in the fine arts. During the six weeks of summer session students may gain some insight into the principles governing composition of various forms of art and may acquire information which will be helpful in giving them a survey of the entire field of art history.

Mr. Fanning has attained distinction in the art field by reason of his lectures, his work in water color and his books. He is European lecturer for the Bureau of University Travel, and is president of the Columbus Arts League, Columbus, O.

Holding the degree of master of architecture from the University of Illinois, he was able to lend valuable assistance as a member of the Friends' Reconstruction Unit for Devastated France, as well as being a member of the emergency staff for the American Red Cross. He has exhibited at Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and in the international exhibition of the Chicago Institute. He is a holder of the Beckwith-Brown medal in design and of the Robert Wolfe water-color prize.

During the summer of 1924 he lectured for the University of California at Berkeley.

PARSLEY HIS FAVORITE

Wife Says Omission From Soup Caused Mate to Choke Her

Parsley was a favorite dish with G. L. Cousineau, gland doctor, according to a complaint for divorce filed yesterday by Mrs. Ena G. Cousineau. Next to parsley, she said, he loved egg plant for breakfast.

One day she forgot to put parsley in his soup and he retaliated by choking her. A few months afterward she neglected to prepare egg plant for his breakfast and this time he not only choked her but also beat her, she said. In addition, she declared, he was in the habit of accusing her of intimacy with other men. The complaint was prepared by Attorneys Underwood, Burke and Cree of Long Beach.

Judge Gates always brings an expansive smile to the Courthouse with him, but yesterday it was broader than usual.

"Got a full house now," he explained. "Three jacks and a pair of queens."

BLEDSOE HEARS FROM COOLIDGE

President Expresses Thanks for Services

Accepts Resignation from Federal Bench

Candidate for Mayor Now Busy Campaigning

Expressing his appreciation of the services rendered the government by Judge Bledsoe, President Coolidge, in a letter received yesterday by the former judge at his Mayoralty campaign headquarters, 425 South Spring street, accepted the resignation tendered by the judge. The President's letter was as follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE (Washington) March 21, 1925.

My dear Judge Bledsoe:

Your letter of the 13th inst., in which you resign as United States district judge for the southern district of California, effective at midnight of the 24th inst., has been received and your resignation is accepted as tendered.

Permit me to express my appreciation of the services you have rendered the government and to express at the same time my sincere thanks for your very generous commendation of the policies of my administration.

Very truly yours,
[Signed] CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Hon. Benjamin F. Bledsoe
United States District Court,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Former Judge Bledsoe had already received word from the White House by telegraph that the resignation had been accepted, effective at midnight last Tuesday, and so took out his nominating petitions on Wednesday. These were signed by 3700 Los Angeles men and women in a few hours, which was 2700 more signatures than could be filed, and 3200 more than were required to place his name on the primary election ballot. City Clerk Dominguez reported yesterday that the petition had been checked and had been found sufficient, thus completing the legal formalities necessary to place the name of Benjamin F. Bledsoe on the May 5 ballot.

Since Wednesday morning, when he ceased to be a judge of the Federal Court, former Judge Bledsoe has been on the job every day at the campaign headquarters, directing the campaign with Manager George B. Bush, only leaving the office to fill speaking engagements.

At noon today Mr. Bledsoe addresses the Exchange Club at its luncheon at the Biltmore Hotel. This afternoon he will address a new woman's Bledsoe-for-Mayor club which has at its headquarters at 2868 West Sixth street, which will work among the homes in the western part of the city, and tonight the candidate will speak and meet the workers at the district headquarters at 4362 South Hoover street. He will visit all of the fifteen district headquarters many times throughout the campaign.

The weekly meeting of the workers of the women's division of the Bledsoe-for-Mayor campaign will be held this afternoon at the headquarters, 425 South Spring street. At the first meeting last Friday more than 300 women were present. Mr. Bledsoe spoke briefly and then held a reception to meet the women campaigners.

PRIZES FOR FINE FEET AWARDED

Forty-three Young Women Wriggle 215 Toes in Event Given by Chiropodists

"Feet do your duty!" and with that forty-three young women put their best foot forward, 215 toes wriggled into place and the perfect foot search of the Southern Branch, State Association of Chiropodists, in the Knights of Columbus Auditorium last night, was on.

The contest narrowed to fifteen persons, then to four and finally to first and second-prize winners. Mrs. Maude Reid of 3325 Hamilton Way took first prize, a permanent wave and facial treatment at a beauty parlor; Miss Frances Griswold of 2355 Norwalk street, Eagle Rock, second prize, handbag, and Mrs. R. K. Bailey of 906 South Ardmore avenue and Miss Arneal Fox of 4238 South Harvard street took, respectively, third and fourth honors.

The contest took place at a dance for the benefit of the free clinic California College of Chiropody and attended by about 100 couples. Charles F. Kennedy, president of the branch, and eight assistants did the judging—much to the envy of about 100 young men at the party.

Unmasked Thief Gets $900 From Long Beach Man

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, March 26.—An unmasked hold-up man made a haul of between $800 and $900 when he held up W. C. Crawford, a clothing-store proprietor at 1647 Anaheim street, at 10 o'clock tonight.

Crawford told the police that he was just locking up his store for the night, when he was confronted by a man who flourished a revolver and told him to "stick 'em up." After taking a wallet, which Crawford said contained between $800 and $900, the hold-up man cautioned Crawford against making any outcry and then fled in the darkness.

Police were sent out to investigate.

Long-Distance Selling

American goods to the value of about $2,000,000 are now being shipped abroad each month by parcel-post. These figures are encouraging, and prove that the American business man is at last viewing foreign trade in its true light—as "long-distance selling."

4 out of every 5
The fight against Pyorrhea is a fight against overwhelming odds. Statistics prove that four out of every five over 40—and thousands younger, too—pay Pyorrhea's dreaded toll. Will you?

Be on your guard for signs of Pyorrhea

Just as the stability of a building is dependent upon its foundations, so healthy teeth depend upon healthy gums.

Bleeding gums are the first sign of Pyorrhea's approach. Then they begin to recede and the healthy pink color gives place to a pale, whitish tint. Soon the teeth are loosened, pus pockets form and drain their poisons through the system, often causing indigestion, rheumatism, neuritis and many of the other diseases of mid-life.

Let Forhan's help you

Forhan's For the Gums is a most effective agent in the fight against this insidious disease. It contains just the right proportion of Forhan's Astringent (as used by the dental profession) to neutralize oral poison, and keep the gums in a firm, strong, healthy condition. Also, it cleans and whitens the teeth and keeps the mouth sweet, clean and wholesome. Even if you don't care to discontinue your favorite dentifrice, at least start using Forhan's once a day.

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.
